Lansing Flood Damage Reckoned At $50 Million!

By PETE YOST
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Rain-swollen rivers continue to buffet Lansing today. The worst flooding in 28 years has already caused an estimated $50 million damage and forced hundreds to flee their homes.

The Red Cedar and Grand rivers burst through their banks in Lansing following a five-inch downpour that began Friday and continued over the weekend. The rivers are expected to subside to flood level by Tuesday.

Two young Lansing men drowned in the Grand River after they headed out in a small vinyl raft and were sucked under the flooding current. No other injuries were reported.

In Frederic, six persons remain hospitalized and damage is estimated at $500,000 after the season's first tornado blew out the Crawford County town early Saturday morning.

The Lansing zoo and nearby Meridian Township are isolated by waters as high as six-feet on streets.

Among at least 800 area residents sent packing from soggy riverside homes was the director of the State Police, Col. George Halverson.

Gov. William Milliken asked that 14 counties be declared federal disaster areas.

A spokesman said Milliken wired President Ford after Halverson flew over flooded areas to assess damages.

Some 471 National Guardsmen were dispatched to help people in the Lansing and Lapeer areas evacuate water-filled homes.

Lansing Mayor Gerald Graves said more than 800 families would be unable to return to their homes before Tuesday.

Lansing director of Emergency Relief Jim Holcomb estimated damages at $50 million after authorities counted "700 homes and 50 to 100 businesses" damaged by the spring flooding.

The Potter Park Zoo was cut off when roads leading to the zoo became clogged with water. Zoo director Ted Haskall said he feared a bear from the zoo would swim across a moat which normally keeps him captive.

The bear finally was coaxed into an inside cage.

In the plush suburban community of Okemos, some very expensive homes, including Halverson's, were reported flooded.

Many high-level state bureaucrats live in Okemos.

Gleason said raw sewage floating in the water may cause problems and is being monitored by public health officials.

The National Weather Service said the Grand River would be at crest level until Tuesday, while the Red Cedar began to fall Sunday. The rivers meet in Lansing.

The weather bureau said the flooding was the worst since 1947, when water levels were about a foot higher. The flood stage is 11 feet. Officials said the rivers crested at 15.3 feet.

One resident of Lansing's east side, 29-year-old Charles Lover, said he and his wife moved into their river-side home a couple of months ago even though they knew flooding might be a problem.

"But I didn't think it would be this bad," said Lover.

Counties included in Milliken's disaster request were Allegan, Barry, Berrien, Eaton, Genesee, Kalamazoo, Ingham, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Shiawassee, Van Buren, Saginaw and Crawford.

All were hit by flooding except Crawford where the tornado touched down injuring 18 persons and stewing debris everywhere. None of those still hospitalized are in serious condition.

Thieu Resigns; Reds Close In

By GEORGE ESPER
Associate Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — With tears in his eyes, President Nguyen Van Thieu resigned tonight in an eleventh hour bid for a settlement with Communist-led forces who have driven almost to the gates of Saigon.

Thieu bitterly accused the United States of moves that he said "led the South Vietnamese people to death."

The Viet Cong had demanded

Thieu's ouster as a first step toward talks. But some U.S. experts say that fighting in South Vietnam so favors the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, who have taken three-quarters of the country, it is doubtful they would be willing to negotiate even with Thieu gone.

Meanwhile in Paris the Viet Cong called for total U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam and the establishment of a "national concord" regime in Saigon.

Thieu, 52, named Vice President Tran Van Huong, 71, to succeed him and told the nation in a 90-minute television address that the new government "shall take its briefcase to the negotiating table." But there was speculation that Huong, who is in poor health and virtually blind, would resign along with the entire cabinet and that 61-year-old Tran Van Lam, the president of the Senate, would become president.

Huong, in a brief address that followed Thieu's 90-minute speech, called on the South Vietnamese people to unite "because we will die if we do otherwise. If we do not help ourselves, then our hope for the assistance of others is hopeless."

Thieu stepped down as 10 Communist-led divisions threatened Saigon. Radio contact was lost with government forces under heavy attack at Xuan Loc, the gateway to the capital 40 miles east of Saigon, and still another province on the coast 35 miles farther east apparently was about to fall.

"It sounds like a cliché," one State Department official in Washington said. "But Saigon is just hanging there, ripe for the picking. I can't see why they would wait and let the fruit fall when they can just reach for it now."

Thieu acknowledged that South Vietnam could not win militarily, said lack of U.S. support "let the South Vietnamese soldiers die" and termed it an "inhumane act."

"The U.S. Congress says that as long as Thieu is in power, there remains the war, Mr. Thieu is a warlord. I say that is an intention to wash its hands inhumanely. But if I leave in exchange for more aid, then I think I should leave."

Protesters' Suit Asks $1.1 Million

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A suit in which 19 antiwar protesters seek $1.1 million from H.R. Haldeman and others was scheduled to open here today in U.S. District Court.

Haldeman was one-time chief of staff for President Richard M. Nixon.

The plaintiffs, all young persons, claim their constitutional rights were violated when, because of their long hair or unconventional dress, they were denied admission to a public rally in the Charlotte Coliseum at which Nixon spoke. The rally on Oct. 15, 1971, was in honor of evangelist Billy Graham, a native of Charlotte and a friend of Nixon's.

Kavanagh Burial To Be Wednesday

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Thomas M. Kavanagh, the country lawyer who helped bring computer efficiency to Michigan's court system, will be buried Wednesday by an honorary corps of judicial pallbearers.

The state Supreme Court justice died of cancer Saturday night in Lansing's St. Lawrence Hospital. He was 65.

"He was an oldtime lawyer with a modern outlook," said former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who served on the Supreme Court with Kavanagh since 1970.

Kavanagh's ambition in nearly two decades on the state's highest court was to streamline and unify Michigan's court system. He served as chief justice for six of his 18 years on the high court.

Kavanagh underwent surgery last month for the removal of a malignant portion of his intestine. He was readmitted to the hospital Friday night because his condition was weakening, and death came Saturday shortly after 7:30 p.m. with family members at his bedside.

Services were to be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at St. Gerard Church, with burial to follow at St. Joseph Cemetery. The pallbearers will be four grandsons and two nephews, while honorary pallbearers include past and present Supreme Court justice and judges from the state Court of Appeals.

Southwestern Michigan Still Awash After Storm

By AL AREND

Southwestern Michigan county road commission crews remained out in full force today repairing roads damaged from Friday's downpour.

In the wake of Friday's storm, Gov. William Milliken Sunday asked that 14 storm-ravaged Michigan counties, including Berrien, Van Buren and Allegan, be declared federal disaster areas.

Press Secretary George Weeks said the governor sent a telegram to President Ford after State Police Director George Halverson flew over flooded areas to assess the damage.

Locally the hardest hit areas were northern Berrien county, northwestern Van Buren county and southwestern Allegan county, according to county road commission officials.

Paul Kaiser, Van Buren county highway engineer-manager, estimated damage to Van Buren county roads and culverts at $250,000, terming it "the worst flooding" he has seen in his 21 years in the county.

He said the worst damage occurred in South Haven, Covert, Bangor, and Geneva townships.

Kaiser said 4.35 inches of rain was recorded at Bloomingdale following Friday's storm.

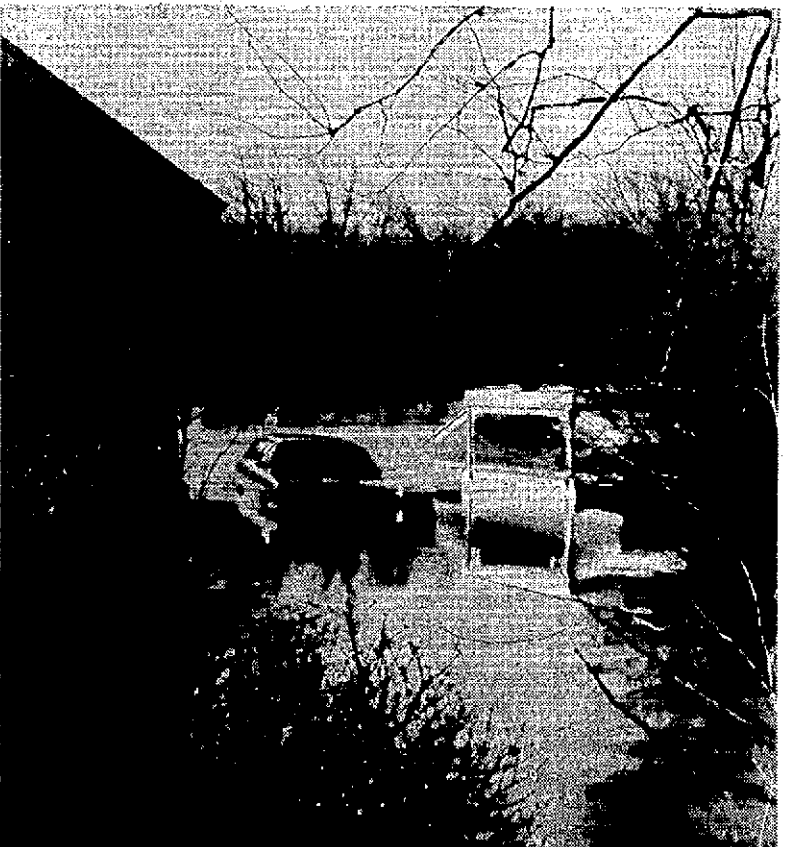

Richard Payne, Berrien county road commission assistant engineer, said Berrien county was hardest hit from Benton Harbor north in Benton, Ilagar, Coloma and Watervliet townships. "We worked Friday night and all day Saturday with the people we had filling in the worst washouts," he said.

Berrien county road commission workers ended their two-week strike yesterday and were back on the job this morning.

Delwin Redder, Allegan county assistant road engineer, reported crews worked all day Saturday filling in washouts and repairing damaged culverts. He said all roads had not been repaired as of this morning.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Commendable Candor From Boss Of The IRS

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Donald Alexander has demonstrated his awareness of the mistakes made by his agency in overstepping its surveillance powers and has adopted the only course which can redeem the agency's full integrity — candor.

Alexander began by acknowledging that the controversial Miami spy operation known as "Operation Leprechaun" had been under the control of the IRS, and not the Justice Department as had been claimed previously. The commissioner promised a full report on Leprechaun within one month.

But that really isn't good enough,

Alexander went on. "There's a real problem of investigating ourselves," he said and urged the joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation to conduct its own investigation of such matters.

It isn't often that the head of the major government agency invites outside investigators to come in and see what his people have been up to. The temptation more often is to cover up or at least gloss over errant behavior.

The commissioner has set an example for other agencies tainted by past disclosures to follow. So far the reaction has been something less than a stampede.

American Revolution Got Rolling By Degrees

Casual students of American history may be wondering why, if 1976 is the official bicentennial year for the United States, there are so many celebrations across the nation already well underway.

For example, why did President Ford and more than a hundred thousand other people gather at Lexington and Concord, Mass., over the weekend?

Well, it isn't a case of jumping the gun on the observance. The American Revolution got rolling by degrees; it did not occur overnight.

Events leading up to the Declaration of Independence and the founding of the Republic occurred over a several-year period. The initial efforts directed toward independence frequently were spontaneous, uncoordinated activities engaged in by small, localized groups.

It is difficult for that reason to say with precision when the American Revolution really began. Even some of the major confrontations of the period, however, occurred well before the year 1776.

The "shot heard 'round the world," made famous by Emerson, was the initial confrontation between American volunteers and the British at North Bridge in Concord, Mass., on April 19, 1775. It is a date fully revered by the people of Concord.

Other events of the Revolutionary period, some of only local significance, already have been observed. Activities honoring thousands more are on agendas for the next year and a half. As reenactment of history unfolds piecemeal, the bicentennial observance demonstrates the scope and variety of unrest which finally led to Independence.

Just Communicating Helps Defeat Cancer

April is the month a Cancer Crusade volunteer comes to call, same as in past years. If you were to ask, "What's new? Any nearer a cure for cancer?" the answer might be, "Yes and no. It depends on you."

That might seem a foolish reply. It's true, though.

There are many reasons for the upturn. Detection has improved. So have radiology, surgery and chemotherapy. But the nearest thing to a cure for cancer is communication, simple people-to-people communication.

That can start when the cancer volunteer calls to deliver a copy of the seven danger signals. If a suspicious symptom shows up, the link in the chain of communication is a call to the family doctor. He'll take it from there.

His last word might be, "There's nothing to worry about; it's not cancer." But if it should be cancer, early detection and prompt attention provide the best means of overcoming it.

It's Spring In Paris

The French are renowned for their sympathy toward love, especially in the springtime. Unless, of course, rats are involved.

Paris in the springtime finds the prime mating season for rats. So the city is in the midst of its annual anti-rat campaign. Policemen post signs and distribute leaflets, urging con-

Sewer workers, metro squads and produce dealers simply will step up their year-long campaign against the rodents. Parisian rats, believed to have migrated from around the Caspian Sea, are particularly despicable. They're small and mean and voracious, capable of eating one-third their weight a day.

Is the annual anti-rat drive having any effect? Apparently. Complaints, or rat-sightings, reported to the Laboratoire des Rats (yes, Paris has one) have declined from a peak about 15 years ago.

The idea of a rat problem kind of blurs the image one has of Paris as a place of love, laughter, good food, and somnolence along the Seine. But no doubt even the anti-rat troops bring a certain French grandeur to their duties.

Can't you see them now, marching to the battle: Allons, enfants de la patrie, le jour de gloire est arrive...

1-94 LOOP, FOE LISTS REASONS

Editor,

I oppose the proposed 1-94 business Loop through St. Joseph township and the City of St. Joseph. The new route would destroy prime land needed for "green belts" or natural preserves. It is neither necessary nor desirable, and it would waste money. Further, instead of enhancing our area, it would add to environmental degradation, including air and noise pollution and scenic blight. In large cities only those businesses and homeowners who cannot move remain near a four-lane highway.

It has been said that we need the road for economic growth, but economic and population growth can not continue forever without less of the pie or a lower standard of living for all.

The long range future of the car is dubious at best; certainly there is a trend to one-car families, fewer trips, buses, and perhaps even trains that certainly are more energy-efficient than cars. The proposed 1-94 Loop can only contribute more problems than it solves.

SHE THINKS KISSINGER IS RED AGENT

Editor,

Pledge of Allegiance by the Multi-National Corporations: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the country that gives me the best deal."

I wholeheartedly agree with Irma Collier's letter of April 14, the fact that Kissinger has been exposed as a Communist agent by Col. Goleniewski, which of course is kept from the average American, unemployment for him is not enough.

F.D.R. told us "things don't just happen in politics, they are planned that way. So was Vietnam. In fact, the whole of southeast Asia will be under Communist rule, as the Gernburg map, which was copyrighted in 1942, and shows that part of Asia in Chinese dominance. Why are the people told the U.S. is fighting Communism when in reality it is headquartered in New York and Washington, with agents like Kissinger running loose.

Conspiring with the enemy is TREASON in any Country. "Give the People Light and they will find the Way." Abraham Lincoln.

The urgent need for a new Lakeshore junior high school facility was sounded Tuesday night by William Nitz, president of the Lakeshore board of education. Nitz, addressing the district's Parent-Teacher-Student association, said current board plans call for a bond issue vote in late September. Fall approval of the issue, according to Nitz, would allow groundbreaking in the spring of 1966 and possible completion of the facility in time for the opening of schools in 1967.

Berrien Hills Country club, Benton Harbor, quickly rounding into shape after being covered for 10 days with flood waters from the St. Joseph river, will be host to one of the five Western Michigan Golf association events scheduled for this summer. Tournament sites for the WMGA meets this summer were chosen Wednesday evening at a meeting of the association members in Grand Rapids. The one-day tournament at Berrien Hills will be held on June 16.

Graham avenue in Benton Harbor is to get a new industry. It was announced today. The General Die Casting & Machinery company, of Chicago, is to be brought here and housed in its own home. The business is the first of its kind in the city and gives promise of becoming a large industry.

A diver is to be employed to take a peek at the sub-structure of the highway bridge over West Main. The Benton Harbor end of the concrete pier above the water is in bad shape and it is feared that below the water the need of repairs is just as great, if not more so. The city commission yesterday spent some time discussing the matter, together with the bridge committee of the St. Joseph city council, Aldermen Hapke and Brunke.

Buchanan — By a vote of al-

Friday evening the faculty of the Benton Harbor high school gave the third annual reception to the graduating class at the residence of Supt. and Mrs. E.A. Wilson. The decorations carrying out the class colors, purple and gold, consisted of violets, yellow roses, carnations, daffodils and hyacinths.

The admission fee to the Dickens readings by Mr. Benjamin Chapin at the Methodist church in Benton Harbor next Monday night will be 25 cents and the pupils of the public schools and college will be admitted for fifteen cents. Reserved seats, which are now on sale at Lowe & Witherspoon's, 10 cents extra.

The store building owned and occupied by Joshua Chatterton at Three Oaks was partly burned Friday morning. The loss is $1,000 on building and contents.

GOD'S WORD IS UNCHANGED

Editor,

In the light of the so-called "new morality", concerning pre-marital sex or people just living together, it should be noted that God's word remains unchanged on this subject. It teaches us in Hebrews 13:4 that: (1) marriage is honorable and the marriage bed undefiled. Sex, when practiced from God's standard will bring no shame, no guilt feelings, and nothing to account for on judgment day. It is a pure and wonderful gift given to men and women who follow God's word. But, (2) whores and whoremongers, the Bible says, God will judge. This means that anyone engaging in acts of sex before they are married are, in God's eyes, whores and whoremongers. The Bible further states that those who do such things will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

If you will turn from this, there is still hope for you.

Tom Tiede Capital Ledger: Profits, Losses

WASHINGTON — Congress employs two men whose job it is to do nothing but run small American flags up and down a flagpole five days a week. The legislators send the flags home to constituents with the assurance they "have flown over the nation's capitol". . . . The $66 billion budget deficit, as currently expected by the administration, would, if it was broken into 31 bills and laid end to end, stretch 6,306,000 miles, or slightly less than the distance between political expedience and economic sanity.

Sociologists are blaming unemployment for the increasing crime statistics, but a savvy FBI veteran is not so sure. "The crime rate rose very rapidly throughout the 1960s," he explains, "and that was one of the — most prosperous U.S. decades in history." . . . About detente, first the good news: the number of soviet diplomats in the United States has doubled (to 1,100) since 1963. Now the bad: 8 of 10 of the total are said to have intelligence duties.

How fortunate it is that only about eight per cent of the bills introduced in Congress ever become law. If the figure were higher, Rep. John Burke would have a better chance to get his "seed bill" passed. Burke wants to encourage vegetable gardens by giving Americans $18 million worth of seed packets. That of course is like encouraging garment making by passing out thread. . . . Just as material is the primary expense in sewing, equipment and fertilizers are in gardening. Anybody who can afford a hoe can afford seeds. . . . Then, sigh, there is Mike Gravel (D-Alaska) who has introduced a resolution in the senate to set aside a week in November in observance of "transcendental meditation". . . . A statistics expert at the U.S. Department of Labor estimates there are between 900,000 and 1 million jobs going begging in this nation of shocking unemployment. One reason: "We have no apparatus to quickly retrain people to the jobs available". . . . The World Health Organization says that at any given moment 47 per cent of Americans are on some form of medicine.

Treasury Secretary William Simon, who is the nation's former energy administrator still urges people to conserve fuel, rides a chauffeur-driven limousine froth office to the White House — a distance of a few hundred feet. The military that treated us to combat triumphs against Kentucky crown recently, now wants to maintain against seagulls along the North Carolina coast. The enemy birds are said to interfere with landing aircraft. . . . Former black militant Floyd McKissick, who embraced Richard Nixon in recent years, now says he "wouldn't rule out" a vote for George Wallace. McKissick is working inside the system now, trying to develop a new town (Soul City) in the South, and his reliance on federal funds mandates he play pussyfoot with almost any potential president. . . . The U.S. government may be the biggest book burner in the world. Last year the Government Printing Office destroyed two million publications rather than cut their prices for sale to the public.

While Congress wrestles with some two dozen proposals to reduce gun usage in the nation, New York State's legislature is considering bills of proliferation. Toll takers already have been furnished gas tanks, new the forest rangers, sanitation police and air pollution inspectors want the same privilege. . . . Under the foreign aid bill, U.S. taxpayers will spend $36 million to help Russian Jews resettle next year.

Supreme Court's Critical Hour

WASHINGTON — It now appears likely that President Gerald Ford will have the opportunity to tip the Supreme Court toward a solid conservative majority for the first time in decades.

The abrupt hospitalization last week of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, 78, indicates that he may not be able to continue on the high bench beyond this term.

Douglas apparently suffered a serious physical setback after a steady but limited recovery from a stroke on New Year's Eve. Informed sources say the aging Justice may never be able to resume a full court workload, in which case he can be expected to resign well before the opening of the new term next fall.

Douglas would leave a liberal vacancy on a Supreme Court that is currently almost evenly divided between civil libertarians and strict constructionists. The four conservative Nixon appointees would become a majority on the nine-man court with the addition of one more vote.

President Ford has given few clues as to his attitude toward the Supreme Court. Most of his political advisers, however, tend to be philosophically conservative. And he is under pressure to please the conservative wing of his party, which is mumbling about supporting ex-Gov. Ronald Reagan against him in the 1976 GOP primaries or establishing a third party.

The President indicated to women's rights advocates privately last fall that he would like to be the first President to name a woman to the Supreme Court; but he has made no formal commitment to do so. One possible appointee is former Rep. Martha Griffiths (D-Mich.), a fiscal conservative and former judge who worked well with her Michigan colleagues when he was majority leader. Another possibility is Bernard Segel, a former American Bar Association president and friend of Chief Justice Warren Burger, who could be expected to vote with Burger on most issues.

Constitutional experts view the next Court appointment as a crisis which will determine the outcome of national social issues for generations. The four Nixon appointees have regularly voted to retreat from the progressive attitudes and social activism of the Warren Court. Justice Lewis Powell denied recently in a speech that he and the three other Nixon appointees vote as a bloc. That is simply not true, except in the literal sense that they may not conspire in advance to vote alike. A New York Times survey of the past two Supreme Court sessions revealed that the four Nixon Justices voted together more than 70 percent of the time.

The Nixon four have occasionally denounced the other Justices in opinions for striking social policy instead of sticking to a narrow, passive interpretation of the law. Recent cases involving constitutional rights for school children illustrate the sharp division of the court.

The Nixon four, plus one swing vote, prevailed in a 1973 Texas case upholding a property tax system that underfunded poor areas and produced well-financed schools in wealthy areas. The pupils were denied equal access to a good education, but the Supreme Court ruled that education is not a constitutional right.

The Nixon four, however, lost two school cases earlier this year in which the liberals and swing votes ruled that school officials may be liable for damages if they violate the constitutional rights of a student in any disciplinary action and that students have the right to due process on any misconduct charges.

Fairplain City Boosters Tell Budget Impact

SOME TAXES WOULD INCREASE

AT RECEPTION: Patrons of "Concert In Ragtime" given Saturday night at St. Joseph high school auditorium, met the artists at a reception at the home of Atty. and Mrs. Patrick Kinney, St. Joseph. By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The Committee for the City of Fairplain has announced that Benton township residents would have no increase in total tax bills under a proposed city budget which would have St. Joseph township residents a 2.6 per cent increase in total property taxes.

Richard Hagenauer, committee chairman, said the total tax bills on a house with a market value of $25,000 in Benton township would be under proposed incorporation $602.33, the same amount as in 1974. Total taxes on a house in St. Joseph township would be $796.76 with the proposed city budget, an increase of $20 or 2.6 per cent more than 1974, Hagenauer said.

The proposed tax rate for the city budget is 7 mills or $7 on each $1,000 of equalized valuation. A home with a $25,000 market value has an equalized valuation of $12,500.

Benton township levied a total of 7 mills in 1974 for police-fire and general operation. St. Joseph township levied 5.4 mills. The proposed city budget amounts to more than 2.6 per cent when compared only to the 1974 St. Joseph township levy, but not when compared to total taxes levied for schools, county, township, water and sewer.

In St. Joseph township, the owner of a $25,000 home paid $378.92 for schools in 1974, $117.16 to Berrien county, $213.18 for water and sewer, and $67.50 for township government, a total of $776.76.

Hagenauer said.

Under the proposed city budget of 7 mills, the total would be $796.76 if the other taxing units had the same rates as 1974, according to Hagenauer.

The owner of a $25,000 house in Benton township paid $378.92 for schools, $117.16 to the county, $18.75 for water and sewer, $67.50 for township government, a total of $602.33, Hagenauer said.

Total taxes under the proposed city budget would be identical $602.33, if other units retained the same rates.

The difference in taxes between $25,000 homes in Benton and St. Joseph township is the $213.18 for water and sewer commitment in St. Joseph compared to $18.75 for water in Benton.

While the Fairplain committee has proposed a budget based on 7 mills in property taxes, a proposed charter would have a tax limitation of 10 mills.

If the maximum under charter were levied, the $25,000 home in Benton would have total taxes of $639.83 or a 6.2 per cent increase. In St. Joseph township, the total taxes would be $834.26 or a 7.4 per cent increase, Hagenauer said.

Everyone Enjoyed Concert In Ragtime

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

It's hard to say who had the most fun at Saturday's "Concert In Ragtime" — the audience or the performers.

The obvious talent of the artists — William Balcom and William Albright — combined with their obvious enjoyment of the ragtime music they have helped revive, came through as a lively and happy evening for a near-capacity audience in the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

The two members of the University of Michigan department of music faculty performed under sponsorship of the U of M Alumnae club of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, with Mrs. Sheldon Lee as chairman.

Proceeds of the concert, according to Mrs. Richard P. Koch, president of the local club who introduced the performers, will go both to the scholarship fund of the local alumnae club and to the scholarship fund of the University of Michigan school of music. Albright and Balcom donated their time and talents for this concert to the scholarship funds.

The two men, performing solo for most of the program but joining together at two pianos and in duet near the close of the evening, displayed the basic principle in ragtime of displaced accents against a regular meter while interspersing the program with music which grew out of ragtime such as the blues, jazz, and boogie-woogie.

In performance they projected the individual character of each piece with varying degrees of tone and touch from the light tinkling sounds of a music box to the bruising pounding of brass knuckles.

One of the highlights of the evening was the performance of "Maple Leaf Rag," written early in ragtime history by Scott Joplin who is considered the greatest ragtime composer.

Another highlight was "Brass Knuckles," a novelty rag composed by Balcom and Albright, where gentle tripping over the keys is interspersed with enthusiastic pounding.

"Gladious Rag," one of Joplin's most perfect realizations of the piano rag form, as well as his "Magnetic Rag" contrasted with the "shout" styles of Eubie Blake's "Charleston Rag" and Luckey Roberts' "Spanish Venus" in tango style and "Music Box Rag."

Musie from three of the best known ragtime composers — James Scott, Artie Matthews, and James P. Johnson — included Scott's "Pegasus Rag," "New Era Rag," and Troubadour Rag; Matthews' melodic "Pastimes No. 2" and Johnson's "You've Got To Be Modernistic," "Carolina Shout," and "Snowy Morning Blues."

Balcom's original "Meatloaf Blue" in encore brought shouts of laughter from the audience — not only from the words sung by the two artists but by their humorous antics in performance as well.

The current revival of ragtime — certainly America's music — finds a continued impetus in the performance of two of its most popular proponents — William Balcom and William Albright.

Henderson 'Out' As Appointee

Charles F. Henderson said this morning he will withdraw his name as a candidate for appointment to a vacant commissioner-at-large seat on the Benton Harbor city commission.

Henderson, a Benton Harbor high school teacher, said he believes he will move to California during the summer. Henderson's name was presented last week by Commissioner Charles Yarbrough as a replacement for the resigned Edward Merrill, but action was tabled until tonight.

Henderson lost a close race last November to incumbent Ray Mittan for 44th district legislator.

History Of BH To Be Published

A souvenir book on the history of Benton Harbor will be published as part of the observance of Benton Harbor Week May 25-31, according to Mayor Charles F. Joseph.

Benton Harbor Week will be "a time for appraisal and appreciation of Benton Harbor" as stated in a mayoral proclamation.

Letters soliciting advertising for the souvenir book have been sent to business people. Proceeds from the publication will pay cost of the book and other expenses incurred during the observance, according to the mayor's office.

In the letter, the mayor said:

"I am hoping that the culmination of this participation will help to strengthen the unity and support of our city spiritually and economically, and bring about an awareness by our citizens of our greatest potential for growth and development which lies within each individual person."

The sale will include new apparel, donated by merchants over the five-county area, and other items, donated by individuals. Summer wear for men and women wear will be stressed, Mrs. Beasley was joined on the sale committee by her husband, Jerry Beasley, and Mrs. Anna Miller of Watervliet. The association each November holds a pre-Christmas sale of furniture, toys and other items.

Lakeshore Businessmen To Hear David Stockman

David A. Stockman, executive director of the U. S. House of Representatives Republican Conference, will address members of the Lakeshore Chamber of Commerce Wednesday noon at McGrath's restaurant, Stevensville.

John Wilk, chamber treasurer, said Stockman will cover areas of national government that will be of special interest to businessmen in the Lakeshore area.

Stockman, a native of St. Joseph, is a graduate of Lakeshore High school, Michigan State university and at present is a Fellow at Harvard university's Institute of Politics.

As a student at Harvard in 1970 Stockman interrupted his studies to take a position with Rep. John B. Anderson, chairman of the House Republican conference. In January, 1972, Anderson promoted Stockman to executive director of the conference. At age 25 Stockman thus became the youngest person ever to hold what is one of the most important Republican staff positions in the House of Representatives.

CWU To Celebrate May Fellowship Day

Church Women United of the twin city area will observe May Fellowship Day Friday, May 2, at 9 a.m. in First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph.

Tickets for the annual breakfast are $1 and are available in local churches.

Theme of this year's fellowship day is "Open to Live Fully." Speakers will be Judy Companion, matron at the Berrien county jail, and Lanier Watson, chief probation officer for district court, and staff.

Every will be provided.

Mrs. Earl Blaker is chairman of the committee. Committee members are Mrs. Richard Krieger, Mrs. Jane Schuett, Mrs. Lawrence Grover, Mrs. Ray Whitcomb and Mrs. William Nance. Mrs. Karl Schlachach will direct the choir.

This year's theme, "Open to Live Fully," is an invitation to experience wholeness as persons, living life to the full, through personal growth and sharing in the lives of others. For Christian women this also means becoming open to those who have been damaged by society or cast out because of past acts, and to those who have been deprived because of economic circumstances, she says.

Church Women United is committed in the 1970s to open opportunities for women in transition. Mrs. Blaker says that in an agenda that includes a full life for all, they will endeavor to broaden the consciousness of women, affirming their full personhood; to strive to rectify the injustices which saddle many women with educational, and physical handicaps; to assist women in transition situations — housing and jobs for families moving from poverty to control of adequate incomes; re-entry of those handicapped by prison records.

Children in each class at the school will demonstrate various forms of art work.

A brief business meeting will be held, according to Mrs. Clifton Nelson, president.

On May Fellowship Day,

Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic women in 2,000 local units of Church Women United will celebrate a litany of dedication to be "Open ve Fully," according to Mrs. Blaker. In many communities the focus of the worship service will be on "Women and the Prison System" or "Women in Poverty," she says. For instance, in place of a message or sermon, there may be panel discussions on women and prisons. Perspective on the local aspects of criminal justice will be presented for ex-prisoners, prison wardens, agency professionals or volunteers in this field. Emphasis will be placed on specific steps that need to be taken on needed reforms, pending and desired legislation, direct services to offenders, community programs, and alternative systems.

As part of the May Fellowship Day celebration, local units of Church Women United, through their Ecumenical Action, will seek, according to Mrs. Blaker, practical yet flexible ways to carry through workshops on women and prisons, women and poverty, or other areas of relevance to the local community.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Nest Getting Crowded

Dear Ann Landers: We have two grown sons (mid-20s) who could hardly wait to leave home and get away from their square parents. They wanted complete freedom to do their own thing. So off they went with our assurance that we loved them and they could always come home if things got rough.

That was five years ago. They have come home several times, separately, and a couple of horrible times when their "homecoming" coincided.

The first time they returned we were glad to see them — relieved that they were O.K.

True, they brought their lifestyles with them — TV from midnight 'til dawn and sleeping past noon. They spent hours on the phone (including long-distance which we paid for). We finally insisted they get jobs, but both boys were highly insulted when we suggested that they contribute something to the food bills. Eventually they took off again.

To date they've been home four times after having traveled all over the U.S.; holding some good jobs but quitting when they became bored with the straight life. They are both home at present, sponging off Mom and Dad.

We are sick of it. We never thought we could ever say to our own sons, "Keep moving. We can't stand your freeloading any longer." But we DO feel this way and it's killing us.

We thought we raised our sons to stand on their own two feet — church, paper routes, jobs after school and savings accounts. We tried to set a fine example by being good citizens. But something didn't take. What's the answer, Ann? — The Old Folks At Home (Columbus, Ohio)

Dear Folks: What's the question? Should you feel guilty in case you are wondering if I because you've told your sons the free hotel is no longer operating? Forget it!

Your big mistake was not establishing the ground rules after the first "homecoming." To allow grown men to watch TV all night and sleep 'til noon doesn't square with the way they were raised.

Now that the safety net has been removed, your sons will have to make it on their own or else. Home can be a port in a storm, once, but to let grown men feel they can fall in and freeload whenever they get bored working is a very destructive and crippling mechanism. Would you believe some parents use this technique to keep their kids tied to them forever?

Tired Of Sex

Dear Ann Landers: I am 36 years old, considered attractive and am normal in every respect. My husband is 39. I admire him as a person and am very thankful that he has given me two lovely daughters, but — I would appreciate it if he didn't make any more sexual demands on me.

In case you are wondering if I have another love interest, let me assure you I have not. I spent most of my time at home cooking, baking, cleaning and sewing for the girls. My husband is a great reader of books.

He is average-looking, neat about his person and never goes anywhere at night without me. We have a nice marriage — no fights.

I guess what I'm asking is this: Is it all right for me not to want any more sex? Please give me your opinion. — Don't Need It

Dear D.N.I.: It's all right with ME. What does your husband say? If he's content, you have no problem. If he complains, however, you'd better see a doctor and find out why at 36 you have no sex drive. It could be physical. And if it's psychological, you'd better look into THAT.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

My husband has "bundle branch" block of the heart. I don't understand the condition even though the doctor has tried to explain it.

Mrs. L.Z., Ohio

Dear Mrs. Z.: Electrical impulses constantly pass through the muscle of the heart, and are responsible for the rate and rhythm of the heartbeat.

These electrical vibrations are recorded on the electrocardiogram, the machine used for the diagnosis of many heart conditions.

The spread of these electrical impulses can be blocked by some defect. When this occurs, abnormal patterns are seen on the ECG. This is known as a "bundle branch block."

There are different kinds of bundle branch blocks. They vary in importance and severity. Before any treatment can be started, the exact reason for the interference with normal electrical conductivity through the heart muscle must be established.

Can emotional problems be responsible for lower back pain?

Mrs. G.J., La.

Dear Mrs. J.: I have repeatedly pointed out that the emotions play a role in all physical illnesses.

There is no separation of the body and the mind. They interact with each other and affect each other. Although it is possible that low back pain may be emotional, in origin, it must be emphasized that there must be a complete study in order to locate its exact cause. And it must be emphasized that low back pain must not be automatically attributed to an emotional cause when a physical cause is not immediately found.

Far too many people are condemned to a psychological diagnosis, only because the physical origin of low back pain has evaded diagnosis.

Can tiny spider veins of the legs be treated by injections?

Mrs. L.M., N.H.

Dear Mrs. M.: Larger varicose veins of the legs can, in some instances, be treated by injecting them with sclerosing solutions. The very tiny "spider" blood vessels that are seen in some women cannot, however, be satisfactorily injected and removed by the same type of treatment.

Many people use a covering cosmetic rather than get involved with complicated forms of treatment.

A Great Relationship

My mother-in-law and I have a great relationship. She calls me Edna and I call her on her birthday, Mother's Day and Christmas.

At the wedding when she insisted they put a funeral flag on the tender of her car and drove with her lights on, I sensed somehow I was not what she would have chosen for her son. But God love her, she has a sense of humor and somehow we've all survived. She has accepted me for what I am. A mistake. And I have learned to live with her through the miracle of sedation.

One of her idiosyncrasies, however, I will never adjust to. I call it her Last Breath Performance.

Check this. I am driving the car and she is sitting beside me. Out of the clear blue sky, I hear her suck in her breath, moan slightly and slump, steadying her head with her hand. I wait, but she doesn't exhale.

The first time this happened, I figured (a) she was leaving the car on a permanent basis; (b) I had closed the electric windows on a gas station attendant and was towing him by his fingers; or (c) we were being followed by a tornado funnel.

Instinctively, I jammed on the brakes of the car, nearly hurling her through the windshield, turned around, grabbed her shoulders, and shouted hysterically, "What's the matter?"

"Damn it," she said. "I just remembered I forgot to lock my back door."

During subsequent drives, I was to learn that she gasped and groaned at girls in shorts, roses in full bloom, a half-stick of gum discovered in her raincoat, and the realization that tomorrow was her sister-in-law's birthday.

She didn't limit her Last Breath Performance to the car. When she watched television or read the newspaper, she would inhale noisily, freeze, put her hand over her mouth and say, "Where will a pleasant boy like Dick Cavett find work?"

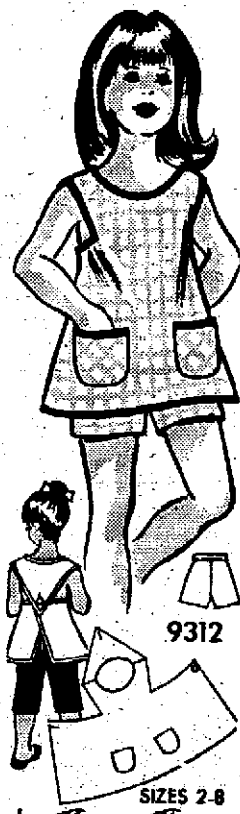

I pride myself in being able to live in peace with my mother-in-law, and she puts up with me. The other day we were driving together when she sucked in her breath, clutched her purse and mumbled, "Oh, my."

Figuring she had just remembered a dental appointment, I kept moving and promptly smacked into a truck pulling out from the alley.

She shook her head and made a clicking noise with her tongue. "I tried to warn you, Edna, but you wouldn't listen."

"Face it, Mother," I said. "I'm unstable."

Oswald: "I'm sure he was young, but I can't go for that up-and-coming good bridge player designation. Didn't he see that it was up to him to put his king of spades right on his partner's queen?"

Jim: He did see it. The moment his partner shifted to a club, he turned to me and said, "I guess you think I'm a trifle worse than a normal halfwit."

Oswald: "If he saw it himself and was ready to blame himself that quickly, there is plenty of hope for him. Young players as well as some old players tend to play carelessly. If this hand teaches him to be particularly careful in the early play there is plenty of hope for him to get into the expert class."

Jim: "I think he will. I remember you taught me that the way to improve was to be as hard on myself as possible."

Farmers' Questions Get Fast Answers From 'Cynthia'

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Blinking lights and whirring dials of computers are replacing a finger in the wind and moss on the shady side of the tree as a way to forecast farm fortunes.

University and University of Michigan scientists, is tied in with farmers in 17 states from New Hampshire to Montana. Telephone calls from local farm extension agents or the farmers themselves ring up Cynthia like a sorceress.

She answers questions about corn or soybeans and can find out if it is economical to participate in a government farm program, if you can afford to buy land, a bigger planter or tractor.

The program, launched four years ago by Michigan State

The computer knows if you should rent land or hire additional help, what varieties to plant, which fields to plant first, when to plant and harvest and if it's time to do fall plowing.

A touch-tone phone also can be used under a system which assigns different numbers to different questions. A voice actually comes over the other end of the phone to ask farm questions when touch-tone is used. Usually, farm officials such as county extension agents do the transmitting, although farmers in North Dakota are considered sophisticated enough to input their own coded questions from their homes in many cases, Harsh says.

To keep current, the computer recently was modified to tell growers of some crops how to make the most money even though fertilizer prices are up and fertilizer is in short supply.

Scientists are now programming Cynthia to tell farmers if a new state law on land-use taxation will benefit them.

"The law went into effect Jan. 1. In two or three weeks the computer will take data from each farmer and determine if he will be helped or not," Marsh said. Farmers could receive tax breaks by promising to keep their land in agricultural production for a decade.

Didn't Wait For Doctor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — John McGee, the self-confessed professional killer accused of murdering his wife after his release from a state psychiatric hospital, sought psychiatric help before the slaying.

But officials at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor said McGee left hurriedly March 19 after he was told it 28, was arrested and charged with murder. McGee was found innocent by reason of insanity last June for a December, 1973 slaying. He was released March 14 from the state Center for Forensic Psychiatry when a jury ruled he could not be held under the new state mental health laws.

Under a recent state Supreme Court ruling, persons found innocent of crimes by reason of insanity must be released unless it is proven that the person is still mentally ill and also dangerous to others.

SOMETHING'S ALWAYS COOKIN' DOWN AT DUNKIN' DONUTS.

Producers, Consumers: Interdependent 'Enemies'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Producers and customers under the American system "are not enemies, but partners," President Ford said in a speech at Concord, N.H., but the statement really applied to an ideal rather than a reality.

It is true that you can't have consumers without producers, and that most people are both producers and consumers, but somehow the lines have been drawn that separate people emotionally into one or the other category.

Each feels the other enjoys unfair advantages that should be restrained. Each attacks the other while remaining conscious of the fact that they cannot exist except in relation to each other.

Complicating rather than clarifying the relationship is the role played by government. Each category calls upon government to be its ally. Each tries to state its case through rigid legislation.

Maybe this is considered competition, but the end result isn't competition but the reduction of it. There is widespread agreement today that much marketplace legislation is counterproductive.

Various agencies and laws maintain prices higher than they might be with free competition — the Interstate Commerce Commission; the Federal Aviation Administration; public utility commissions; fair trade laws.

The latter, which prevail in 38 states, permit manufacturers to set the retail price of their product and, in some instances, permit them to refuse goods to outlets that try to cut prices.

All in all, the President said, government regulation costs every American $2,000 a year, a figure whose origins he didn't reveal. The precise figure might be disputed, but not the fact. It has been amply demonstrated that much regulation is wasteful.

But it isn't only consumers and academicians and government officials who seem to have lost sight of the mutual dependency of producers and consumers. In their zealous efforts to sell, some producers overemphasized consumption.

It is only recently that industry has made any important effort in its advertising to stress the importance of production. Almost every ad was a plea to consume more — toothpaste, cereal, autos, travel, cosmetics.

All day long, day after day, the American public was exhorted to buy, and understandably, because that was the way producers made their living. But did they oversell the notion?

Today we are known as a nation of consumers. This is the consumer society — not the producer society.

The realization that the massive production of the United States was, in the process, damaging the environment of consumers has further sharpened the line.

Something had to be done to reduce pollution and ecological destruction. Few people will disagree. But some critical observers now believe the country might have hamstrung production by too much heavy-handed regulations.

Some regulations to protect the environment have, for example, led to layoffs. Regulations to make automobiles safer have led to higher car prices. And attempts at legislating the good life for consumers has led to higher taxes.

Can there be more proof, as the President attempted to point out, that what affects one group affects the other — that producers and consumers are one and the same?

'Hair-Curling' Shortage Of Electricity Is Feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of major industrialists, including the chairman of General Motors, provided a generally optimistic economic analysis Sunday — although one warned of a possible power shortage.

Power Co., warned of the possibility, in 1979 or 1980, of "a power shortage in the United States that will make your hair curl."

who really know something about the business go ahead and produce the energy the country so badly needs."

The economic forecasts given were generally more favorable, however, with Murphy commenting that the economy has "bottomed out and that we ... already are seeing signs of a resurgence in our business."

Shapiro said his business has snapped back just in the last two weeks and Wood predicted that "retail sales will strengthen as the year progresses."

Jones suggested that the economy may reach a new plateau on a lower level than in the past "but our considered opinion is the third quarter will see the bottom and toward the end of the fourth quarter we should be pulling out."

BOCA RATON, FLA. City Wants Image Downgraded A Bit of the Boca Raton Hotel and Club rents for $750 a night, a double room along U.S. 1 goes for $14.

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — This picturesque city, advertised as the millionaires' resort land, is on an anti-image campaign to let people know it has problems too.

"People read all the publicity and think Boca Raton is too expensive a place. It's not true," says jewelry store manager Elaine Allen, who's spearheading the Chamber of Commerce drive for a new image.

Nor did it say that although Cadillacs and Mercedes file into the neatly landscaped Royal Palm Shopping Plaza, many more Fords and Volkswagens head for three new discount department stores that opened this year.

"A three-pound roast costs the same here as it would in Fort Lauderdale."

According to the Chamber of Commerce, a number of small businessmen have gone broke because they overestimated the wealth of the city.

To convince the outside world that Boca Raton isn't exclusive, the city council has been striving to add low and moderate-income housing. A few council members are even trying to sprinkle Boca Raton's black population through the city, rather than confine it to a single neighborhood.

In addition, the city's growth cap on population density is being challenged in the courts and the Boca Raton welfare office processed 300 cases last month.

Retiree Bob Davidson said he was so angry over the publicity that he took action.

Davidson challenged Porta Bella, demanding the company to produce the "every 43rd millionaire" or approximately 907 millionaires among the city's some 50,000 population.

The ads read "Boca Raton: Where Every 43rd Person is a Millionaire" and proclaimed the city as the place "where it's difficult to drive without getting the distinctive feeling that only millionaires live here."

The company couldn't. The ad was withdrawn.

But the publicity did not point out that although the penthouse

Auto Blows Engine In High Speed Police Chase

A car was demolished and another auto damaged when its engine blew out during two separate police chases in Berrien county over the weekend.

Troopers Ron Olson and Joe Van Oosterhout reported the chase began when they tried to stop an auto on I-94 near I-196 in Benton township.

Police reported the chase ended abruptly when the fleeing auto's engine blew out near Lawrence in Van Buren county about 20 miles from the start.

State police from the Benton Harbor post reported they issued a total of 72 traffic tickets, mostly for speeding, during the weekend.

Included was an auto chase Saturday about 8 p.m. in which speeds of 120 miles an hour were reached.

attempting to flee a police officer. Also taken into custody were three passengers. Arrested on charges of possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle were Christopher Wesley, 17, and Byron P. Brown, 17, both of Robbins, Ill. Also arrested was Mary E. Hollis, 18, Chicago, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Benton Home Extensively Damaged By Sunday Fire

Benton township firemen reported a home at 406 Urbandale avenue was extensively damaged by fire Sunday.

Firefighters reported a flammable liquid apparently had been poured throughout the floors of the house. Occupant of the single family dwelling was listed as Mary Jamison. No one was injured during the fire. Firemen responded to fire at 9:20 p.m.

The driver, David A. Popke, 22, Napier road, was treated and released for apparent minor injuries Memorial hospital. He was ticketed for reckless driving.

Lottery May Add $5 Game

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lottery officials are considering a new $5-a-ticket game which could pay a top prize of $500,000. Lottery director Gus Harrison said officials believe there "might be room for a higher priced game," but he said no starting date has been proposed and no breakdown of prizes has been established. Harrison said those who wouldn't want to spend $5 still could play the 50-cent and $1 games. Clubs and other organizations could be among those most likely to use a high-priced game, with each member contributing a portion of the total ticket price.

Chrysler Compacts Planned

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is beginning development of two new autos to bolster its small-car lines, including a subcompact with front-wheel drive for introduction in 1979, a company source says. Both the subcompact and "a shrunken compact for 1978" would be smaller than any other U.S.-built cars Chrysler has offered. The Associated Press has learned. The new Chrysler cars are not yet named and their projected cost is not known. The compact is scheduled to come off the drawing board and go into the preprototype stage in July, the source said. The subcompact is likely to remain in the designing stage for another year.

Auto Upturn Is Predicted

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto executives are increasing car production, calling back some workers today and predicting an end to the industry's worst slump since World War II. "The economy has bottomed out," said General Motors Chairman Thomas A. Murphy on Sunday. "We already are seeing signs of a resurgence in our industry." Such signs are at best obscure. The traditional spring upturn has not yet arrived, and analysts who predicted it would come this month now look hopefully towards May. Despite continued poor sales, auto chiefs have been traveling around the country lately to spread the encouraging word and they remain doggedly optimistic, citing signs of recovery in the economy.

Heroin Addiction On Rise

DETROIT (AP) — Heroin addiction in Detroit and most other large American cities is on the rise again, government and medical officials report. The recent trend represents a sharp reversal of the downward trend health officials were citing just a year ago, although some drug experts say the addiction rate never declined in the first place. Dr. Edward Leibson, director of Wayne County's Bureau of Substance Abuse, says the addiction trends are "up, up, up." He said clinics in Wayne County had 2,000 unused treatment slots late last summer. Now, he says the capacity to handle 8,000 addicts is filled and overfilled. County addiction clinics dispensing mostly methadone were at 88 per cent capacity a year ago, but now are running 81 per cent, he said.

Michigan Tops In Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan ranks first among the states in dollar volume of export goods, and second to Ohio in the number of export-related jobs, according to U.S. Commerce Department figures. Federal statistics for 1972 listed Michigan exports at $3.2 billion, compared to $2.8 billion for Ohio, said Lathar Koerber, director of the Cleveland World Trade Association. Ohio's export-related jobs numbered 66,880, and Michigan's 56,000 jobs, he said. The job of gathering and analyzing export data keeps the Commerce Department about two years behind events. World trade experts in Cleveland contend privately that Ohio should be first in dollar volume as well as in jobs, claiming Michigan's figures are artificially inflated by auto trade with Canada.

GOING HOME: Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty, America's richest expatriate, said at his home in Guildford, England, Saturday that it is time to go home for something even his money cannot buy in England — good weather. Now 82, Getty told newsmen invited to his two million dollar estate that the English winter bothers him more than Britain's rising taxes. He said that "business permitting" he expects to move to his 65-acre property overlooking the Pacific at Malibu, Calif., within the next year. (AP Wirephoto)

Does Your Face Feel Like It's 'Falling'?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Man's jaw is getting smaller, his chin is receding and his teeth are getting more crooked, says a University of Michigan scientist.

"Our whole facial structure below the eyes is falling to pieces," says Dr. James E. Harris, chairman of the department of orthodontics. "When we see a person with perfect teeth, it's so rare that we take pictures."

Harris has spent the past decade studying the teeth of ancient and modern Nubians, a genetically distinct tribe of people who lived along the banks of the Nile River for thousands of years.

He began his study to determine why so many people — particularly Americans — suffer from malocclusion, or "bad bite."

Harris and his colleagues studied the Nubians, who exhibit the facial features of Caucasians and the bone structure of black Africans, because skeletal remains dating back to 200-1500 A.D. were available.

The scientists compared the dental and skeletal records of modern Nubians with those of their ancestors.

Harris said the primary reason man is the only animal regularly suffering from malocclusion is his jaw is growing smaller. His teeth are getting smaller, too, but at a far slower rate.

Thus, teeth crowd into an undersized jawbone and the consequences are jammed, crooked teeth.

Normally, genetic changes harmful to a species — like too-small jaws — are not reproduced because the changed animal usually does not survive to breed.

But with civilization and softer foods, children with malocclusions have survived and passed on defective genes to their children.

"The cranio-facial system is the only system in the body that can completely collapse and you can still reproduce," said Harris.

Harris found that the average Nubian's teeth are not nearly as crooked as the average American's. The reason may be the greater mix of racial groups in America, he said.

"You take people with long heads, round heads, square heads and you throw them all together, you're asking for trouble. You're asking for a harmonious face from a series of genes that are not programmed to produce a harmonious result."

"It's remarkable we look like humans," he said.

Harris foresees a gradual worsening of man's teeth over the next several thousand years.

Showdown Week At Crestwood Future Of Teachers Is Clouded

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — The jobs of some 170 teachers are on the line this week in the Crestwood School District. School Superintendent Robert Rutilla said the teachers, who were fired and then rehired after a controversial strike last winter, will not be allowed to come to work Friday.

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission said it would seek to postpone the move. And, despite Rutilla's statement, the school board denied the teachers would be locked out or that a school shutdown was planned.

School Board President Frank J. Slupczynski said the district was trying not to interrupt classes but also attempting to "protect its legal position."

The statement did not deny the teachers would be fired. The board said it offered to keep teachers on the payroll until July 11, when classes end, and also offered to postpone a decision on firing until after that date.

However, the board said attorneys for the teachers rejected those proposals.

The board is now faced with the prospect of having to fully implement the Supreme Court decision on April 25 to remain within the parameters of the law ... the statement said.

One-hundred-eighty-four Crestwood district teachers were involved in a long and bitter contract dispute last fall and winter before their late December dismissal.

Lower courts ruled the firings illegal, but the school board's action was approved by the state Supreme Court on April 4. The decision takes effect Thursday.

Rutilla said Saturday the plan is to close schools Friday and reopen with a new staff on Monday.

But MERC Chairman Robert Howlett said the commission plans to seek an injunction in Wayne County Circuit Court to postpone the lockout.

Commission officials say they want to rule on unfair labor practice charges before the Supreme Court decision takes effect.

Erwin Ellman, an attorney for the fired teachers and the Crestwood Teachers Association, said he plans to ask the state Supreme Court to reconsider its decision.

Supreme Court decisions take effect 20 days after their issuance.

The Crestwood School Board in Dearborn Heights fired the teachers after they ignored a court order to return to work. Since then, four teachers have been reinstated and several others have resigned.

During their first dismissal, the teachers were replaced by quickly hired instructors, who were dismissed when the original teachers got their jobs back after a Wayne County judge ruled the firings illegal.

Michigan Tornado Injures 18

FREDERIC, Mich. (AP) — Six persons remain hospitalized today and damage estimates are half a million dollars after the state's first tornado blew through this northern Michigan town Saturday.

Some 18 persons were injured when the twister touched down in Crawford County and left authorities to clean debris in Frederic.

Those hospitalized were in Grayling. Nine were in serious condition. Thirteen persons were treated and released Saturday, officials said.

County officials estimated damages at $500,000 and said 12 houses and four businesses which were destroyed by the storm. Other buildings sustained heavy damages.

Viet Aid Decisions Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, having let President Ford's deadline for Vietnam aid pass, is expected to make key decisions this week on aid to beleaguered South Vietnam and the possible use of U.S. troops in evacuations from that country.

The Senate takes up today a $200 million humanitarian-evacuation package, with a final vote anticipated Tuesday. The House takes up Tuesday a $327 million relief-evacuation plan with less restrictions on the use of U.S. armed forces, compared to the Senate bill. President Ford had asked Congress to approve $722 million in emergency military aid and $250 million in humanitarian aid for South Vietnam by last Saturday.

Over 200 Lives At Stake

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 200 lives are at stake as the Supreme Court prepares to hear an argument that the death penalty is unconstitutional because it is cruel and unusual punishment.

If the court makes a broad ruling that the death penalty in any form is unconstitutional, more than 200 prisoners on death rows in prisons around the United States would be spared. The court is hearing oral arguments today in the appeal of Jesse T. Fowler, a 27-year-old janitor from Raleigh, N.C., who shot and killed a friend in July 1973 after an argument that started in a dice game.

Weapons Seized In D.C. Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — An assortment of handmade weapons was seized by guards after a 17-hour inmate uprising in which a dozen persons were taken hostage and later released unharmed at the District of Columbia Jail. Delbert C. Jackson, D.C. corrections director, said a shakedown of prisoner cells Sunday yielded several hand-fashioned metal and wooden clubs but no guns or knives. Inmates complaining of conditions at the jail took control of a cellblock about 1 a.m. Saturday and seized 12 hostages, including 11 guards and a male nurse. One of the guards was freed about noon and the remainder were released Saturday evening after a negotiated end to the uprising.

'The Wiz' Big Award-Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Wiz," a swinging black musical based on one of childhood's favorite fables, and "Equus," a taut British drama about a youth crazy over horses, are Broadway's champion shows of the 1974-75 season.

Top individual winners of the coveted silver medallions for "outstanding achievement" which were announced during elaborate Tony award ceremonies Sunday night included Ellen Burstyn, repeating her Oscar triumph; and in joint citation, John Kani and Winston Ntshona. Angela Lansbury and John Cullum were named the year's star musical performers.

Nixon To Give Tapes Away

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former President Richard M. Nixon says that if the courts permit, he will give the White House tapes which forced his resignation to a planned Nixon Presidential Library at the University of Southern California. Announcement of plans to build the library to house tapes, Presidential papers and materials from other periods in Nixon's career was made jointly Sunday by the university and the former chief executive. The acquisition of presidential materials by the library is contingent upon a successful challenge to legislation requiring that all Nixon's presidential materials remain in Washington, D.C.

Mail Hike Hangs In Balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of mailing a letter is in the balance as contract talks begin between the Postal Service and four unions representing 800,000 workers.

Postal officials have said the cost of the settlement will help fix the size of the postal rate increase planned later this year.

In the talks that begin today, the unions are determined to win a hefty hike in wages and benefits in what the Ford administration says is "the most important collective bargaining agreement" this year.

Because the settlement will be watched closely by other unions facing negotiations later this year and in 1978, the Council on Wage and Price Stability has announced it will "monitor" the talks for their potential inflationary impact.

Shell Information Series: Motor Oil

"Whether you use Shell or not, I can help you get the right motor oil for your car"

By Bruce Boswell, Shell Staff Engineer, Lubricants

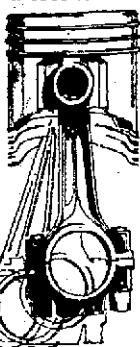

Bruce Boswell

You have to know more than a good brand name to get the right motor oil for your car and get all the protection it has to offer.

Motor oil is your engine's life blood. The type of oil you use and the way you use it can help you get thousands of extra miles without a major engine repair.

Oil's enormous job

At 55 mph, each piston in your engine moves up and down inside its cylinder about 35 times a second. It travels about a quarter of a mile for every mile you drive. When you step on the gas, the piston rods push against the crankshaft with a pressure of more than a thousand pounds per square inch.

A film of motor oil thinner than this newspaper page separates these parts and keeps them from grinding each other to pieces.

Besides this lubricating job, a motor oil should clean the engine, help cool it, and protect against rusting and wear. With all this work to do, your motor oil deserves your attention.

SAE 10W, SAE 30, etc. What those numbers really mean

Those are viscosity grades. They tell how thick the oil is. The higher the number, the thicker the oil.

The SAE stands for the Society of Automotive Engineers who set up the grades. The W means it's for cold weather use.

When starting an engine in cold weather, a thin oil like 10W will flow well and protect well. But as the engine gets hotter, the oil gets thinner, and a 10W can't always protect a hot engine.

The opposite is true for a high viscosity grade like SAE 30 or 40. It's thick enough to protect a hot engine, but on a really cold morning it would be too thick. The engine would be hard to start and the thick oil would be slow getting to vital parts.

Multigrades

Multigrade oils, the kind with two numbers like 10W-40, contain chemicals called polymers that make them act like low viscosity grade oils when the engine is cold and high viscosity grade oils when the engine is hot.

So why doesn't everybody buy multigrades?

Because single grades generally cost less. And many people can use them satisfactorily, depending on the weather and the way they drive. To find the grades that we recommend for the temperature range in your area, see the chart at right.

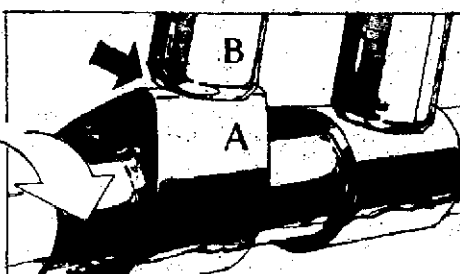

Things to consider when choosing a motor oil

Consider the kind of driving you do. Perhaps a single grade 10W is right for normal winter driving in your area. But on a long highway trip with a heavy load, the engine will get pretty hot even though it's cold outside. You'd need a 10W-30 or 10W-40 for high temperature protection as well as quick winter starts.

The condition of the car can make a difference. If the car is hard to start when it's cold, a low viscosity oil can help it turn over. If your car is an "oil burner," a high viscosity oil can cut consumption. (But get it fixed as soon as you can. It pollutes.)

It doesn't hurt to mix when adding oil-if. If the oil in your engine is right for your car, and the oil you're adding is too, it doesn't make any difference if they're different brands.

Today's cars need not be "broken in" with any special oil. At your first oil change,

The highest pressure in your engine is where the camshaft (A) pushes against the valve lifters (B). Here, an anti-wear additive in the oil lays down a thin film that must protect while pressure reaches about 100,000 lbs. per sq. inch.

start off with the right oil for your car, then stick with it.

A good oil doesn't need help from an oil treatment. An oil that meets the car maker's warranty service requirements is designed to do everything your engine needs. Look for "Service Classification SE" on the can.

What oil changes really do

Maybe you've heard a story about a guy who never changed his oil and drove 50,000 miles without a breakdown. Some of those stories might be true for all I know. But I wouldn't try it with my car.

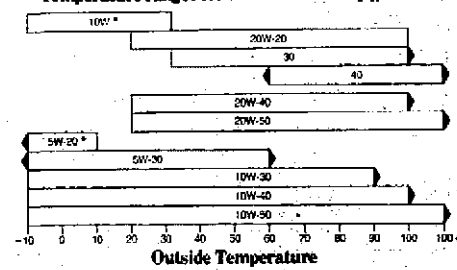

The fact is, you play the odds with oil changes.

Today's high quality oils and filters do a commendable job of protecting against the dirt, soot, acid, and other junk that gets into your oil. The oil's detergent properties are so good that about a pound of this contamination can be suspended in your oil where it will drain out at changing time.

But there's a limit to what the oil can do. If you don't change, eventually the additives Temperature ranges for different viscosity grades.

* Not recommended for sustained high speed driving.

that suspend dirt, fight wear, and so forth, will be used up, and trouble can start.

So, while you can save a few bucks on oil over the life of a car by stretching between changes, I don't think it's worth the risk.

Now some information about Shell motor oils:
Check the Shell line-up for the right motor oil for your car.

Shell X-100® motor oils are available in single grades SAE 10W, 20W, 30, and 40. Each offers the protection you need for its temperature range. And each meets the warranty service requirements of every U.S. car maker. And most foreign cars.

Shell X-100® Multigrade motor oil is an SAE 10W-40, an all-season oil offering excellent high temperature protection plus good low temperature startability. Its patented formula fights sludge and other contaminants that can harm your engine.

Shell Super X® motor oil earns the 10W-50 rating, the widest multigrade range you can buy. If you want even greater high temperature protection than Shell 10W-40, this oil is for you.

With proper care and a top quality motor oil (and Shell Super X is our finest) we believe that most of today's newer cars can be expected to go 100,000 miles without a major engine repair and with no appreciable sacrifice in performance.

Cornel Wilde's Used To Danger, And Loves It

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — While the "Jaws" company was battling with a mechanical shark named Bruce off Martha's Vineyard, director-star Cornel Wilde found himself nose-to-nose with real, live sharks in the depths of the Coral Sea.

Wilde's film is called "Shark's Treasure," and it will soon be in the nation's theaters, beating Universal Picture's "Jaws" by months.

Wilde doesn't want to seem competitive, but he can't resist saying, "While Universal was spending six or seven million on its shark picture, I made mine for $1.4 million. And all of our sharks are real."

His venture involved not only a financial risk — money came out of his own pocket when the film had its own problems — but the real and present danger of intimate contact with unpredictable sharks.

But then, Wilde has devoted himself to taking chances.

After his first success as Chopin in "A Song to Remember," he enjoyed a long and profitable career as a leading man. That wasn't enough.

He started fashioning his own films, usually writing, directing, producing and scraping up the financing, as well as starring. The results have been creditable: "The Naked Prey," "Beach Red," "No Blade of Grass."

"I wanted to do a sea picture," he recalled, "but I wanted it to be honest, with everything I used to be indigenous to the sea. I began to evolve a story about a treasure hunt, one that would be as basic and true as 'The Treasure of the Sierra Madre.'"

"It took me a long time to develop the story. I read everything I could find, talked to treasure hunters. I began to discover the common denominators in these men: they had given up their businesses, their wives and gambled everything in pursuit of treasure. And usually they lost a friend over the division of the find."

"I developed the characters, writing long biographies of each of them so I would understand them. But I needed another element to spur the action and keep up suspense. I found that in a newspaper account of some Mexican convicts who made their escape from prison by hijacking a boat."

Wilde sold the idea to his old alma mater, Columbia, but it was dropped in a studio shakeup. The rejection cooled interest at other studios, and Wilde instead made "No Blade of Grass" for MGM.

Afterward, Wilde returned to his shark project and sought independent financing.

He tried 67 different sources and almost had the backing several times; then the stock market took its famous nosedive, and the money men ran for shelter.

United Artists agreed to sponsor "Shark's Treasure."

Wilde planned to shoot the entire film at the small island of Ronaire in the southern Caribbean.

He gathered a cast that included Yaphet Kotto and Cliff Osmond, but his most important performers pulled a no-show — the sharks. Wilde finished everything else and came home.

The film maker took a crew of seven, including a surgeon, to the other side of the earth — the Coral Sea, 350 miles off Australia.

"We shot for two weeks and never saw less than 15 sharks each day; we had between 350 and 400 in all," said Wilde. In his mid-50s, with fewer than 20 hours of scuba diving, he learned underwater skills the hard way.

"I thought I was going to die," he admitted. "For one shot, I was in a cage, with my wet suit stuffed with fish guts and blood to attract sharks."

"One of them hit the cage, which had 3-8ths aluminum bars half-sawed so they might bend. The shark broke the bar and jammed into the cage up to his pectoral fins."

"I started hitting him with the shark billy — an ax handle with nail heads — then jammed the billy down his throat. Meanwhile, I was motioning the three cameramen on the outside of the cage to get the shot."

Being President's Daughter Doesn't End Routine Grind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Feed the dog. Go to school. Being the President's daughter doesn't let 17-year-old Susan Ford escape the daily routine faced by millions of teen-agers across the country. Each day she feeds the family's 1-year-old golden retriever Liberty before heading for classes at Holton Arms, a private school for girls in nearby Bethesda, Md. Often, long-time friend Barbara Manfuso stays overnight with Susan at the White House and drives her to school the next morning. A Secret Service agent follows in another car and remains just outside her classrooms throughout the day.

Other times she rides to school in a White House staff car.

Susan, a senior, says her favorite courses are English and biology, but admits, "I'm not much of a student unless I really want to be ... It all depends on what we're doing in class."

In addition to her school work, Susan has developed an interest in photography and also is writing a column called "White House Diary" for Seventeen magazine.

Next fall she will attend Mount Vernon College, a small, women's school in Washington.

Joins VanderVeen Bill

HARTFORD Conn. (AP) — U.S. Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Hartford, has joined Rep. Richard F. VanderVeen, D-Mich., in introducing legislation to provide an additional 13 weeks of unemployment benefits. The current 13-week extension expires June 30. Cotter said more than two million Americans are expected to exhaust their unemployment benefits this year. "We must move swiftly to help them and their families at this time of severe economic recession," Cotter said.

When it comes to car insurance value, it pays to compare State Farm.

THE STATE FARM AUTO INSURANCE VALUE PACKAGE

RATES: Low rates are one of the major reasons State Farm got to be the world's largest car insurer. Our agents save money for thousands of Michigan drivers every year. You'll find your rates with State Farm are competitive with those of most other major car insurance companies. But cost alone doesn't mean value.

COVERAGES: In addition to the mandatory coverages required by Michigan No-Fault Law, State Farm offers a wide range of optional coverages. Many at a rate advantage. With these optional coverages, your State Farm agent can tailor your car insurance to your particular needs, and probably save you some extra money, too.

CLAIMS: Because State Farm is number one, our claim service is second to none. Because State Farm is America's largest, we have a large number of experienced, full-time claim personnel throughout the U.S. We can offer the convenience of large drive-in claim centers in major metropolitan areas. In many cases, your State Farm agent can settle everything right in his office; write a check and get you on your way. However your claim is handled with State Farm, you can be sure it will be done promptly and fairly.

AVAILABILITY: With over 600 agents in Michigan and almost 12,000 across the nation, State Farm is there. Just about anywhere you should run into trouble, there's a State Farm agent nearby who's dedicated to giving you the same kind of good-neighbor service you get from your hometown State Farm agent. If you're traveling through a "non-no-fault" state, he can give you valuable guidance. If you move permanently, you don't have to start shopping for car insurance all over again. The State Farm agent in your new community can simply pick up where your previous agent left off.

AGENT: Rates are what you pay. Service is what you're really buying. And the personal service you can expect from a State Farm agent is exceptional. He's nearby and he's available whenever you need help. Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there is more than an advertising slogan. It's a promise.

NOSE-TO-NOSE: Director-star Cornel Wilde finds himself nose-to-nose with real live shark in the depths of the Coral sea while filming "Shark's Treasure." (AP Wirephoto)

PRE-ELECTION VIOLENCE: LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Pre-election violence erupted in northern Portugal today, and more than 30 persons were reported injured in several incidents.

Handicapped Needs Is Topic Of Meeting

A special program dealing with the system for meeting the needs of the handicapped student in the secondary schools will be the topic of the guest speakers at the Tuesday meeting of the Southwestern Michigan chapter of Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

The meeting is open to the public and will be of special interest to all parents and teachers and related personnel of parents with children in general education or in special education programs.

Lawrence A. Gurnett, director of special education, and Pete Morrison, teacher consultant, both from the Warren consolidated school system, will be guest program presenters.

The meeting will be held in the Forum at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, at 7:30 p.m.

The Whys Of Ann Arbor's 'Foul-Up'

By MARTIN MIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "This is the most fouled up election I've ever seen," moaned Republican campaign manager William Colburn.

It was about the only thing Ann Arbor's political leaders could agree on last week as they faced the prospect of a lengthy court battle over the results of the city's April 7 mayoral race.

The unofficial election tally made University of Michigan Prof. Albert Wheeler, a liberal Democrat, the city's first black mayor, unseating Republican incumbent James Stephenson.

Galien Schools Charged

GALIEN — A union representing Galien school bus drivers, cooks and custodians has filed an unfair labor practice charge against the Galien school board.

Neil DeRoche, of Muskegon, president of the union, said the charge had been filed with the state Employment Relations commission.

According to DeRoche, the charge alleges that the board has imposed certain requirements on union employees not in keeping with an agreement reached in October, 1974. The charge also claims that the board has failed to put the agreement in writing.

DeRoche, in a prepared statement, outlined the questioned requirements as unrealistic time schedules; pay scales; forms for personal leave; and employee use of buses.

DeRoche is president of Local 586 of the Service Employees International union (SEIU) which is the parent of the Galien bargaining unit.

According to DeRoche, the board's actions were taken unilaterally and without negotiations.

The margin was just over 100 votes.

Stephenson, however, remained in office when Republicans on the city Board of Canvassers refused to certify the election results.

Both sides went to court a week after the election, and the case was farmed out to visiting Circuit Court Judge James Fleming of Jackson County. He showed no signs of making a speedy ruling.

The legal battle centered on the city's new preferential voting system in which voters indicate their first, second and third choice. If no candidate receives a majority of regular votes, the last-place finisher is dropped. Second place votes from his or her ballots are distributed, and the remaining candidate with the most votes is the winner.

But beyond the vote-counting dispute, the conflict reflected a struggle of ideology and lifestyle: Whether liberals, students, youths and "freaks" in this campus town would again wrest control from the conservative business elements that have dominated city politics for most of the past 30 years.

The preferential voting system itself was designed exactly to accomplish that end.

Stephenson was elected with only 48 per cent of the vote in 1973 because of a split of the leftist-liberal vote between the Democrats and the city's radical Human Rights party (HRP), which was founded in 1970.

Before the 1973 vote, amicable relations developed between Ann Arbor's growing youth community and the Democratic-HRP coalition that then controlled City Hall.

A $5 fine for marijuana possession was adopted—as much a symbol of the city's openness to the young as a functional legal tool.

A popular outdoor Jazz and Blues Festival was founded and blossomed into a national annual event. Police stayed away, despite reports of widespread drug use.

There also were equal rights ordinances promising to protect women, students, and homosexuals.

The city promised money to help create a "People's Ballroom."

But the Stephenson administration ended the spirit of amity between the city and its youth community.

The $5 marijuana law was repealed, although reinstated promptly in a citywide vote. Funds for the People's Ballroom were withdrawn. And last summer, the council forced the Blues Festival into a financially disastrous move to Windsor, Ont.

The Republicans say they brought fiscal responsibility to the city while improving police protection and other services. But their critics claim vital social services for low- and middle-income people were cut back.

Labeled "Lard Jim" by the local underground newspaper, the Ann Arbor Sun, Stephenson became an object of derision among many students and young people.

Hoping to unseat the GOP in this month's election, the Human Rights party put the preferential balloting plan up for a vote in November and it was adopted.

Now HRP felt it could get its show of support without throwing the election to Stephenson again.

That's exactly how it worked — almost.

Stephenson carried just under 48 per cent of the first-place ballots. Wheeler got 40 per cent and HRP's Carol Ernst, an outspoken radical and confessed lesbian, got 10 per cent.

After a couple of days of ballot-counting, Wheeler was reported to have picked up 93 per cent of the second-choice

Ernst votes, just enough for victory.

But the closeness of the race gave the GOP an opening to challenge the election — and even to claim that the election may have been decided in the counting rather than the voting.

The preferential system used paper ballots on which voters indicated their choices with appropriate numerals. About two per cent of the ballots were thrown out — some because they were marked with just an "X." The GOP claims these ballots might have thrown the election to Stephenson.

The city council election results, meanwhile, left five Republicans, four Democrats and one HRP member on the new council. So the disputed mayoral race will decide not only the top spot but whether Left or Right will have the majority.

Even if Wheeler is declared the winner, there probably will be no Blues Festival in Ann Arbor this summer because its backers were so badly burned last year. But people in the youth community are more hopeful about finally getting their People's Ballroom.

Though he doesn't always agree with HRP, Wheeler says he's looking forward to working with the radicals — and he'll have to if he wants majority support.

"They're really trying to educate the public, and they take extreme positions," the microbiology professor says of HRP. "I'm not that way, and I take measures that I expect to succeed."

The Democrats are planning major initiatives in social service programs. HRP referenda

Southwestern Michigan were reported open today, however, water from the Black river in northwestern Van Buren county overflowed bridges at county roads 215, 227, 309 and 384, and the Paw Paw river went over the 48th street bridge, according to Kaiser, who said no known bridges are out although many culverts are still under water and full damage is not yet known.

Kaiser said from 15 to 20 road crews were scheduled to begin repairs this morning. The repairs will mean that many road improvement projects slated for this spring and summer will have to be let go,

Kaiser indicated. He said there is evidence that the water is receding. "The main branch of the Black river at CR-384 fell 34 inches during a 24-hour period from Saturday through Sunday."

Kaiser reported that flooding wiped out a 100-foot section of Chesapeake and Ohio railroad track, just northwest of Toquon in Covert township, and four families in the Trowbridge Flats area were forced from their homes by Black river flooding.

Kaiser has issued a hazardous driving advisory to county residents because of flooding.

Van Buren sheriff's department reported flooding took a 10-foot swath out of 23½ street between Baseline road and 2nd avenue, leaving a 4 to 5 foot deep hole.

Areas in Van Buren county where severe flooding and road damage have occurred, according to Kaiser are: 24th and 28th avenues near 38th street; CR-378 from 66th street to CR-687; CR-687 south to CR-384; 64th street south of CR-384; 73rd and 78th street north of Phoenix road; 8th avenue west of CR-687; 18th avenue and 77th street; 66th street north and south of 18th avenue; 28th avenue between 73rd and 77½ streets; the corner of 48th avenue and 82nd street; corner of 48th avenue and CR-703; most of central Bangor township and extreme southwest corner of Covert township; and M-43 and 50th street.

Payne said Hagar Shore road in northern Berrien county is still under water and closed up by M-140. He said Countyline road just west of Coloma-North road is still washed out as are four to five streets in the Lake Michigan Beach area. Kaiser said gravel streets around the Paw Paw lake area are also "washed out pretty bad."

Kaiser said minor washouts were also reported in middle and southern Van Buren county. Three culverts were reported washed out in Allegan county at 127th avenue east of M-40 in Heath township; on 42nd avenue near 103rd avenue and 106th avenue west of 44th in Cheshire township.

Hundreds of basements in the area were flooded, with the hardest hit being northwestern Van Buren county.

Other Michigan counties included in the governor's request for disaster designation were Barry, Eaton, Genesee, Kalamazoo, Ingham, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Shiawassee, Saginaw, and Crawford. All except Crawford were hit by flooding. Crawford was the scene of a tornado which touched down early Saturday injuring 14 persons.

Counties declared federal disaster areas are eligible for reimbursement for damage sustained by public facilities and private parties can apply for low-interest federal loans.

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Joan Little may appear today at her pretrial hearing, although there was no indication the black woman charged with murdering a white jailer would testify.

RESEARCHER DIES

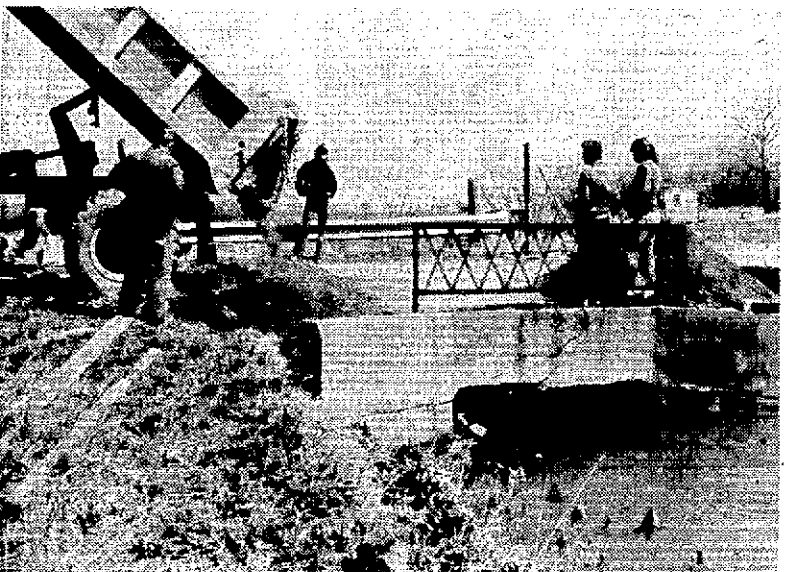

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Dr. Percy Levon Julian, 76, the grandson of an Alabama slave who as a research scientist discovered many uses for soybean extract, died Saturday after a long illness.

NO BARGAINING

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor was advised not to plea bargain for the testimony of milk lobbyist Jake Jacobsen against former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, the Dallas Times Herald says.

WASHOUT: Mrs. Helen Rouse of Covert got graphic demonstration of damage to Van Buren county roads and bridges by heavy Friday rains. She said that when she approached bridge Saturday, ground gave way and car's front tire fell into trench created by high water. Bridge is located on 68th street, on Geneva-Bangor township line, about mile west of M-43.

BRIDGE REPAIRS: Van Buren county road commission crew Saturday repairs bridge and fills wash out area at CR-378 and 68th street in Bangor township. Crews worked all day Saturday and were back on job today repairing damage from Friday's storm.

LOOKING ON BRIGHT SIDE: Three youngsters took advantage of high waters yesterday to do a little fishing from boat in front yard of Hagar township home of Donald Hilfred, 1635 Maple Lane. Home was among those in northern Berrien and central and northern Van Buren counties surrounded by runoff waters from heavy rains Friday. Youngsters in boat are Cory Smith (back to camera), Randy Oettle, 12, standing, and Larry DeLong, 8. (Staff photo)

WATER RISES: Home of Fred Westerfield, Phoenix road, east of South Haven in Trowbridge flats area is surrounded by water Saturday following Friday's storm. Several streams in flood plain area which feed into Black river overflowed.

SETS ALONE: W.O. Fitzgerald home, Phoenix road, east of South Haven, was surrounded by flood waters Saturday, following Friday's storm. Residents of Trowbridge flats area had to flee their homes Saturday morning, but all returned to them Sunday morning. (Tom Renner photos)

TODAY In History

Five years ago: Cambodia asked for military aid in a note to President Richard Nixon.
One year ago: Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago began his 20th year as the city's mayor.

FORCED TO FLEE: Norman Hinz family was forced to flee their home Saturday morning when Phoenix road, three miles east of South Haven, was flooded. Family has since returned.

'BOPPED, BITTEN, ABUSED'

Benton Police Termed Targets

Bopped, bitten and verbally abused. That was the treatment Benton township police reported they received when they were attacked by a crowd as they arrested a man and attempted to apprehend two women Sunday night.

Patrolmen Jimmy Coburn and David Koern required hospital treatment for bites sustained during the fracas. Arrested on charges of disorderly person, resisting arrest and on two counts of assaulting police officers was Raymond B. Stovall, 23, of 343 Margaret avenue, Benton township. Police reported the following: Coburn and Koern were called to the Bluebird tavern, 1304 Territorial road, about 10 p.m. when tavern employees reported trouble with a man and two women. The three were ordered out of the bar. Once outside they allegedly began shouting at police who had arrived. The trio left in a car with Coburn and Koern in pursuit. The auto pulled into a driveway on Margaret avenue and Coburn and Koern attempted to arrest the three on charges of disorderly persons.

The man put up a struggle during which a crowd gathered and allegedly attacked the officers. Estimates on the number of people were not included in police reports.

Patrolman Keith Diamond and Sgt. James Lester arrived at the scene and assisted in the arrest.

Injuries to police were listed as: Lester, abrasion to the leg; Diamond, a bite on the arm and a split lip; Coburn, struck on the nose and bitten on the arm and Koern a bite wound to the right leg. Lester and Diamond did not require hospital treatment.

A 36-year-old Benton Harbor man remained hospitalized this morning after he was beaten and robbed early Sunday when he gave three men a ride.

Listed in "fairly good" condition at Mercy hospital was James Lee Parker, 36, of 348 Brunson avenue.

According to Benton township police, the robbery took place in the 100 block of Concord drive, Benton township, about 12:30 a.m. Parker was robbed of $95 and his car keys.

Parker told police the three men asked for a ride as he left a Benton Harbor tavern. Parker consented and drove to Concord where he was attacked. He sustained bruises and lacerations to the head.

An employee at Ben's Party store, 990 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, sustained a minor cut when she was jabbed by a man with a pocketknife Saturday night.

Marilyn Berkey, 35, told police the incident occurred about 8:15 p.m. when she refused to sell liquor to a man already intoxicated. She said the man became belligerent, knocked over store items then pulled the pocketknife and jabbed her on the thumb. The man left before officers arrived.

Benton Harbor police reported they arrested an 18-year-old man Sunday on a warrant charging statutory rape.

Arrested was Tommy J. Wells, 18, of 775 McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor. Police reported the warrant was issued in connection with an alleged incident involving a 14-year-old girl that occurred Feb. 26 in Benton Harbor. Wells was lodged in the county jail.

Bomb threat calls to a grocery store in Benton township and a home in Benton Harbor were investigated by Twin Cities area police Saturday. No bombs were found.

Benton township police at 7:45 p.m. searched the Jewel food store, Napier avenue, after a man phoned and told a store clerk a bomb would go off in 15 minutes. The store was not evacuated, police said.

Flora Erny told city police at 10:45 p.m. that a male, apparently a boy, phoned to say a bomb was planted under her porch at 1018 Columbus avenue.

A sackful of play money and a dozen pencils were confiscated by Benton Harbor police, who arrested a young man while investigating a break-in at Columbus school early Sunday morning.

Officers answered an alarm at the school at 2 a.m. Sunday, and reported that a man ran between portable classroom units on the grounds at 815 Columbus avenue. A door to one of the portable units was open, officers said. Booked on a charge of breaking and entering was James Pettis, 21, of 865 Superior.

Burglars hit the Fruit Belt TV service at 1375 M-139, Benton township, but property believed taken from the building was found under a parked vehicle nearby, reported Benton township police.

Recovered were a Heathkit set, television set, rifle and a car. Officers answered an alarm at the store at 12:47 a.m. Saturday.

Other thefts reported to Benton township police were: A television set and food from the home of Brenda Baker, 425 North Euclid avenue.

A tape player from the office of Joy's auto wash, 964 Highland avenue.

Egyptians Say Talks With Kissinger 'Out'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy says his government will not take part in any further Middle East peace bid by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and is ready for resumption of the Geneva conference in June, according to Egyptian news reports from Moscow.

Fahmy also said Egypt's only condition for the Geneva negotiations is that the Palestine Liberation Organization must be invited as an independent delegation.

This raised the prospect of an Israeli boycott, since the Israeli government refuses to negotiate with the Palestine guerrillas.

BROTHERS FORM BUSINESS: Dale Hickmott, 19, (left) and brother, Dave, 18, (right) work on outboard motor in their repair shop called D&D Marina. Looking on is Don Clark, owner of Gardner's Favorite Sports and Marine, 741 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor. Hickmotts lease business from Gardner's. Repair shop is located behind Gardner's. Dale is a Benton Harbor high school graduate and Dave will be graduated from BHHS this year. (Staff photo)

Once A Customer, Now He's Manager

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

From customer at age 14 to head of the business at age 19.

That's the position Dale Hickmott, route 4, Lake drive, Coloma, finds himself in today. Hickmott and his brother, Dave, 18, are partners in a business called D&D Marina. Dale is the senior partner.

Dale first bought parts from the same shop, then run by Gardner's Favorite Sports & Marine, when he was 14. He later took a job there and now runs a business at age 19 out of the same shop.

The brothers Hickmott are leasing the business from Gardner's, 741 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor. D&D is located directly behind Gardner's store.

"We fix outboard motors, snowmobiles, stern drives (inboard-outboard motors) and do some boat and trailer repairs," Dale said. Dale is a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and has attended factory clinics in Milwaukee, Waukegan, Ill., and Fort Wayne, Ind., on snowmobile, boat and stern drive repairs.

Dale started in the marine repair business when he was 14. He explains it like this:

"My father (Dale and Dave are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hickmott, Coloma) had an old outboard motor and he said I could have it if I fixed it," Dale said.

"That really got my interest started in the repair business. In order to fix the motor I needed parts so I went to Gardner's," he said.

Don Clark, owner of Gardner's, at that time employed a mechanic to run the marine repair.

"I spent some time there and finally applied for a job," Dale said. He first worked part-time and later full-time.

Dale said after a couple of years at Gardner's he left and went to another area marina. The mechanic who had been running Gardner's marine left and Clark invited Dale back.

Dave is presently a senior at Benton Harbor high school. "He'll go to the repair clinics in the fall," his older brother said.

The Hickmotts claim they've been able to "keep their heads above water" and expect business to pick up during the boating season. As a sideline, the Hickmotts are thinking about racing snowmobiles in the winter.

Now let's see... back in the late 1800's there were two brothers from Ohio by the name of Wright who began a bicycle repair shop and then...

Furnace Blamed As Fire Cause

COLOMA — A defective furnace resulted in a fire which caused an estimated $25,000 damage to an apartment building on Marvin court here Saturday, according to Coloma firemen.

No injuries were reported and no one was at home in the two apartments when firemen were called about 1 p.m. The building was owned by Dale Kreitner of Coloma.

Post Office Stamps 'OK' On Decatur Construction

DECATUR — Postal officials announced today that a contract has been signed for construction of a building that will be leased as the new quarters of the Decatur post office.

The contract was made with Joey B. Andrews Jr. of Dowagiac for a building of 2,320 square feet to be located at the corner of Phelps and Sherwood streets, according to Jerry Adkins, post office district real estate agent in Grand Rapids.

He said the post office has taken a 10-year lease on the building with options for four additional five-year-leases.

The post office will pay an annual lease fee of $9,000, Adkins said.

The Decatur post office has been at 121 Phelps street for about the past 20 years.

Postal authorities were notified in December that the building had been sold to a Decatur man who planned expansion of his private business.

The new building is expected to be ready for occupancy in September, post office officials said.

Berrien Arson Suspect Bound Over For Trial

One person was bound over to Circuit court, three demanded preliminary examinations and 12 were sentenced Friday in Berrien District court.

Bound over was Grayling A. Love, 18, of 2205 Lawrence, Benton township, charged with arson at the office of the director of Child and Family Services, St. Joseph, April 7. He posted $5,000 bail and was released. He waived examination.

Demanding examinations were: Collins Jett, 25, of 1895 Snyers drive, Benton township, charged with criminal sexual conduct in the second degree in connection with an alleged incident involving a boy under 13 years of age on April 16. He did not post $7,500 bail.

Sentenced for the following violations were: Disorderly person — Charles M. Russell, 19, of 1010 Union, Benton Harbor, fine and costs of $30 for indecent language; Dianne Smith, 21, of 205 Charles, Benton township, $31 for indecent language; Edward J. Cachur, 19, of Chicago, $25 for indecent conduct.

Assault and battery — Ronald W. Reisig, 33, of Route 1, Bridgman, $40, against Doris Reisig; Christopher Yates, 18, of property over $100 April 1 in Benton Harbor. He did not meet the $7,500 bond.

Adrian P. Peschong, 58, of Hudson Lake road, Galien, charged with criminal sexual conduct in the second degree in connection with an alleged incident involving a boy under 13 years of age on April 16. He did not post $7,500 bail.

Assault and battery — Ronald W. Reisig, 33, of Route 1, Bridgman, $40, against Doris Reisig; Christopher Yates, 18, of 634 Highland, Benton Harbor, $100, against Debra Cook; Bernard R. Scarberry, 27, of Michigan City, Ind., $60, against Walter Schuh.

Impaired driving — Norman T. Liggett, 57, of Shawnee road, Baroda, $150; James R. Tucker, 30, of 2106 Oaklawn, Stevensville, $150 or 14 days in jail; Dan McIntosh, 31, of 614 Pearl, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for second offense.

Others sentenced were: William L. Bailey, 33, of 2011 South Pipestone, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for simple assault against Steve Kucmyda; Timothy N. Ford, 23, of 295 South Norton, New Buffalo, three days in jail and $70 for driving while license suspended.

David R. Johnson, 18, of M-42, Berrien Center, $40 for taking a Steelhead trout with a net in Sohus township April 10.

Union Denies Tyler Plan Would Boost Productivity

NILES — In response to a letter mailed to production workers at the now closed Tyler Refrigeration plant here, a spokesman for the Allied Industrial Workers union representing the workers said proposed changes in seniority provisions would not increase plant productivity as the company claimed.

The plant was ordered closed by Tyler officials on Wednesday after negotiations between the firm and local 816 of the union reached an impasse over seniority changes sought by the company. A three-year contract expired Tuesday.

Morris Jones, president of the local, issued a statement after union members gathered Friday to discuss the company's letter. Jones said that while the union remained willing to reopen talks with the company, and workers wanted to return to their jobs, the proposals could not be accepted.

Jones said a hand ballot cast Friday showed all of the some 300 workers present unanimously rejected the company's proposals.

Tyler Refrigeration is a division of Clark Equipment company, Buchanan. The division's other plants have remained in operation. While some 250 to 300 production workers are effected by the shutdown, management and office employees at Tyler's division headquarters in Niles have remained on the job.

The complete text of the statement issued by Jones Saturday follows:

"In response to the letter from Mr. William P. Linnen, president and general manager of Tyler Refrigeration, to the membership of local 816 and the community via the newspaper, the entire membership of local 816 wishes to advise Mr. Linnen that his detailed letter may confuse the people of the community but it does not confuse the members of local 816. We stand united and reiterate our previous statement with regard to being deprived of seniority rights and our members with 4, 10, 20, or 30 years seniority do not need a letter by mail or newspaper to point this out to them.

"The bargaining committee of local 816 represents the entire brotherhood of local 816 from the youngest member to the oldest in age or seniority.

"We have no desire to negotiate with Mr. Linnen or his associates through the news media. We do desire to negotiate, however, in an intelligent progressive manner at the negotiating table and although we have not had the pleasure of having Mr. Linnen sit with us at the negotiating table we would certainly welcome his knowledge and expertise.

"There are many areas where efficiency and productivity could be improved at the Tyler plant and the union membership has attempted in the past to make constructive suggestions in this regard and would be quick to agree to and adopt any concepts or methods whereby efficiency and productivity would be realized.

"It is obvious to even the most unlearned of our humble membership that increased profits to the company mean increased benefits to each man and woman employed by Tyler, whether salaried or hourly.

"We contend, however, that the seniority concepts as well as the vacation concept as proposed by the company would do nothing to increase profits or efficiency but on the contrary would cause disruption, lack of incentive, poor morale, and a definite monetary loss to members of local 816.

"Mr. Linnen states that if a company cannot operate efficiently and profitably it will eventually cease to exist. We add that if a man cannot operate efficiently and profitably he too will cease to exist.

"No one knows more that the membership of local 816 that Tyler Refrigeration pays excellent wages and benefits. This has never been denied. Otherwise, why would we be so eager to return to our jobs, even to the point of offering to continue our present contract and progress not at all.

"We do doubt sincerely that the company concept as proposed would utilize manpower in an efficient manner. We believe the company concept would cause the membership of local 816 to take a gigantic step backward.

"We were willing to forego any steps forward to a more profitable contract. But we are reluctant to take steps backward and lose what we have gained through the years.

"We of the bargaining committee would be the first to admit, however, that we are not erudite college graduates, as are the members of the company negotiating team. Nor are we fortunate enough to have two well-trained lawyers to represent us in our words, proposals, and letters.

"So we again emphasize that we are willing to negotiate. We are eager to negotiate. If Mr. Linnen is so certain that his concept does not deprive us of our rights and does not take us backwards, but is a step forward toward increased productivity and efficiency and as a direct consequence to increased profits, we again invite him and his team to negotiate with us.

"Sit with us and show us. The company hopes, 'operations can be resumed,' no more than we. Mr. Linnen, who are faced with paydays with no pay checks."

Chicagoan Tells Theft Of Tools

COLOMA — A Chicago man has reported the theft of a small tractor and snow blower from a house he owns in Coloma township, according to Coloma township police.

Larry Redziwon told police yesterday that the tractor and blower, valued at about $1,300, were apparently taken sometime before Easter from 7000 Paw Paw Lake road.

Weekend Crashes Take Seven Lives

By ASSOCIATED PRESS A single-vehicle accident which killed two persons boosted the number of weekend traffic victims to seven, according to the State Police.

Killed when their car rolled over early Saturday morning in Livingston County were David Ray Christie, 22, of Whitmore Lake, and Sharon Elizabeth Banak, also 22, of Lakeland.

Killed when their cars rolled over and collided with trees were George Gilbert Thomas, 18, of Clarkson, and Rodney Jay Veldkamp, 24, of Vicksburg.

Both men died early Saturday. Thomas was killed in Oakland County. Veldkamp died in Kalamazoo County.

Ricky K. Keys, 20, of Pontiac, died on Michigan 21 in Shiawassee County Saturday when his motorcycle and a car collided.

Cynthia Carter, 17, of Grand Rapids, lost her life Sunday in that city in a head-on crash.

Marie Louise Scott, 60, of Harbor Springs, was killed Sunday on U.S. 131 in Emmett County when her car and another vehicle collided.

South Vietnam's President Quits

after there is no more Mr. Thieu whether negotiation will be satisfactory. If the Communists agree to negotiate, the South agrees to negotiate. If so, it is lucky for the country and the entire population," Thieu said.

"And after Mr. Thieu leaves, South Vietnam is immediately given sufficient aid to enable fighting by the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam, then it is lucky for the country. My departure is worth the sacrifice. Then I would put the palms of my hands together and bow down."

Although his ouster had been demanded by the Viet Cong as the first step toward a negotiated settlement, there was no indication it would bring an immediate halt to the fighting that has swept closer and closer to Saigon.

Thieu himself declared, "There will be more challenges and fierce fighting in the near future."

"Today, as I stand before the people, the congress, I declare I resign from the position of president. Under the constitution, Vice President Tran Van Huong shall replace me as president."

"I told President Nixon and the U.S. Congress that I did not demand an indefinite assistance but only assistance for five years so we can develop our economy," Thieu said.

"I said I was like a newly recovered patient and if I am given enough medicines soon, I will be strong enough. But later the internal affairs of the U.S. prevented the Republic of Vietnam from getting sufficient assistance."

"While the assistance is insufficient and the 300,000 North Vietnamese still in South Vietnam continue to receive tanks and artillery pieces from the Soviet Union and Red China, repair their airfields and establish more infantry divisions, South Vietnam stands under a defensive position, unable to do much, unable to bomb North Vietnam because of the lack of military aid."

"We could not back up our defense lines because we did not have enough helicopters, ammunition, weapons, and we had to retreat, and we were blamed for not being capable of defending the land."

Continuing his bitter attack on the U.S. government, Thieu referring to American troop presence in the South, said:

"Half a million (American) troops and $300 billion can't win over the Communists. The ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) lack of B52s and others means let (South Vietnamese) soldiers die. It is an inhumane act."

dation.

In Frederic, officials said 12 houses and four businesses were destroyed. Other buildings sustained heavy damages.

Eaton County Sheriff Eugene Hoag said 17-year-old Kirt Bayes and 23-year-old Barry Edgar were out on the flooding river in a vinyl raft when it got caught in the current and was swept over the Dimondale dam.

Witnesses told the sheriff one of the victims clung to the raft for about 200 yards before going under in the raging waters. The other never came up at all. Deputies were to resume the search for their bodies today.

A Livingston County deputy said two or three small dams collapsed because of the high water. He said at least one man-made lake was "just a couple of mudholes" on Sunday.

In Lapeer County, officials said dams held the Flint River in check, and in Macomb County, deputies said the waters of the Clinton River were receding after cresting overnight Saturday.

However, many roads remained under water and an undetermined number of families were forced from their homes. Several cars were found stranded on flooded roads, but all passengers were accounted for.

St. Clair County deputies said waters have begun to recede. Main roads were open Sunday although some small roads remained clogged with water.

Justice Kavanagh's Funeral Wednesday

Kavanagh, no relation to Kavanagh, said "I am greatly saddened by the loss of Justice Kavanagh."

"He was more than an eminent jurist, he was the finest of public servants and an activist for people's rights. He maintained a prevailing determination that the law and the judicial system should serve the people well. He did everything within his power to see that this was so."

Kavanagh worked hard as Chief Justice on the administrative problems of the state's legal justice system. He supported moves to microfilm court records and computerize information to cut judicial red tape.

"Kavanagh died with his fight for statewide financing of courts unfinished."

"The Michigan Constitution's mandate for 'one court of justice' meant to Kavanagh that money should be funneled into local court systems through the state rather than depending on local taxes."

The legislature last year refused to let the state Supreme Court administrator money to other courts the way Kavanagh wished, but court observers feel chances of such a bill passing are better this year.

"Tom was a country boy who could practice law in the city. He knew judges, juries and courts, so he could see through attorneys who appealed to the Supreme Court," Williams said.

Kavanagh "saw that in this modern age when courts are overwhelmed by a plethora of cases, the old manual system of keeping records just can't keep up," Williams said.

Kavanagh was elected to the Supreme Court in 1967 and was chief justice from 1964 to 1968 and from 1971 and 1975. He was a Democrat, although election in the Supreme Court is on a non-partisan ballot.

He was succeeded as chief justice this year by Thomas G. Kavanagh.

A devout Catholic and family man who attended mass daily whenever he could, Kavanagh and his wife, Agnes, had four daughters.

His wife died about a year ago, also of cancer. During her illness, Kavanagh went himself out frequently seeing to her needs and administering the Supreme Court, sources close to him said.

"Tom was the epitome of the Christian gentleman. He lived with God and his religion," Williams said.

He was an ally in the attack on huge backlogs in Detroit area courts, supporting the hiring of outstate judges, former judges and even defeated judges to come in and handle cases.

Kavanagh also helped author a new code of ethics for judges last year that clarified some of the rules on campaign financing and political activity.

He was "a judicial activist who never hesitated to adopt new ideas," said Joseph Sullivan, a deputy attorney general under Kavanagh and now chief judge of Wayne County Circuit Court.

"He was very much concerned with the defendant's rights and I'd say was very much in tune with liberal thinking as far as human rights ... If the law was silent on a subject or there was no precedent clearly barring his action, he would press ahead," Sullivan said.

"He was a guy with tremendous common sense who got things done," said Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Horace Gilmore, who also served under Kavanagh in the attorney general's office. "He was a very activist guy. He brought this statewide financing to the point where it will pass pretty soon. He's laid the ground-work."

AT BERRIEN SPRINGS

Hearing Scheduled On Services To Aged

A public hearing to allow senior citizens and other interested individuals and organizations to comment on present and planned services to the aged will be conducted Thursday by the Southwestern Michigan Area Agency on Aging.

The hearing is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Youth Memorial building at the fairgrounds, Berrien Springs. Presentations will be limited to five minutes, and persons desiring to speak must register between 9 and 9:30 a.m.

Up for discussion at the hearing will be the first draft of the agency's plan for its 1975-76 operations. The agency expects to receive $165,000 in grants for next year's program.

The area agency on aging, headquartered in the People's State Bank building in St. Joseph, provides an information and referral service. It funds the Berrien County Council on Aging, the Cass County Council on Aging and the Van Buren Commission on Aging.

The agency operates a housing services project, which provides materials for repairs in homes owned by low income elderly, and provides legal assistance to low income elderly through funds furnished to the Berrien County Legal Aid bureau, along with other services.

The Southwestern Michigan Regional Commission on Aging, the policy board for the area agency, will preside at the meeting.

Firemen Answer 2 Calls In BH

Benton Harbor firemen were called to two minor fires Saturday and Sunday, one at the apartment home of Ruth Singley, 409 Washington street and the other at the Establishment bar, 311 Market street.

The run at the Establishment was Saturday at about 8 p.m. Firemen reported a warning table for food was smoking. The table was unplugged and damage was confined to the table.

The run at 409 Washington was Sunday about 5 p.m. Firemen reported smoke coming from the apartment was caused by food being left on a heated stove. No one was home when firemen arrived.

Berrien AIP Will Oppose Presidential Primary Abolition

The Berrien County American Independent Party will oppose any action to abolish the presidential primary in Michigan, according to Irma Collier, county AIP secretary. The decision came at a meeting of the county AIP Saturday. Action on a bill to abolish the state primary has reportedly been postponed but Charles Cobb, past county AIP chairman, said the AIP would oppose any move to abolish the primaries and thus eliminate Wallace delegates from the Democratic party convention. Karl Friske, county AIP chairman, announced that state executive committee meetings will be held in Lansing April 26, May 24, Sept. 6 and Nov. 1. The national convention will meet in Salt Lake City, Utah, June 19, he said.

Bendix Profits, Sales Are Up

Bendix Corp. reported it had record profits and revenues in both the fiscal second quarter and six months ended March 31.

W. Michael Blumenthal, chairman and president, said the improvement in earnings was due to the strong performance of aerospace-electronics operations and increased profitability of industrial product lines and energy related businesses.

"These factors were sufficient to offset the generally unfavorable conditions we have been experiencing in the shelter market and in certain segments of the automotive market," Blumenthal said.

He said demand for aerospace-electronics products was brisk with the order backlog increasing in the second quarter.

"We expect continued strong performance from this area for the remainder of the year," he said.

Net income for the quarter was $18,752,000, or $1.15 a share, compared with $18,122,000, or $1.11, a share, in the same quarter a year ago.

Sales reached $628,495,000, compared with $600,953,000 last year.

Six-month earnings totaled $35,894,000, or $2.21 a share, versus $34,324,000, or $2.10 a share, in the comparable period of 1974. Sales for the six months were $1,245,704,000 against $1,185,151,000.

Blumenthal said worldwide automotive operations produced record sales for the quarter, but profits were down because of increased costs.

He said that, in compliance with a previously announced Federal Trade Commission order, certain automotive components and environmental products operations of Bendix and Fram Corp. have been transferred to Facet Enterprises, Inc., a wholly owned Bendix subsidiary which is to be divested by Bendix not later than November, 1978.

Because of weakness in the construction and housing markets the building materials and mobile homes business were in a loss position, Blumenthal said.

"It appears that these markets have bottomed out, but as yet there is no clear indication that a major turnaround is imminent," he said.

In forecasting the results for the full year, Blumenthal said the company was "well positioned for another good year in 1975."

Reasons he cited for optimism included the ability of some of the firm's units to offset a severe recession in certain Bendix markets.

Bendix is headquartered at Southfield, Mich., and operates a Hydraulics division south of St. Joseph.

Niles Boy, 3, Drowns In Pool Near His Home

NILES — A three-year-old Niles boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Pawating hospital here after being pulled from a swimming pool near his home yesterday afternoon.

The victim was identified as Demetrius Thornton, son of Mrs. Christine Thornton, 2501 North Fifth street, Niles.

Thomas Gipson, Niles

township police chief, said an autopsy was to be performed today to determine cause of death.

The chief said the tentative cause was listed as drowning early today.

Gipson said the three-year-old was found in a pool at the Bernard Carpenter home, 2519 North Fifth street. He was taken from the water by firemen.

The chief said details of the accident were sketchy. Firemen said they were told the child had been playing with another youngster in the pool, however.

Firemen said Mrs. Carpenter ran across the street and notified them that the boy was in the swimming pool at 2:59 p.m. The township's north fire station is located across from the Carpenter residence on Fifth street.

Firemen said first aid was given to the boy and he was rushed to the Niles hospital by ambulance.

Surviving, in addition to the boy's mother, is a grandmother, Mrs. Clarence Thornton of Niles. Funeral arrangements were pending this morning at the Halbritter Funeral home in Niles.

NILES CHILD DIES: Niles township firemen put three-year-old Demetrius Thornton, son of Mrs. Christine Thornton, 2501 North Fifth street, Niles, into ambulance. Niles township police said boy was pulled from neighbor's swimming pool about 3 p.m. yesterday. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Niles Pawating hospital, an apparent drowning victim, police said. CAR ROLLS INTO STREET

Tot's Ride Wild But Lucky

COLOMA — A 15-month-old Coloma township girl escaped serious injury Saturday when the car in which she had been left alone rolled out onto Paw Paw Lake avenue and struck a passing truck.

Coloma township police said the youngster, Krista Marie Pullins, daughter of Mrs. Alice Marie Pullins, 23, 726 Thresher avenue, Benton Harbor, apparently moved the car's gearshift into neutral, allowing the vehicle to roll backwards.

The car struck the rear of a passing truck being driven by Jimmy Neal Everett, 16, 5530 Territorial, Benton Harbor, police said.

The mother had parked the car in the drive of Tom's Auto service.

There were no injuries reported and no tickets were issued, officers said. The accident occurred about 2:35 p.m., police said.

Grant To Berrien

The Berrien county board of public works will receive a $349,000 supplemental grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for construction of waste water treatment facilities in the county, Congressman Edward Hutchinson announced.

The grant, which was authorized by the federal Water Pollution Control act, supplements a previous grant by the EPA to the county of $1,465,000 for the same purpose.

Robert Barnes, county public works director, said it could not be determined at this time which construction project the funds were earmarked for.

TEAMSTERS RATIFY CONTRACT

Berrien County Road Strike Ends

Berrien County Road commission workers returned to work this morning, ending a four-week strike.

By a reported 67 to 17 vote, members of the Berrien unit of Teamsters Union Local 214 voted Sunday to ratify settlement terms reached Saturday between negotiating teams for the union and the road commission.

Terms call for a two-year contract, instead of a three-year pact, according to Thomas Webb, engineer-manager of the road commission.

A 41 to 45 cent per hour increase for workers that was put into effect by the road commission last September while the negotiations continued will remain in effect. The new contract will not be retroactive to last July 1 when the old contract expired.

On July 1 of this year, workers will get a 20-cent per hour raise, and another 15 cents as of Jan. 1. Present hourly rates range from $4.54 to $4.98, and will rise next Jan. 1 to $4.89 to $5.33.

Terms also include some fringe benefit increases, according to Webb, who added that all except one of the fringe increases had been agreed to in negotiations before the strike started. The exception was a reduction from 3 years to 5 years in the length of service needed to qualify for two weeks annual vacation.

The same 104 employees of the commission went on strike March 24. The union filed unfair labor practice charges against the road commission, alleging failure to bargain in good faith.

The road commission contended the strike was illegal because the Michigan Public Employment act forbids strikes by public employees.

Florida Crash Kills Ex-Cass Man

CASSOPOLIS — Larry D. McIntosh, 31, Leesburg, Fla., formerly of Cassopolis, was killed near Leesburg Sunday morning in a car-truck crash.

Mr. McIntosh moved to Florida seven years ago from Cassopolis.

Surviving are his parents, Douglas and Irene McIntosh, Cassopolis.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete today at the Connolly funeral home, Cassopolis.

Memorials may be made to Cassopolis United Methodist church.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE: Bangor township house was indirect victim of Friday's storm when firemen were hindered in attempts to reach house Saturday morning by washed out bridges and water on road. James Weber residence on 70th street north of CR-687 was extensively damaged by fire which started near chimney in upstairs bedroom shortly before 9 a.m.

High winds and lack of water also prevented firemen from Bangor and Covert in controlling blaze. No injuries were reported although a Bangor fire truck was damaged when chimney from house fell on vehicle. Fire was third in four years involving Weber family. Twice previously they were burned out of house trailers. (Dion LeMieux photo)

Lawmakers Stretch 'Malpractice Week'

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Malpractice "week" in the Michigan Legislature gets its second go-around this week as lawmakers try to thrash through a swarm of bills dealing with the problem.

Gov. William Milliken has called for major action this month to meet the crisis of malpractice insurance availability and rising rates. He has set June 1 as a deadline for final passage of a comprehensive solution—before any more insurance companies quit taking writing new policies.

House leaders tagged last week as medical malpractice week, but only managed to get a handful of minor bills out of committee late in the week. Legislation providing more complete, long-range answers are still under debate.

The House will consider measures to require insurance companies to notify the state about legal action against doctors, and to require the state insurance commissioner to review once each year the amount of money insurance companies keep in reserve.

Also up for debate on the floor will be six bills related to disclosing information to the state and requiring doctors to take continuing education courses.

A House committee is slated to hold hearings on a bill to establish a state fund to guarantee insurance to all doctors. Those who cannot get insurance elsewhere could pay premiums into the fund, which would finance any settlements or awards arising from malpractice suits.

That measure already has passed the Senate, where the Judiciary Committee also has scheduled a Tuesday night hearing on a series of related bills.

Milliken is calling for action on an extensive list of recommendations from Insurance Commissioner Daniel Demlow which deal with availability, cost, quality of care and adequate information in the medical malpractice field.

While lawmakers debate the complicated and controversial issue, as well as other key measures still in committee, they will be asked to consider a flurry of less momentous legislation on the floor.

The Senate will take up, and is expected to pass, a bookkeeping alteration which would bail Michigan out of its $180 million deficit for the current fiscal year. The legislation, proposed by Milliken, would authorize the state to credit to this fiscal year money from June taxes which is collected in July. Normally, such revenue would be applied to the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The procedure would be made permanent to avoid an 11-month fiscal "year" and consequent shortfalls next year.

The Senate also has before it bills to increase the penalty for late filing of income tax returns, and to permit up to $3,000 in home improvement without increasing the homeowner's property tax assessment.

Displeased Ryan Continues Chisox Skid In Fourth Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Nolan Ryan has more pitching triumphs than a couple of teams have victories so far this season, but he still isn't satisfied.

"I'm nowhere near where I want to be," said the fireballing California Angels' righthander after he had defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-1 Sunday for his fourth victory against no defeats.

"I know, the record is good, but I'm not in the groove yet," said Ryan. "I'm not where I want to be by any means."

Ryan fired a five-hitter, but he walked nine and struck out only six. Two of the hits were two-run homers by Ken Henderson in the fourth inning and Jorge Orta in the seventh.

"They both came on hanging curves," said Ryan, who was displeased with the calls of Umpire Armando Rodriguez behind the plate.

"I threw about 150 or 160 pitches," said Ryan. "And I didn't get a call all day. What can you do? The guy has trouble behind the plate."

Ryan admitted he was struggling "but that's the best I've had yet this year. I kept getting behind on the count and you don't want to that when you have the lead. You want to make them hit the ball."

Manager Dick Williams flatly stated, "I don't think he's a good umpire. Ryan had an extra day of rest and was a little too strong, but he didn't get everything he was entitled to. I guess the same thing goes for the White Sox."

Bruce Bochte and Dave Chalk paced the speedy Angel attack with three hits and three runs batted in each. Bochte also had a pair of triples and Chalk laced out two doubles.

"Bruce found a couple of holes out there today," said Williams. "The other day he had one hit where he should have had four. I talked to him and told him not to worry. I'm not concerned about his average, just his production. And he's doing the job there with 10 runs batted in."

The Angels continued running against the White Sox with three more stolen bases. That gives them a total of 23 for the season with 18 of them against the White Sox in six games.

"It's not just against the White Sox," said Williams. "We'll run on everybody. Speed is our bag and we have to use it to make up for a lack of power."

White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner agreed.

"When they run, everything has to be perfect to get them," said Tanner. "They have above average speed and I'd have to say that overall, they are the fastest team I've ever seen." Tanner said he wasn't discouraged in face of the five-game losing streak for the Sox who have not won at home this season.

"We'll start winning. I've been through this before and we'll go through it again. Everybody goes through these things. Our attack? I'd say it was pretty good today. Everybody's attack is poor against Ryan. When you score four runs off him, you're doing pretty good."

The White Sox hope to break their streak and post their first home victory against the Kansas City Royals tonight. Stan Bahnsen, 4-2, will go up against Bruce Del Canton.

The Angels will be home against the Minnesota Twins. Andy Hassler, 1-1, will go against Bill Butler, 6-4.

Kingman 'Standout' For New York

Mets End Cub Streak

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Kingman is giving the New York Mets the kind of consistency at the plate that they'd hoped for.

And he's giving them the kind of inconsistency in the field that they'd prayed against.

The erratic Kingman, acquired this past winter from the San Francisco Giants, won one for New York Sunday with his bat but almost lost it with his glove as the Mets took a 4-3 decision to sweep a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs.

After the Mets took an 8-6 victory in the opener, Kingman exploded his fourth home run of the young season in the second game to help New York take a 4-0 lead.

Then the thrills and spills started for Old Ironsides, reminding fans of New York's eccentric teams of the early 1960s.

Relief pitcher Rick Baldwin, who was great in the seventh inning, looked awful in the ninth. He loaded the bases and then gave up a single to Jose Cardenal.

Well, it started out as a single, but Kingman let it get past him for an error. As a result, three runs scored and Cardenal wound up on third with the potential tying run. At this point, Baldwin reverted to his sparkling, earlier form and nailed it down for the Mets.

Yogi Berra was as relieved as anyone after the frantic finish. "It's a good omen," said the New York manager, "that we finally won a doubleheader at home."

The Mets hadn't won a doubleheader at home since Aug. 31, 1973, and at the same time stopped a seven-game winning streak by Chicago. It didn't distract Chicago Manager Jim Marshall, though.

"We're playing great," he said. "Of course, no one likes to lose. But I can't feel too bad the way we've been going."

John Stearns' single capped a three-run rally in the first inning and Ed Kranepool doubled home two runs in a four-run second as the Mets built a 7-0 lead and went on to beat Chicago in the first game. Wayne Garrett's triple off Chicago starter Rick Reuschel triggered the Mets' first-inning uprising. Felix Millan singled for one run, and then Rusty Staub and Stearns contributed run-scoring singles to the rally.

Del Unser's RBI single produced the first run of the Mets' second and Kingman knocked in another with a base hit before Kranepool capped the rally with his double.

Before Kingman hit a two-run homer in the sixth to give the Mets their eventual winning runs in the second game, Jerry Grote figured in both of New York's earlier runs. He hit a leadoff homer in the third, then singled in the fifth and later scored on a hit by Wayne Garrett.

Baldwin provided glittering relief work in the seventh when he came in to help starter Randy Tate with men on first and third with nobody out and didn't allow a Chicago run.

Then came the ninth when Kingman put the young relief pitcher into a tough situation with his untimely error. But Baldwin induced the last batter to fly out, leaving a Cub runner stranded on third.

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3 in 11 innings; the Atlanta Braves whipped the San Diego Padres 4-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates tripped the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0 and the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Houston Astros 5-3 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second, 7-6. The Philadelphia-Montreal game was postponed by cold.

Chris Speier's two-run single capped a three-run rally in the 13th inning, leading San Francisco over Los Angeles. Reliever Geoff Zahn walked Derrell Thomas to open the inning. Bobby Murcer then singled and both runners advanced on a wild pitch.

Gary Matthews was intentionally walked to load the bases, Zahn forced in the go-ahead run with a walk to Ed Goodson and Speier singled up the middle to drive in Murcer and Matthews.

Darrell Evans' fourth home run of the season, a two-run shot following Marty Perez' leadoff double in the ninth inning, boosted Atlanta over San Diego. The victory salvaged one game for the Braves in the three-game series with the vastly improved Padres.

'Big E' Nets 46 For Win Bulls Rout Kings, Take 3-2 Playoff Lead

From ASSOCIATED PRESS Modesty may have caused Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets to say, "We don't like to rely on one player."

But the fact remains that the Bullets continually need a lot of points from Hayes to win.

They got them Sunday.

Hayes poured in 46 points, his career-high in National Basketball Association playoff competition, and the Bullets edged the Buffalo Braves 97-93 for a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series.

It was the 20th straight time in which Hayes had scored 30 or more points that the Bullets had won.

In a Western Conference semifinal game Sunday, the Chicago Bulls routed the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 104-77 for a 3-2 advantage in their best-of-seven series.

In the other semifinals, Boston leads Houston 2-1 in the East following the Rockets' 117-102 triumph Saturday and Golden State and Seattle are tied 2-2 in the West after the SuperSonics' 111-94 victory Saturday.

The sizzling Hayes connected on 19 of 26 field goal attempts and added eight free throws in outscoring Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, who had wrecked the Bullets with 50 points in Game 4. McAdoo, the league's scoring champion for the second consecutive year, collected 34 points in Sunday's nationally televised game.

Hayes, however, denied he was in a personal battle with McAdoo. "I don't believe in personal duels," Hayes said. "I do whatever it takes to win. We've won all year with the five starters and the bench. We don't like to rely on one player."

Nevertheless, it was proven throughout the season and again in being proven in the playoffs that Washington needs big production from Hayes. In the previous two games that the Bullets beat Buffalo in the playoffs, he scored 34 and 30 points. In the two losses, he got only 20 and 16 points.

We Unseld clinched the Bullets' victory by grabbing one of Hayes' few missed shots and putting it in with five seconds remaining for a 96-93 lead. Unseld was fouled on the shot and completed a three-point play.

The teams meet in Game 6 Wednesday night at Buffalo.

Chicago parlayed Bob Love's 30 points and an air-tight defense in crushing the error-prone, poor-shooting Kings in the second half of the league's nationally televised doubleheader. The Bulls held Nate Archibald, the Kings' high-scoring guard, to 13 points, well below his average.

Archibald hit only four of 18 shots from the floor. "We missed simple shots," complained Kings' Coach Phil Johnson, who indicated he would change his starting lineup for Game 6 at Kansas City Wednesday night. "Larry McNeill is not helping defensively."

The Boston-Houston series resumes Tuesday night at Houston in a nationally televised game and Golden State entertains Seattle Tuesday night in the fifth game of their series.

SMC's Roscoe Sets Record In Kansas Relays

John Roscoe set a Southwestern Michigan College record Saturday in the 3,000-meter steeplechase at the Kansas Relays.

Roscoe was timed in 9:06.1 while finishing eighth in the university division event.

Also in the university division, SMC's Carl Sims was sixth in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 10 inches.

In the junior college division, the Roadrunner four-mile relay team of Roscoe, Joe Ofsansky, Tom Ellspermann and Steve Bunn was first in 17:43.0.

SMC also got a fourth in the two-mile relay in 7:53.9 from John Hobson, Dave Baltosser, Chat Curtis and Ofsansky.

SMC returns to action at 3 p.m. Tuesday in a home quadrangular with Kalamazoo Valley, Triton (Ill.) College and Glen Oaks.

Tryouts Thursday

Tryouts for St. Joseph Minor league baseball will be held Thursday at 5:15 p.m. at Wells Field. Rain date is Friday.

The tryout is for boys that have registered and for any other St. Joseph boys between ages of 8 and 10 interested in playing minor league ball. Last year minor league players need not tryout. For more information call Bob Strouse at 983-1787.

White WMU Star

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Halfback Jim White scored once and ran for 139 yards to pace the Brown team to a 17-14 victory over the Whites in Western Michigan's intrasquad spring football game on Saturday.

White 28 times for an average 5.4 yards per carry and scored on a three-yard run for the first-straight Browns.

Dam Bursts, Tigers Swept Away

DETROIT (AP) — Whoever had his finger in the dike at Tiger Stadium must have left in the seventh inning to get a hot dog.

That's when the dam burst on Vern Ruhle and the Detroit Tigers were swept away 7-1 Sunday by the New York Yankees.

Rudy May fired a three-hitter for New York as Ed Herrmann sliced a two-run pinch double and Ron Blomberg belted a three-run homer in the Yank's big seventh inning.

Ruhle and May had only given up two hits each going into the inning and were locked in a 1-1 duel.

The Tigers had today off to lick the wounds of losing two of three to the Yankees over the weekend, while New York was in Boston to begin a three-game series with an 11 a.m. game against the Red Sox.

"It's been a funny season," Tiger Manager Ralph Houk said. "We've either won 'em (big) or lost 'em (big). Today was a close game until the seventh, then boom, we were out of it. The losses have been big and the wins have been pretty much that way."

Saturday the Tigers smashed the Yankees 8-3 as Detroit starter Mickey Lolich outshone millionaire Catfish Hunter for the second time this year. Hunter is 0-3 and Lolich 2-0.

The night before New York won 11-3.

"Detroit's got a good hitting club and if you're fooling around they're going to get you," claimed May.

Apparently he wasn't fooling around. Detroit's only hits were an infield single by Leon Roberts in the second inning, a leadoff double by him in the fifth, and a single by Tom Verzer in the eighth.

Bobby Bonds' two-out solo homer in the third was one of the two hits off rookie righthander Ruhle until the seventh.

"He pitched a hell of a game and still had good stuff at the end," Houk said, adding that the turning point was a throwing error by Ruhle in the decisive inning.

Chris Chambliss opened with a single and Thurman Munson bunted. Ruhle threw to second base, but the toss was wild for an error and the Yankees had runners on second and third. Ruhle got Jim Mason out, and then, instead of walking Herrmann with first base open, he pitched to him and the hulking left-handed catcher poked his wrong-field double.

Roy White singled in a run, Elliott Maddox popped out, then parked a pitch into the upper deck in right.

"I think I've gotten four hits here in four years," Blomberg said jokingly. "Really, I just don't usually get to play here because they (the Tigers) usually use left-handed pitchers."

Lolich and reliever John Hiller are now the only Tiger southpaws.

Mickey Stanley drove in the Tiger run in the second with a sacrifice fly after a walk, a ground out and Roberts' single.

NO KIDDING: Jerry McGee gives his crying wife Jill a kiss after winning $125,000 Pensacola Open Sunday, but his five-month-old son Michael looks unimpressed with the achievement — his father's first victory in eight years on PGA tour. (AP Wirephoto)

Mc Gee Wins At Pensacola Gains First Victory In Eight Years

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Jerry McGee figured this was his week before the first shot was fired in the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

"Wednesday night, I ate oysters on the half shell and the first oyster I ate, I got a pearl," an elated McGee said Sunday after ending more than eight years of frustration on the pro golf tour by capturing his first victory.

"I told Jill (his wife) this may be the week," he said. "I didn't want to mention it before today because it might have jinxed me."

McGee appeared on the verge of blowing his shot at victory when he played the front side in a fat 38, three-over-par, but regained his composure, strung together three straight birdies beginning at No. 10 and broke out of a deadlock with another birdie on 16 to win the $25,000 first prize with a 13-under-par 271 total.

The closing 70 on the 6,678-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course gave McGee a two-shot victory over Wally Armstrong, a soft-spoken 29-year-old who saw his dream of a first victory vanish with two bogeys on the final three holes.

McGee said he thought he had only a one-shot edge until he saw the scoreboard as he strolled to the 18th green.

"I was thinking so much about getting back in the Masters coming up the 18th fairway," he said. "I played in it twice and I was really disappointed when I didn't get to play in it this year."

The victory automatically qualifies McGee for next year's Masters, plus the Tournament of Champions in California which begins Thursday.

"They'll probably think I'm a caddy out there," said the 5-foot-9, 160-pounder.

McGee was playing in the final threesome with his friend, Australian Bruce Crampton, who at one point was lodged in a three-way tie with McGee and Armstrong at 12-under before falling back with a bogey on 15 and another on 17.

"I don't think anybody has ever appreciated a victory on the tour more than I have this one," said McGee, who credited his attractive wife with helping him.

"Jill got me thinking in the right direction, she calmed me down," he said. "She is the sole reason why I'm sitting here now."

"And Crampton has taken me under his wings the last three years and helped me a lot. He told me to settle down after my double bogey and I told him, 'If I don't win this golf tournament, you win it.'"

Crampton, winless in 22 months, fell into a three-way tie for third with veteran Miller Barber and Dwight Nevil at 274. Nevil closed with the best round of the day, 65.

Amateur Jerry Pate, playing on his home course, was alone in fifth at 275 with a 66.

Bears Second To Norrix In Ninth Sturgis Relays

STURGIS — St. Joseph Cardinals took three first places while finishing second to speedy Kalamazoo Loy Norrix in the ninth annual Sturgis Relays here Saturday.

The Bears won the shot put, two-mile and mile relays and added four second places while totaling 72 points. Norrix won the Class A title on 81 points while winning the title on 81 points while winning the sprint, 440 and 800 relays.

Niles was fourth in the eight-team Class A field with 54 points on firsts in the high jump and pole vault relays while Benton Harbor finished sixth with 22 points while capturing the medley relay.

Jackson Lamen Christi took top honors in the 13-team Class B field with 77 points. Brandywine was fifth with 30 and Lakeshore tied for sixth with 28.

No records were threatened in the event which had weather conditions described by St. Joe coach Ron Waldvogel as "miserable." The day included cold and gusty winds, hail, sleet and even some sunshine.

St. Joseph won the mile relay with Dick Goodman, Bob Goodman, Dave Karsten and Henry Follman posting a 3:33.3, including a 52.8 anchor by Follman.

Bob Goodman, Jim Burkett, Marty Kirk and Follman posted the two-mile victory in 8:28.9 while Steve Cook, Mark Hanley and John Sykora combined to win the shot put relay at 130 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

Bear seconds were in the distance medley (11:12.2), medley relay (2:35.7), shuttle hurdles relay (1:06.6) and high jump relay (16 feet, 6 inches).

St. Joe's second in the medley relay was just seven-tenths of a second behind Benton Harbor's winning effort. Maurice Burton and Jeff Hicks ran the 440 legs

'M' Looking For Help From Freshmen

BY JIM DELAND
Sports Editor

ANN ARBOR — Michigan's hopes for a fifth straight Big Ten football championship may rest in the untried hands of several freshmen next fall.

Like it or not — and he doesn't, especially — Michigan coach Bo Schembechler was forced to concede that possibility as the Wolverines concluded spring practice here Saturday afternoon.

"We're looking for help from our freshmen at quarterback, fullback, defensive back and perhaps at tight end," Schembechler said before his battered troops wound up spring drills with their annual Blue-White game in chilly Michigan Stadium.

"That's where we need help, and fortunately we do have good prospects. Our recruiting was successful at those positions. We're counting on quite a few freshmen."

Even at quarterback? "That's what I said," Schembechler replied. "We have five quarterbacks coming in and one or two of them are going to be instrumental in Michigan football."

"That's the way it looks." The prime candidate for the position vacated by three-year starter Dennis Franklin remains junior Mark Elzinga of Bay City, but he is one of several players whose future has been clouded by injuries this spring.

"Elzinga has been hurt most of the spring," Bo pointed out. "He has bad ribs — he can't take a punch — and unfortunately, it's his right rib cage, so it hurts when he tries to throw the ball. He's had a tough time."

Elzinga at least was able to suit up for Saturday's "fun game" which Bo described as "not at all important" but 16 others were on the sidelines because of various injuries, including the team's top three tailbacks — senior Gordon Bell, junior Rob Lytle and sophomore Mike Smith.

Bell is suffering from a pulled hamstring, Lytle from toe and knee injuries and Smith from a torn muscle in his arm that has required immobilization in a cast.

"If this were a real game...if this were the Wisconsin game, Bell and Lytle would play," Schembechler added, "but you don't want to take chances in a game like this."

Others missing from Saturday's action included tight end George Przygodski, tackle Steve King, guard Mark defensive back Jimmy Pickens.

Przygodski's knee has been the only injury that required surgery and Bo said he hoped to have all the ailing back in the fall, but he admitted that spring practice had not gone as he had hoped.

"I'm concerned from an offensive standpoint," he said. "Our offense has not been good. At no time did we consistently move the football...but most of the time we didn't have Lytle and Bell."

He said the move of Jim Smith from split end to wingback has been fairly successful, but added that Smith's blocking left much to be desired.

Happily, defense remains a bright spot.

"I'm pleased with the move of Jerry Voge and Rex Mackall to linebacker," Schembechler said, "and we could not at any time block guys like Greg Mar-ton, John Hennessy, Tim Davis, Rick Kosechak, Jeff Perlinger and Dan Jilek.

"Whether this means our offense is that bad or our offense is fair and they're that good, I don't know. I hope other teams will have trouble blocking them in the fall."

The only southwestern Michigan athlete on the squad — senior Jim Carr of St. Joseph — finished the spring as the No. 1 center, but Bo added that freshman Mark DeSantis

"could move up very quickly."

DeSantis, an all-stater from Harper Woods, Bishop Gallagher, is one of two freshmen who enrolled at Michigan at mid-year and took part in spring practice.

Schembechler also expressed concern about the Wolverines' key opening game against Big Ten contender Wisconsin on Sept. 13 — the same day Michigan State will battle Ohio State if the schedule is not changed for television purposes.

"We shouldn't have to play a Big Ten game in our opener," he said, "but if our defense is sticky and tough like we hope it will be, that will be a plus."

"They'll have to move us out of there first."

The Blue team won Saturday's game 17-3 on short touchdown runs by Elzinga and fullback Kevin King and a 32-yard field goal by Steve Knickerbocker. Bob Wood booted a 30-yard field goal for the White squad.

Black Hawks On Ropes In Playoffs Islanders Do...Leafs Die

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was a do-or-die weekend in the National Hockey League playoffs. The New York Islanders did and the Toronto Maple Leafs died.

The Islanders, down three games to none in their quarter-final series with the Pittsburgh Penguins, took the series back to Pittsburgh for Tuesday night's fifth game with a 3-1 triumph in Sunday afternoon's nationally televised contest.

"We had nothing to lose," said Islanders right wing Billy Harris. "We just said, 'Let's go out and show these guys what we can do.'"

The Philadelphia Flyers completed their sweep of the Maple Leafs with a 4-3 victory in overtime Saturday night.

"We don't get paid playoff money by the game," offered Flyers defenseman Andre Dupont. "So why take this thing back to Philadelphia?" With that thought in mind, Dupont converted a pass from Dave Schultz at 1:45 of overtime and started the Maple Leafs' summer vacation.

In the weekend's other Stanley Cup action, the Montreal Canadiens took a 3-1 lead in their series with a 4-0 triumph over the Canucks at Vancouver Saturday; and the Buffalo Sabres made it 3-1 against the Chicago Black Hawks with a 6-2 triumph at Chicago Sunday night.

The Islanders know well that no team has lost the first three playoff games and come back to win a series since the Maple Leafs did it to the Detroit Red Wings in the 1942 Stanley Cup finals.

"I wasn't around in 1942," said Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin. "But you can't win four in a row until you win the first one. We won the first one, so we'll see what happens."

Third-period goals 39 seconds apart by rookie Clark Gillies and veteran Jean-Paul Parise broke a 1-1 tie and sent the Islanders to triumph. Andre St. Laurent scored a power play goal for New York in the first period, then Bob Kelly gave the Penguins a temporary tie with a power play score in the second period.

The odds are with the Penguins. They have lost only once in the last 83 games at their Civic Arena home.

"The team wanted to win and when we get a good effort, there are not many teams that can beat us," said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith of his Sabres, who can move into the semifinals with a victory at Buffalo Tuesday night.

"I'd say we're in the driver's seat now," said Smith. "And we'll be sky high Tuesday night at home."

Rick Martin, Gil Perreault and Rene Robert scored in the third period to break open what had been a tight game. Jim Lorentz, Pete McNab and Dan Gare had the other Buffalo goals.

Grant Mulvey and Phil Russell scored for the Black Hawks, who could not capitalize on four power plays in the second period.

TIME OUT!

"No, I'm sorry, ladies... this ballpark doesn't give nasty-gale checks."

Evert Wins 'Series'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chris Evert says she would like more tournaments like this past weekend's $100,000 World Series of Women's Tennis to which only four players were invited.

But, then why not? She pocketed the $50,000 first prize — the largest sum ever in women's tennis — after downing a determined and angry Billie Jean King 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 Sunday before a national television audience.

Miss Evert, the year's leading money winner with $183,450, said, however, she did not want to win just for the money. "The $25,000 second-place prize would have been good," she said.

In the consolation match, Evonne Goolagong of Australia picked up $15,000 by beating Russia's Olga Morozova 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. Miss Morozova's $10,000 prize will go to the Russian Tennis Federation as usual.

The scene was set for a true championship match Sunday after Miss Evert trounced Miss Morozova 6-4, 6-0 Saturday and Ms. King blasted Miss Goolagong 6-1, 4-3. Each match lasted about an hour.

Sunday, Miss Evert and Ms. King traded shots for over two hours before Miss Evert took the match with a 5-2 tiebreaker in the final set.

The closeness of the match where only five points out of the 239 played, separated winner from loser was almost overshadowed by Ms. King's anger over a call by a linesman in the last set with Ms. King leading 6-3.

Ms. King claimed a linesman had initially indicated a return of service by Miss Evert was out of play. The linesman's hand signal indicated the ball had hit in play and he refused to answer

Ms. King's heated questions about his call.

After the match Ms. King said she had wanted an answer from the linesman. "What are they there for?" she asked in a news conference.

Tournament umpire Jason Morton refused to change; the linesman's call and Ms. King went on to lose the set, the tiebreaker and the match.

Morton said although the linesman did start to indicate an out signal he changed his sign to show the shot good. "Things like this are a normal occurrence," Morton said.

Ms. King's anger seemed to spur her interest in tennis because she said: "World Team Tennis here I come! I'm going to work my buns off!"

Ms. King has played in only four singles tournaments since January.

McGinnis Wrecks Rim And Burns Net As Pacers Lose

DENVER (AP) — George McGinnis, who normally takes out his aggressions on the opposition; even managed to wreck the equipment Sunday night.

Early in the third quarter, as McGinnis was about to lead an Indiana comeback in their American Basketball Association playoff game with Denver, the bullish forward went up for a slam dunk and bent the rim.

Play was stopped for five minutes as a replacement rim was bolted into place, and once action resumed you could have excused the Nuggets players if they kept their distance from McGinnis.

McGinnis, a 6-foot-8, 240-pounder, poured in 18 points in the period to help pull the Pacers to within three points, and guard Bill Keller scored 14 in the final quarter. But the Pacers' rally fell short in a 131-128 loss to the Nuggets.

The victory gave Denver a 1-4 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division final series. Game

No. 2 is scheduled in Denver Tuesday night, with the series then shifting to Indianapolis for games three and four on Thursday and Friday nights.

The other ABA semifinal series opens tonight with the Spirits of St. Louis meeting the Kentucky Colonels at Louisville. The Spirits advanced with an astonishing 4-1 quarter-final victory over the defending champion New York Nets, while the Colonels defeated the Memphis Sounds, 4-1.

"McGinnis and Keller had exceptional games," Denver Coach Larry Brown said in the dressing room.

McGinnis finished with 39 points and 22 rebounds, both game-high totals, and Keller scored 22, including four three-point baskets. Rookie Billie Knight, who hit 14 of 18 free throws, added 28 points.

It was all in vain, however, as Denver's balance and steady play down the stretch paid off. The Nuggets reeled off the first nine points of the second quarter, with Ralph Simpson getting five of them, en route to a 17-point advantage. Then Denver began committing turnovers and taking bad shots and the Pacers crept back to within seven points at intermission.

After the McGinnis-dominated third period, Indiana kept the pressure on and pulled within one point. Six straight Denver points, five of them by Mike Green, gave Denver a cushion that held up despite Keller's scoring.

Simpson, who equalled Keller with 14 points in the quarter, hit five clutch free throws in the final two minutes to help seal the triumph.

Denver hit 11 of 13 shots from the floor in the period. Simpson led Denver with 28 points. Dave Robisch had 28 and Mack Calvin 22.

The Nuggets outshot the Pacers 56 per cent to 46 per cent, but were outrebounded 53-42 and had five more personal fouls.

Tired Sandra Palmer Still Tops As Rich Event Ends

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Sandra Palmer. That's about all there is to say about the 1975 $200,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle Golf Tournament.

She almost made the world's most expensive women's golf tournament a bore. Then she added a dash of excitement at the end as she won the event she had led from start to finish.

Coolly composed through chilly winds and then warm desert breezes, the miniscule Ft. Worth, Tex., native ran off three consecutive two-under-par 70s then finally slipped up a bit when she bogeyed the last hole for a 73 Sunday but still finished with a five-under-par 283, one stroke in front of Kathy McCullen.

"I really got sort of tired," the 5-foot-1 Miss Palmer said afterwards, slumping in a chair. "And anytime you get tired you make mental mistakes like I made." She made three bogies on the final round, one more than she had in the three earlier rounds combined.

"I'm just glad it came at the end," she added.

Miss Palmer's three earlier rounds on the 6,347-yard Mission Hills course, a par-72, kept her ahead by at least a stroke from the outset and she took a three-stroke lead over Miss McCullen into the final 18 holes after her challenger charged in with a 68 Saturday.

"I really felt this pressure out there and I had to hit every shot in my bag because McCullen was playing so well," she said. "I think I played better than I know how. When you're leading you know they're coming at you and it's a miserable feeling."

Miss Palmer held a three-stroke lead over Miss McCullen, her closest pursuer, going into the final nine holes.

But the sturdy blonde from Florida, still seeking her first victory on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, birdied the 11th and 12th holes and quickly pulled to within a stroke of the lead. Miss Palmer, in the threesome behind her competitor, took a stroke back when she birdied the 12th herself and Miss McCullen fell to the pressure when she doubled bogied the 14th hole.

The two finished well in front of the rest of the field.

Miss Palmer collected $32,000 for the victory and $3,000 more for leading three rounds. Miss McCullen won $21,000 for second, more than she has ever amassed in any one of her five years as a pro.

Carol Mann, Chako Higuchi of Japan and Carole Jo Skala tied for third, four strokes off the pace at one-under-par 287, each winning $10,500, and a half-dozen including early challenger Jocelyne Bourassa and Jane Blacklock were tied for sixth at one over par. The spunky Miss Bourassa, a favorite of the crowds, fell out of contention when she bogeyed three straight holes on the back nine Sunday.

Sue Roberts, a two-time winner on the tour last year who captured the Bing Crosby International in Mexico last month, and veteran Martene Hagee, on the tour for 25 years, each won $5,000 for sinking a hole-in-one during the tournament.

The tournament matches only golfers who have top three finishes on the LPGA tour.

Diaz Boots Pair In Kickers' Win

Louis Diaz scored two goals as the St. Joe Kickers blanked Battle Creek 4-0 Sunday in an away West Michigan Soccer League game.

The Kickers, now 2-0, also got goals from Mark Frank and Allan Kidd.

On Saturday, the Kicker junior 'A' team hosted Wyoming and won 1-0 on a goal by Dennis Oil. The junior 'B' team battled to a 0-0 deadlock.

Prep Stars Honored

Southwestern Michigan's top high school basketball and football players were honored Saturday at the annual "Golden Key Award" breakfast at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn.

The standout prepsters received a Golden Key lapel pin and a certificate from the sponsors of the awards — Inter-City Bank and WHFB.

There was also a special basketball presentation to all members of the Cassopolis team which reached the finals of the Class C state tourney. Rangers honored were Roger Walters, Billy Dungey, Mark Scott, Kevin Loder, Gary Young, Reggie Scott, Rich Evans, Richard Lee, Charlie Wright, Joe Burmeister, George Hawthorne, Harold Nelson and Glen Hawkins.

In football, the award winners were Mike Schulz and Mike Howard of Benton Harbor, Mike Ryan and Mike Priebe of St. Joseph, Mark Wymer of Berrien Springs, Rick Zache of Brantwine, Robin Vincuk of Bridgman, Don Fields of Buchanan, Steve Hodges of Cassopolis, Jeff Humes of Coloma, John Russom and Kevin Miller of Dowagiac, Paul Bailey and Taylor Lanier of Eau Claire, Tom Godsey of Edwardsburg, Clarence Norem and Craig Schau of Gallien, Don Weber and Brad Flowers of Hartford, Charles Epperson and Leo Harvey of Lake Michigan Catholic, Mike Knapp and Dave Baker of Lakeshore, Mark Wildeman of Michigan Lutheran, Mike Anderson of New Buffalo, Tim Dill of Niles, Phil Vance of River Valley, and Bob Young of Watervliet.

First-Place Royals Too Good To Use Fifth Pitcher

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Kansas City Royals are going so good these days their five-man starting rotation consists of only four pitchers. The Royals made it five victories in a row and nine out of 10 by trimming the Texas Rangers 2-0 Sunday behind the six-hit hurling of Al Fitzmorris. But their lead in the American League's West Division was cut to 1½ games when the Oakland A's swept a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 4-1 and 5-1. Elsewhere, the California Angels trounced the Chicago White Sox 8-4, the Boston Red Sox walloped the Baltimore Orioles 10-2, the Cleveland Indians downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4 and the New York Yankees whipped the Detroit Tigers 7-1. The Royals' victory was their ninth in 11 games, the best start in the club's seven-year history. "We're winning with good pitching and that's 80 per cent of the game," said Manager Jack McKeon. "We're not tearing the cover off the ball. We're just playing solid, consistent, aggressive baseball. "Nobody can match our five starters. They might match us 1 and 2, but not five-deep." The KC starters are Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff, Fitzmorris, Nelson Briles and Bruce Dal Canton ... who hasn't thrown a pitch this season.

Kansas City got its runs in the second inning against Texas' Steve Nargan, who matched Fitzmorris' six-hitter. Hal McRae doubled, George Brett walked and Fred Patek, hitting only .179 entering the game, tripled. Dave Hamilton, hustled into action when starter Mike Norris hurt his elbow in the first inning, combined with Jim Todd on a seven-hitter and pitched Oakland to a doubleheader sweep. Glenn Abbott stopped the Twins with a sixhitter in the opener. The A's scored twice against rookie Jim Hughes in the first inning of the nightcap on a walk and singles by Bert Campaneris, Sal Bando and Joe Rudi. They got two more runs in the sixth on singles by Rudi and Claudell Washington, two walks and a sacrifice fly. In the first game, the A's took advantage of three Minnesota errors to score two unearned runs. Meanwhile,

Abbott held the Twins scoreless until Bob Darwin homered leading off the ninth. Loser Bert Blyleven allowed only four hits and struck out 12. Luis Tiant pitched a four-hitter, including home runs by Bobby Grich and Lee May, and the Red Sox capitalized on Mike Torrez' wildness. Torrez gave up five hits, walked eight, threw two wild pitches and balked home a run before giving way to Wayne Garlapd in the fourth.

Bernie Carbo and rookie Jim Rice had two hits each for the Red Sox. Carbo scored three runs and drove in one as the leadoff batter, starting a three-run rally in the first inning with a walk. Rice had two RBIs with a single in the first and another single as the Red Sox scored three more runs in the fourth. Home runs by Tom McCraw and Rico Carty and Frank Duffy's two-run single powered Cleveland's victory.

Blue Grass Tests Derby Challengers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prince Thon Art may not win the Kentucky Derby, but he certainly has a voice in determining how many horses are in the field for the start of the 101st running of America's favorite horse race in 1975.

The Florida Derby winner, along with his Darby Dan Farm stablemate Sylvan Place, is the likely favorite for Thursday's $50,000-added Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland, where four "derby" winners butt heads.

If Prince Thon Art, winner of the Florida Derby and the only conqueror of Wood Memorial winner Foolish Pleasure, runs away with the Blue Grass, it could shorten the Kentucky Derby field to as few as 15.

But if Prince Thon Art either is beaten or wins by a slim margin, the field could swell enough to require Churchill Downs to invoke its rule limiting the Derby field to 20. In that case horses earning the least money are eliminated.

Going against Prince Thon Art and Sylvan Place in the Blue Grass are Louisiana Derby winner Master Derby; Santa Anita Derby victor Avatar; and Arkansas Derby king Promised City.

Also in the Blue Grass will be Honey Mark, winner of an important Derby prep at Keeneland last week; Ruggles Ferry, second in a Keeneland prep race; Wicked Park, winner of a division of the Survivor Stakes; Decipher, a bridesmaid this winter on the West Coast; and Harvard Man, the best Elmhurst Farm has to offer this year.

Foolish Pleasure, owned by John L. Greer of Knoxville, Tenn., scored a come-from-behind victory in the Wood Memorial Saturday for his third victory in four races this year and his 10th of 11 in his career.

It prompted his trainer, LeRoy Jolley, to comment that he will "ship down to Louisville on Tuesday, right to Churchill Downs."

That's the site of the May 3 Derby.

U-M, Wisconsin In First Setbacks Rain Keeps MSU On Top

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State got help from the weather over the weekend to maintain its hold on first place in the Big Ten baseball standings.

Heavy rains forced the postponement of Saturday's scheduled doubleheader in East Lansing against Iowa, last year's co-champion in the conference with Minnesota. The cancellation kept the Spartans' record at 5-0 in conference play.

Meanwhile, Michigan and Wisconsin fell from the unbeaten ranks as both teams split doubleheaders on Saturday. Michigan won the opener against Minnesota, 3-0, but dropped the second game, 5-3.

Wisconsin defeated Northwestern 9-3 in the first game but fell 8-5 in the second end of a doubleheader.

Both the Wolverines and the Badgers are 5-1 in Big Ten play, one-half game behind Michigan State.

In other Saturday action, Indiana and Illinois split a doubleheader with the Hoosiers taking the first game, 13-12, and the Illini capturing the second contest, 10-4. Ohio State downed Purdue, 7-5, in the first game of a doubleheader and the Boilermakers took the second, 23-17.

Michigan's Chuck Rogers hurled a five-hitter en route to a 5-3 decision over Minnesota for his third win of the season without a loss. Randy Hackney had a single and his sixth home run to spark the Wolverines.

In the second game, Minnesota scored five unearned runs on six errors by Michigan.

Dan Morgan pitched a hitless game for six innings, but Michigan picked up three runs and two hits in the final inning. Minnesota moved to a record of 2-3 in the conference.

Wisconsin's Andy Otting had a three-hitter in the opener against Northwestern as the Badgers scored a 9-3 triumph. But the Wildcats ruined Wisconsin's perfect record in the conference with a 8-5 victory in the second game.

Northwestern stands at 2-4 in Big Ten play.

Terry Jones of Indiana snatched a bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning to give the Hoosiers a 13-12 victory over Illinois in the opener. But Doug Kleber smashed two home runs for the Illini in the second game to spark a 10-4 triumph. Indiana moved to a 5-3 record in Big Ten play and Illinois picked up its first win against six defeats.

Purdue also won its first conference game in the second contest against Ohio State, 23-17. The Boilermakers sent 18 batters to the plate in the first inning and had 11 hits en route to 13 runs.

In the opener, the Buckeyes scored a 7-5 victory to put their conference mark at 2-1.

On Friday, Wisconsin travels to Illinois; Indiana faces Iowa; Minnesota hosts Ohio State; and Northwestern meets Purdue.

Joggers, Gals Have Made Boston Marathon 'Disgrace'

BOSTON (AP) — Way back in 1897, when the first Boston Marathon was run, there were 15 entries. And marathon officials were all smiles as John J. McDermott ran and walked in victory, covering a short route in two hours, 55 minutes, 10 seconds.

The starting field expanded gradually each year after the first run, and the route was extended for 24 1/2 miles to the official marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards. Up until a decade ago, the starting field was only 250.

Then the jogging fad took hold. The field grew by leaps and bounds. Little did the founders of the marathon know what they would leave to succeeding officials, other than a legacy.

Despite strict regulations, requiring an entrant to certify he has run a marathon in 3 1/2 hours or less, the Patriots' Day run from Hopkinton to Boston has grown completely out of whack.

There were about 2,400 entries, including 52 women, down to start at high noon today in the 79th annual classic. The traditional laurel wreath and a solid gold sunburst medal awaited the winner. There were trophies for the next nine finishers, and medals for the next 90.

Just three trophies were reserved for the women, running a special race within a race among themselves. Every other official starter hoped to receive a certificate, for finishing within the 3 1/2-hour timing period, or merely a bowl of beef stew.

"This has become a bloody disgrace," said John Semple, an entrant for many years until he retired to become Race Director Will Cloney's top assistant. "There are just too many runners. Sure, there are many serious contenders. However, there are too many just in there to say they ran in the Boston Marathon."

Semple, of course, became a prime target of the women's lib movement a few years ago when he tried to "rip" an official number off the back of a runner, who entered as "K. Switzer." The runner turned out to be a shapely blonde, Kathy, now a New York publicist. Kathy's male friends warded off Semple, and her finish didn't count. However, it led to women being allowed to run officially on their own, with numbers.

Some 15 nations were represented in the field today. England's Ron Hill, a 36-year-old textile chemist from Cheshire, England, loomed as the man to beat. In his last appearance, Hill made a shambles of the field, literally sprinting to a course record of two hours, 10 minutes, 30 seconds. That was in 1970 on a cold, rainy, windy day.

Lancers, Bucks Lose In Indiana

Lakeshore and Buchanan lost double-header baseball games Saturday in Indiana.

The Lancers dropped 6-0 and 7-5 contests to New Prairie, while Buchanan went under 12-3 and 5-1 to LaPorte.

Steve Deutscher hurled a no-hitter for New Prairie in the first game. He walked one and fanned seven Lakeshore batters. Craig Andrews, who walked four and fanned the same number, absorbed the loss.

The Hoosiers built a 4-0 lead after one inning, with Andrews

BH's John Hunt Earlham's MVP

RICHMOND, Ind. — John Hunt of Benton Harbor has been honored as Most Valuable Player on the Earlham College basketball team this year.

Hunt, a junior transfer from Lake Michigan College, was the team's leading scorer with an 18-point average and also the leading rebounder and free throw shooter.

He previously had been named to the all-conference and NATA All-District 21 honor teams.

Terry Bohanek State Champion

MT. PLEASANT — The Southwestern Michigan Gymnasts have an individual state champion for the first time in six years.

Terry Bohanek captured a state title in floor exercises here Saturday at the Michigan Association of Gymnastics state championship meet. The young Gymnat was also runnerup in the vault.

Two other Gymnasts took part in this meet. Kim Edwards finished among the top third in the state in the balance beam, while Suelien Schreiber was 11th in the vault, 13th in floor exercises, 18th in balance beam and 20 on the uneven bars.

There are approximately 40 entries in each event at the state level. This Saturday, the Gymnasts travel to Plymouth to take part in the AAU state championship meet.

giving up a homer to the lead-off batter. New Prairie was aided by six Lancer errors.

Marty Mason went the full route for Lakeshore in the nightcap, walking four and giving up eight hits.

New Prairie won with two RBI singles in the bottom of the sixth. Lakeshore scored all its runs in the same inning.

Jeff Wiles poked a RBI single to kick off Lancer scoring. Jim Porter was hit by a pitch with bases loaded to force in another run, then sophomore Mike Mason stroked the first Lancer homer of the season to score three more. Lakeshore is 2-6 with the double loss.

Coach Bill Goodman's Bucks drew a tough customer in LaPorte...Indiana's third-ranked team.

The winners scored three in the third and fourth in the fifth to pace their opening victory. Brian Virgil fanned four and walked four taking the loss. Top Buck sticker was Gary Jones with two RBIs.

LaPorte out hit Buchanan five to four and made just one error to six for the Bucks.

A Dan Kreager single in the second game gave Buchanan its only run. Walt Vanderhush walked five and fanned five to take the hurling loss. Buchanan is now 4-7.

Each team had three hits, but LaPorte played errorless ball while the Bucks made five. Virgil had Buchanan's lone extra-base hit, a double.

St. Joe Riders State Qualifiers

Four St. Joseph riders qualified Sunday for the State High School Motocross Championships in Detroit May 3-4. Qualifying in regional competition at Rockford were Joe Peterson, Mike Lacey and Mike and Kevin Cox. Yamaha is sponsoring the competition which is limited to high school age riders.

Meanwhile, St. Joe riders Joe Beltr and Robert Nytkoff were finishing second and seventh, respectively, in the minibike division Sunday in a motocross event at Lakeville, Ind.

Saline Bowler Still Leading State Tourney

ALLEN PARK, Mich. (AP) — Richard Hoeft of Saline continues to dominate the Michigan Men's Bowling Association tourney after keggers failed to dislodge any top bowlers in the 15th weekend of action.

Hoeft kept the all-events actual lead when bowlers failed to topple his 2,007 pins. The tourney will run another four weekends.

The Ramblers from Mariette retain their lead in the all-events team handicap competition with 3,263 pins.

In doubles handicap, Hoeft and Albert Hoeft Jr. still lead with 1,411 pins. Richard Hoeft also kept his all-events handicap lead at 2,205.

The singles handicap leader is still Dan Schooley of Muskegon who rolled 700. Pacing team actuals is Strobo, Beer of Detroit with 3,035 pins.

Ray Williams of Detroit and Dick Beatty of Pontiac lead doubles actual competition with 1,248. Singles actual leadership is held by Joh Ruggiere III of Belleville who rolled 712.

'Caddie' Fans Waiting Breathlessly For Seville

Many Ready To Shell Out Before Car's Debut

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

It's almost as if they were buying sight unseen.

Probably nine people in southwestern Michigan have told area dealers they want to plunk down something in the neighborhood of $12,500 for a car they won't even be able to touch until May 1.

It's the Seville, Cadillac's temptation to the well-to-do family hunting for a smaller second car and those who buy European cars in the $13,600 to $17,000 bracket.

It's Cadillac's first new model since the Eldorado of a decade or so ago and has whipped up more interest than the Eldorado did then, area dealers say.

Releases from Cadillac HQ in Detroit are silent on price, but the Seville is reputed to have a base around $12,500, well above the Calais coupe ($8,197 base) and even the Fleetwood Brougham ($10,427 base). But, one dealer notes, a loaded Brougham could "easily" top $13,000.

What the Seville buyer gets, the Cadillac office likes to say, is an "international-size" auto that's as at-home in New York as it is in Paris or Frankfurt.

The Seville has an intermediate-size wheelbase at 114.3 inches, seating for five; a 180-horse V-8 that's electronically fuel-injected, and — according to dealers here — the finest craftsmanship they've seen.

At 4,340 pounds, it's no flyweight. Yet EPA tests gave it 19 miles per gallon on the highway, according to Richard Pisarski, sales manager for Decker Olds-Cadillac in South Haven.

He says his firm has two Sevvilles sold; Lee Dennis Briggs Olds-Cadillac at Niles has one advance order; and LeValley-Klum Olds-Cadillac in Benton Harbor lists some half-dozen solid potential buyers.

"I'll be able to sell more than I'll be able to get," says Richard LeValley, LeValley-Klum president.

But a photograph is the closest a buyer can get to the Seville until May 1, the national showroom debut date.

Even so, LeValley says, people began coming to him about the Seville a month and a half ago.

"This car," says Pisarski at Decker Olds-Cadillac, "has had the most interest of any car I've seen introduced at our dealership," which also handles Oldsmobiles and GMC trucks.

"Even though our first car is sold, we have made arrangements with our customer so we can keep the car here for display for the first three weeks of May."

"Oh, it's just beautiful," says Ray Pratt, a salesman at Lee Dennis Briggs at Niles.

"It just is built good, no question about that," says James Hausmann, president of Hausmann Motor Co. at Three Oaks.

"They just do a super job on it," LeValley says. "It's so much better looking than that Rolls-Royce it's pathetic."

Pisarski and LeValley see the Seville aimed straight at buyers of expensive European rigs, and others allow it may also attract well-to-do families hunting a second smaller — but prestigious — car.

"The Seville," says LeValley, "still is less money than the Mercedes 450 SEL, it's less money than the Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow ... and it's less money than the Jaguar XJ 12L."

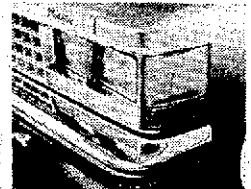

Pisarski tags the three from across the sea at, respectively, $19,100, $36,650, and $13,600.

Wants Candidates Questioned

DETROIT (AP) — Former Congresswoman Martha Griffiths says political candidates should be questioned closely about how they stand on issues affecting women. Mrs. Griffiths, a Democrat from Detroit who championed women's rights during her 20 years in Congress, said political action is the key to most women's issues. She called on women to establish screening committees to question political candidates at all levels, including local school boards and university governing boards. She cited the acceptance of woman at colleges, universities and trade schools as one area in which women are discriminated against. Her comments came Saturday night at the state Democratic party's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fundraiser in Detroit.

Deadline May 7 For Stevensville

Tennis Tournament

Deadline for entry in the Stevensville Liberty Days celebration tennis tournament is May 7, according to Mrs. Charles Siczek, tournament chairman.

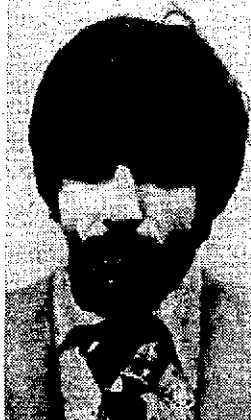

Finals will be held in the afternoon on Friday and Saturday, July 4 and 5 at the Lincoln township tennis courts on Roosevelt road. The courts will be closed to the public on these days. Preliminary matches can be played at any location and will be set up at the players' convenience. They will begin in mid-May.

The tournament is open to all Lakeshore area residents. An entry fee of 50 cents is being charged to cover the expense of the trophies. Entry forms are available at Lakeshore True Value hardware store, Village Square shopping center, Stevensville. Completed forms and entry fees are to be mailed to Liberty Days Tennis, box 278, Stevensville, Michigan.

Matches will include: Men's singles, 16 and up; women's singles, 16 and up; juniors, under 16, and mixed doubles, 16 and up.

Tournament committee members are Mrs. Dennis Kniola, Jerry Ball, Lou Pindorski and Fred Jung.

The first annual Stevensville Liberty Days celebration is being held in preparation for the nation's Bicentennial celebration planned for 1976. Sponsors of Liberty Days hope to make the event an annual celebration. Sponsors include Lakeshore Rotarians, Psi Tota sorority, Friends of the Library, Lakeshore Junior Women's league, Lakeshore Art guild, and Stepping Stones Child Study club.

GENERAL DIES

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Lt. Gen. Francisco Franco Araujo, 84, a first cousin and private secretary to Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the Spanish chief of state, died today.

Franco Araujo had been a close companion of the generalissimo since both were young army officers in the African wars and served him as private secretary for more than 30 years.

THE SEVILLE: Here's the new "baby" Cadillac that some southwestern Michigan residents say they want to buy — even though they won't be able to slide behind the wheel or kick a tire until May

1. Seville is 2 feet 3 shorter, 8 inches narrower and almost a half-ton lighter than Sedan de Ville, and is reputed to have base price around $12,500.

ORIGINAL REVOLUTION DOCUMENTS

War Orders Rest In Ann Arbor

By ROY REYNOLDS

Ann Arbor News

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The tourist crowds will be at Lexington and Concord this month, walking where the opening shots of the American Revolutionary War were fired on April 19, 1775.

But those Boston suburbs are not the place to see the military orders, propaganda leaflets and other documents that started the war.

Those valuable items are on display at Ann Arbor's Clements Library.

The library is the place to see, for example, the first draft of orders Gen. Thomas Gage wrote when he decided to send 700 British out from Boston to seize weapons and gunpowder stockpiled by the Minutemen.

The document in the library is not a copy. It is the original, written by Gage with many insertions and crossings-out as he contemplated the job of trying to suppress rebellion in Massachusetts.

Also on display is a letter in which Gage called for boats from British ships in Boston harbor to carry those troops over the Charles River for their march inland. It was the lowering of those boats that informed rebels the British were coming "by sea."

Also in Ann Arbor are orders Gage wrote sending more troops toward Lexington, when the first contingent was in danger of being wiped out by the aroused Minutemen.

Gage's orders are among 35 key documents on display which are directly related to the historic events at Lexington and Concord.

"This is unique. Nobody else could put together a display like this," emphasizes Arleen Kleeb, assistant curator of manuscripts at the Clements Library.

The display includes even a letter Rachel Revere wrote to her husband, Paul, a few days after his famous ride, warning him it would not be safe to return home to Boston for a few days.

Revere never received the letter. But he wasn't able to hurry away from Lexington anyway, because British scouts — whose report is in the Ann Arbor display — caught Revere while he was rousing the Minutemen and took away his horse.

The countryside was aroused before this happened, for Revere was not the only rider out that night.

The wording of Gen. Gage's orders to his troops and the fact that Revere never received his wife's letter, are evidence that one aspect of Britain's effort to continue governing Massachusetts was working, well in 1775: his intelligence-gathering system.

The reason Mrs. Revere's letter wasn't delivered was that she entrusted it and the money it contained to Dr. Benjamin Church, who was active in the Boston radicals' Committee of Safety and in the Massachusetts Provincial Congress, which met in Concord.

Church also was in the business — unknown to the rebels, of course — of selling information about their meetings and plans to Gen. Gage. His payments supported Church's mistress in Boston.

Presumably, that also is what happened to the money Mrs. Revere tried to send to Paul.

Her letter was found among Gage's papers, covering his activities as commander-in-chief of British troops in North America from 1763 through 1775.

The Gage papers were purchased in 1930 by William L. Clements and donated to the library on the University of Michigan campus.

As a result of information supplied by Church and other spies, Gage was able to open his orders to the troops who marched on April 19 by telling them to capture in Concord such items as:

"Four brass cannon, two mortars with a number of small arms in the buildings and outhouses of William Barrett's, a little on the other side of the bridge, where is also lodged a quantity of powder and lead...."

When the Redcoats neared their destination, they were divided between Lexington and Concord, and then split again within Concord.

The 200 troops deployed on Lexington Green, under command of Major John Pitcairn, found themselves facing only about 40 Minutemen. During that crucial first exchange of fire, eight Americans were killed and one British private was nicked in the leg.

There is a dispute over who fired the first shot.

Capt. John Parker, leader of the Minutemen, said in a deposition that when he saw how many Redcoats had arrived, he "immediately ordered our militia to disperse and not to fire." In the report Pitcairn sent

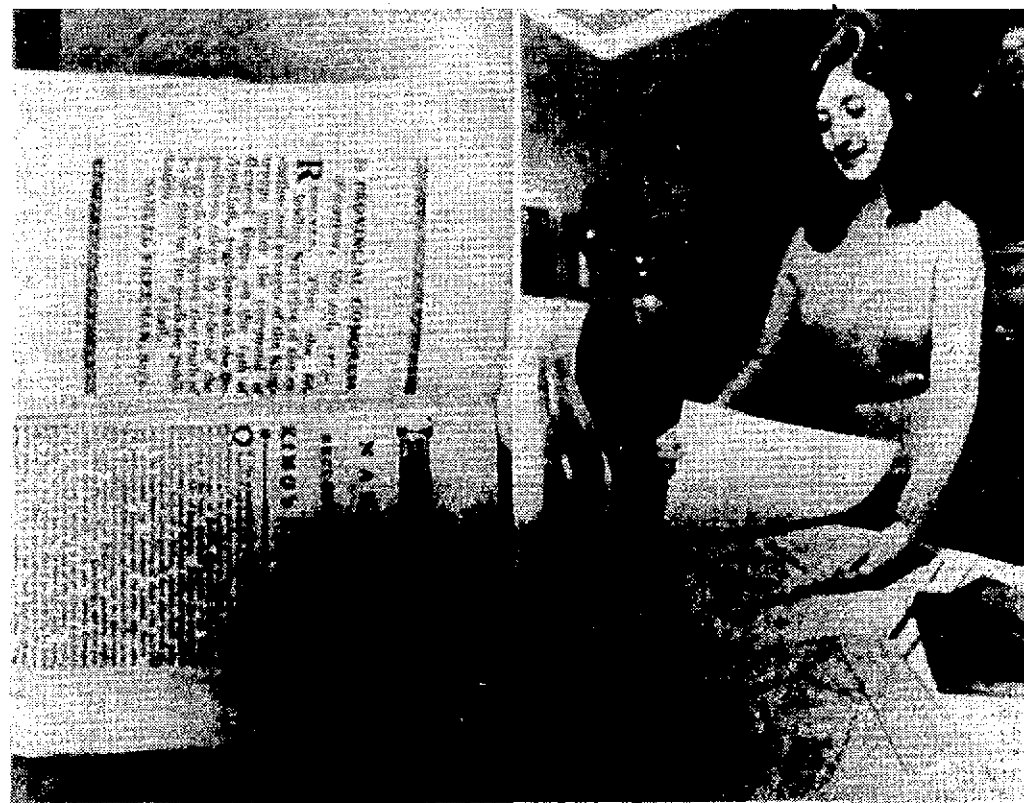

Gage about the encounter, he wrote:

"I gave direction to the troops to move forward but on no account to fire, or even attempt it without orders."

At Concord's strategic North Bridge, where the famous Minuteman Statue now stands, there also is doubt over who fired the first shot that began the British rout.

Less than two weeks later, Gage issued an order declaring Massachusetts to be in "avowed rebellion," and therefore under martial law.

That, too, is included in the display.

ONE OF A KIND: Arleen Kleeb, assistant curator of documents at the University of Michigan's Clements Library, removes from storage the original order that sent 700 British Redcoats from Boston to Lexington and Concord. At left is an extremely rare parrative published in Worcester, Mass., soon after events at Lexington and Concord; it was distributed on the streets of London two weeks before the official British account arrived. (AP Wirephoto)

Cancer Cells Isolated For Detailed Study

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A team of doctors and researchers at a laboratory here say they have isolated cancer cells so they can be studied in detail.

They say their work has led to encouraging results in treating some cancers, although none was ready to call the treatment a cure.

Dr. Roland Patillo, who heads the Medical College of Wisconsin team, says the treatment is still in preliminary, investigative stages.

Research on the treatment began 10 years ago at Johns Hopkins University Medical School, and has been carried on for the last eight years by the Milwaukee college's Cancer Research and Reproductive Endocrinology Laboratory.

Upper Peninsula Economic Picture Getting Brighter

By JAMES E. TRETHERWEY
Marquette Mining Journal
MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — The Upper Peninsula's economic picture is getting brighter, but it's still off its knees and making strides from a series of crippling blows over the past 25 years.
The Marquette-Negaunee-Ishpeming area is enjoying the greatest boom in its history, and there are positive signs that the 15-county region north of the Mackinac Bridge is on the threshold of finding lasting economic stability.
Positive signs of growth and steady employment are evident almost everywhere. For instance:
— In Escanaba, Harnischfeger Corp.'s big machinery construction division can't keep up with orders and is considering expansion, possibly adding 1,100 persons to the payroll.

— In Calumet, the Homestake Copper Co. is in the midst of a multi-million-dollar gamble to resurrect the copper mining industry.
— At Hermansville, Whitewater, Inc., a Toledo, Ohio, firm with forest product operations in five states, has announced plans for immediate construction of its Johnson Lumber Division mill. The mill was destroyed by a December fire.
— In Munising, Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. is going ahead with construction of a new veneer lumber plant that will employ 150.
The greatest surge is taking place in Marquette County as a direct result of the rebirth of the iron mining industry in the 1960's.

Completion of the monstrous Tilden mine and pellet plant project near Ishpeming and expansion of similar facilities at the Empire property near Negaunee enabled CCI to add 420 persons to its payroll last year.
Another 200 are being hired early this year, so CCI soon will have 3,800 persons working on its mining properties on the Marquette Range. It already is the U.P.'s largest employer.
There still are gray areas in the peninsula's economy; some might even describe them as bleak. But many of the current economic problems in the region seem directly tied to national economic conditions.
The slowdown in the auto industry, for instance, has prevented a big new parts assembly plant from starting up in Sault Ste. Marie. In Iron River, a major parts supplier for American Motors, Coleman Products Co., has had to curtail production.

"Panic buying" by many printing and publishing firms last year built up inventories and has forced reductions in output at mills.
In the main, however, the feeling throughout the U.P. is one of optimism.
About the biggest concern, right now, for residents of this North Country is the price they may have to pay for oil, coal or other heating fuels. They've seen it skyrocket in the past two years and are hoping President Ford does nothing to add to what already is a heavy financial burden.

Farther north, communities in central and northern Menominee County also seem to be thriving, or at least weathering the financial storm which has gripped Michigan and the rest of the nation.
Nesbitt estimates that the unemployment rate in the City of Menominee is only about four per cent and believes it will go down in the next few months.
Diversification of industry probably is the principal reason for Menominee's well-being. Cooperation with Marinette, Wis., just across the Menominee River, also helps greatly.

Employment is steady at most of the area's factories and plants, including at the R.J. Enstrom Co., which manufactures a world-famous helicopter and which is owned by attorney F. Lee Bailey.

"Taking the greater Menominee-Marquette area, all of our industry looks real healthy," Nesbitt said.

"Marquette has had some substantial growth the last few years. Since some of our people have jobs in that city and vice versa, whatever helps one city is of benefit to the other."

Andrews Occupation Center Chief Named

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Steve Young will be the new director of the center for occupational education at Andrews university here, starting July 1. He will replace Melvin Andersen, who has been doubling as the university's assistant director of recruitment and admissions since January. Young who has already begun some duties, such as recruiting, for the center will recruit full time in July. Young, 50, is a farmer and ordained minister. He has been a high school principal, president of Malawulo college, Malawi, Africa, a teacher, and public school superintendent. He holds a bachelor's degree in history and education from Walla Walla college, Washington, and a master's in secondary education administration from Kansas State Teachers college. Young has had an "outstanding record performance" in vocational education, according to Dr. Bill Davidson, dean of AU's college of technology.

This past year he has taken a leave of absence from Adelphi academy, a Michigan high school, to prepare a 340 acre farm in Missouri for sale. Young and his wife, Bonnie Louise, have three daughters, one attending Andrews university.

FLIGHT DIRECTOR: Arthur Edguld (above) has replaced Melvin Krause as flight director at Andrews university airport, according to university announcement. Edguld, veteran of both Korea and Vietnam, has flown every type of helicopter and plane used by US Army. Edguld said he would like to see university buy helicopter which could be used for medical evacuation service.

Veteran Newsman Pens Series

(Editors Note: A series of articles on the economy of Michigan's Upper Peninsula was prepared early this year by James E. Tretthewey, veteran associate editor of the Marquette Mining Journal. His 14 articles have been condensed by the Associated Press. This is the first of three.)

encouraging, but not really bleak either."
Russell Carriere, operations vice president for Pettibone Corp. in Baraga, said he believes his company will hold firm against rising unemployment. Pettibone is the county's largest employer with about 500 on the payroll at various divisions. The firm manufactures the Cary-Lil.
"Right now we have enough orders to keep us busy... and I don't anticipate any layoffs," Carriere said.
Across the bay in L'Anse, the picture isn't quite as bright.
"Let's face it," said Lyman Swanson, manager of the Celotex Corp. plant, "the housing market is dormant at the moment. Since a good deal of our product is used in the housing business, we have been hurt in the past year."
Celotex, which employs about 250 salaried and hourly workers, has about 10 per cent on temporary layoff.
Smaller firms like U.P. Plastics and All-Wood Corp. also are slow right now. But Baraga County was one of the few areas in the U.P. to enjoy an increase in population in the 1960's, and hopes are bright.

WINNER: Dr. Humberto M. Rasi, chairman of modern language department at Andrews university, Berrien Springs, has won fellowship from National Endowment for Humanities, which will pay his salary and expenses for nine months next school year to study Spanish literature at John Hopkins university. He is one of about a dozen chosen nationally for fellowship for study in this field. Rasi came to AU in 1968.

The Instant It Happened

AU REVOIR, BUT NOT GOODBYE

Tears on the streets of Marseilles. Elsewhere, brave words. But how much real hope?

"Democracy is not dying," Franklin Roosevelt said, in his third inaugural. Dictatorship is not "the wave of the future."

The House passed his Lend-Lease bill. America was about to drop its facade of neutrality and begin a vast flow of war goods to beleaguered Europe. Would it come in time?

"Give us the tools," Winston Churchill told the United States, "and we will finish the job."

Finish? It was hardly begun. It would be more than a year before the Axis tide would be stopped in Europe and Asia, and Churchill could say, with more confidence, "It is, perhaps, the end of the beginning."

But now it is Feb. 19, 1941, and Hitler holds the whole Atlantic coast of Europe. Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium and France have fallen. London is being pounded daily by bombing raids and searing firestorms. Invasion is expected any day from the greatest army in history poised across the Channel.

Germans occupy three-fifths of France. What is left, Vichy France, is supposed to be free to govern itself but Hitler keeps squeezing.

And in Marseilles, the flags of defeated French regiments, stranded in unoccupied France since the black armistice with Hitler, are now being carried down to the docks to be sent to Algeria for safekeeping. How long would they be safe there? How long would Frenchmen be safe, in Marseilles? They weep.

Here's One For Railroad Buff With Everything

BOYNE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Want to buy a railroad?

True, the Boyne City Railroad is Michigan's smallest, and it'll cost you $400,000, but its general manager suggests it's the ideal gift for a true rail enthusiast.

"We've had a lot of inquiries but further than that nothing," said Charles E. Williams, vice president and general manager of the line.

"With its two locomotives, 7.2 miles of track and right of way, its six passenger cars, two cabooses, one snowplow, one plush private car built in 1900, two depots, a roundhouse museum, gift shop and two-story office building, the Boyne City Railroad would make an ideal purchase for a railroad buff," Williams contended.

The line runs from Boyne City to Boyne Falls, where it joins the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad.

And, a federal rail reorganization plan could isolate the Boyne City from other lines. The plan says unless the state wants to take over, the Penn Central line north of Cedar Springs, about 15 miles from Grand Rapids, is subject to abandonment.

A relic of lumbering's boom, the Boyne City is the surviving remnant of the old Boyne City, Gaylord & Alpena Railroad.

A lumber baron started building more than 80 miles of track in 1893 to move his logs from timber country. But when business slowed, the railroad toppled with it.

The owners petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to abandon the last track in 1970. But three Grand Rapids businessmen stepped in to save the line.

That group, headed by Hollis M. Baker, a furniture family heir, hoped to profit from tourists. For a time they may have. Tourist traffic on the line jumped from less than 5,000 riders in 1971 to nearly 25,000 in 1973.

But in 1974, the energy crunch and resulting shortage of fuel oil caused Williams to cancel passenger service.

Only seasonal freight service remained and the owners said freight traffic alone could not sustain the railroad.

Even though seeking a new owner, Williams says freight service will resume before April ends.

Deadly Pills Are Stolen

TAYLOR, Mich. (AP) — Police in this Detroit suburb are alerting hospitals to watch for emergency patients who may have swallowed deadly drugs taken in a recent drug store burglary.

About 10,000 pills were taken Friday night and 5,000 of the pills could be fatal, police said. The pills included "Lanoxin" and "Pavabid" tablets. Two Lanoxin or five Pavabid pills could cause death.

'First Women's Bank' Due For Fall Opener In NY

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After three years of trying to raise capital and meet state requirements, the First Women's Bank says it will be certified soon and will begin full operation in the fall.

The bank bills itself as the first commercial bank to be nondiscriminatory in its hiring, promotion and credit policies and first to place special emphasis on meeting the financial needs of women.

"Some people thought we'd never get off the ground. But the bank has generated so much enthusiasm people are already sending in deposits. It was definitely an idea whose time has come," said Madeline McWhinney, the bank's president.

Bank officers say it will be a full service bank that will make special efforts to create banking career opportunities for women. They also say they plan to advance credit and loans to women who are having trouble getting financial help from the larger established banks.

Although Congress has passed the Equal Credit Opportunity Act which bans sex discrimination in credit, Miss McWhinney says that many banks don't want to bother with women as customers and consider them poor risks.

"It's an attitude that takes a long time to change," said Miss McWhinney. "Most banks have failed to catch up with the fact that women are good customers, that they have the jobs and the money to invest. Opening our bank is a positive step in letting women know that their needs will be met."

Other women's banks are in the works in Greenwich, Conn.; Washington, D.C.; Minneapolis; Seattle; Los Angeles; San Diego; Portland, Ore.; and Portland, Maine.

The First Women's Bank will be open to men and women. There are five men on the board of directors along with feminist Betty Friedan, designer Pauline Trigere and Advertising executive Jane Trahey.

Miss McWhinney says that an important part of the bank's business will be counseling and reference. She says she hopes to have a library of financial and consumer information and eventually hold seminars on money management and investment.

Miss McWhinney, who is married but prefers to use her maiden name for business, came to the Women's Bank after 30 years with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York where she was its highest ranking female officer.

She said that the new bank has 7,000 shareholders who have bought stock at $15 a share to help raise the $3 million necessary for capitalization. The first effort to raise $4 million failed because of the difficult economic times, not from lack of enthusiasm, she said.

The bank's temporary, cardboard box cluttered offices are on East 57th in a windowless basement. The bank plans to move into permanent, aboveground offices eventually.

Women Still Worry About Discrimination

BOSTON (AP) — Women graduating from Harvard Business School this year say they expect to get good jobs but many are worried about discrimination despite the quotas of women and minorities that some companies indicate they seek.

"There is a myth going around that if you're a woman here you don't have any problems," said Judy Cronin, one of the 87 women students in the school's class of 802. "But when the offers are in and the money is on the table, I'll be surprised if the women do as well as the men."

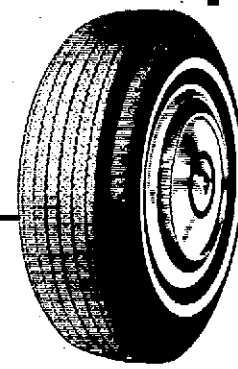

She said she believes because of the recession companies can't afford to consider quotas.

SUMMER SCHOOL

LMC Will Offer Over 100 Courses

More than 100 courses — 51 of them to be taught at night — in 27 different academic areas will comprise Lake Michigan college's offerings this summer. Summer school classes are to begin June 16.

The general studies division will offer summer classes in 16 academic disciplines, including art, biological science, chemistry, drama, education, English, history, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical science, political science, psychology, reading, sociology, and speech.

The LMC occupational studies division will offer courses in 10 different academic areas including appliance service technology, apprentice training, automotive technology, business administration, drafting and design technology, electronics technology, electro-mechanical studies, law enforcement, management techniques, and secretarial science.

The professional and paraprofessional studies area will offer courses in psychology, personal growth, communications, reading, and mathematics.

LMC's off-campus extension unit at Niles will offer summer classes for the first time at any of the college's outlying educational centers. Niles classes will include those in history, art, English, speech, and certified medical office assistant.

Emotions Can Cause Illnesses

"True or False: Some people fall ill at the same time each year — regardless of weather, climate or what they are doing."

Personal conflicts and tension are the cause of more than everyday emotional problems — they strike our physical makeup as well. If you suffer from acute skin problems, if you are prone to chronic fatigue and colds, and your doctor doesn't seem to have a cure, perhaps you ought to examine your psyche.

This week's "People Quiz" takes a close look at the link between physical and psychological well-being.

Read it Saturday in Family Weekly, a regular feature of The Herald-Palladium.

Thailand Will Surrender Arms Of Refugees

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Thai government will give Cambodia's new Communist government all vehicles, aircraft, weapons and ammunition brought into Thailand by fleeing Cambodian troops, Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonhavan said today.

Unconfirmed press reports said some Khmer Rouge troops across the border from Thailand's Chanthaburi province had threatened to attack unless the Thais returned armored vehicles that the refugee troops took.

The troops brought dozens of trucks and armored vehicles, several planes, four patrol boats and hundreds of weapons.

Except for information gleaned along the Thai border, the fate of Cambodia under Khmer Rouge rule remained hidden for the fifth day behind a news blackout.

'Demons' Are Discounted By Mary Ure's Husband

Q: Do people really think something supernatural was involved when actress Mary Ure died suddenly the night she opened in the London play, "The Exorcism"? — D.V., Nashville, Tenn.

A: Mary's husband, Robert Shaw (who was so great in "The Sting"), has no faith in the occult and ridicules such talk. But Frederick Granville, co-producer of the play, berates around two dozen red roses to mark her first day of shooting on a new TV series. If this is true, Kissinger, with his present worries, must be the best organized executive in the world — or the most gallant.

Q: Is it true the Sandy Dennis-Gerry Mulligan marriage is kaput? — J.W., Newark, N.J.

A: Looks that way. While Sandy does her thing onstage in Broadway's "Absurd Person Singular," the famed jazz player-composer is being seen around in the company of a ravishing black-haired beauty. Could Sandy's 28 cats have something to do with all this?

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Who has the hottest pair of legs since Dietrich? Little old Stephanie Audran, voted Miss "most exciting legs" in France and soon to be seen in Ray Stark's film, "The Black Bird," also in Ayco Embassy's Agatha Christie mystery "Ten Little Indians," and her husband Claude Cabrol's cinema "La Rupture."

Q: What happened to the daughter of Rita Hayworth and the late Prince Ali Khan? — F.P., Erie, Okla.

A: Yasmin Khan, 24, is doing

MULLIGAN: Changing his tune?

just fine. She is reported to be on the verge of becoming engaged to German Count Faber Castel. You don't have to be German to have heard of Faber pencils, right?

Q: Is it true that Elliot Richardson, our new Ambassador to England, has a bad reputation for drinking? — J.F., Rochester, N.Y.

A: It is true that the Ambassador's Democratic political enemies have helped develop such a reputation for him by spreading around his driving record — eight minor offenses and two convictions for drunken driving, one when he was 18, another in the early Fifties. The whole thing makes Richardson so mad he always insists on it being made part of the record. He does drink socially, but as his wife puts it, "It is an example of how hard it is to prove a negative."

Rescuers Find Dutch Victims

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Rescuers today refloated a burned-out Dutch excursion cruiser and began to recover the bodies of passengers who went down with the ship when it sank in the Rhine River on Saturday.

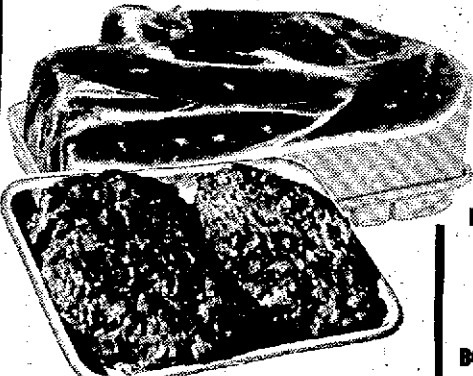

Most of the victims were elderly, crippled Dutch persons.

'Pirates' At Work In Mines

NEW YORK (AP) — "Pirates" are at work in Kentucky, reports Coal Age magazine.

Their plunder is coming from tapping old, abandoned mines. Their booty consists of a few tons of coal each day, worth up to $80 a day. Piracy has gained popularity with the present high price of coal. All the pirates need are a map, a few picks, some shovels and a pickup truck.

India Enters Space Age

MOSCOW (AP) — India entered the space age today by launching its first earth satellite with the help of a Soviet carrier rocket, the two governments announced.

The 800-pound satellite was reported circling the globe every 96.41 minutes and was expected to remain in orbit about six months.

SLAYING TRIAL

BALDWIN, Mich. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John T. Riley has ordered Leroy Lewis, 23, to stand trial for the March 25 slaying of camper Daniel Barnett of Highland Township.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Open Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Predictions that the economy has hit bottom and news that President Nguyen Van Thieu has resigned in South Vietnam sent stock prices higher today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up almost a point shortly after the opening as advancing stocks moderately led declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors were impressed, brokers said, by the near-uniformity of opinion among business leaders questioned in a telecast Sunday that the recession has reached its low point and has begun to recover. General Motors chairman Thomas Murphy said there was "signs of a resurgence" in the auto industry.

In addition, brokers said the resignation of President Thieu seemed to eliminate the possibility of large-scale U.S. aid to South Vietnam and might even lead to a political settlement there.

Opening prices on the Big Board included American Airlines, steady at 9 1/4; Tesoro Petroleum, down 5/8 at 15 3/4; Sperry Rand, off 3/4 at 38 3/4; Caterpillar jumped 1 to 67.

The Dow Jones average bulled ahead last week, gained 18.93 points to close at 806.43.

Volume for the week rose to 134.69 million shares, the busiest since the last week of January when volume hit a record weekly total of more than 145 million.

Brokers were encouraged by the market's advance despite government figures which showed a sharp drop in the gross national product during the first quarter and despite corporate reports indicating profit declines.

They said investors were increasingly looking forward to the end of the recession and new economic growth.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Convertible: Key Word In Stocks

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I am a widow with some Atlantic Richfield $3 preferred I inherited. I have a substantial capital in the stock and like the company because of its North Slope development. But the dividend income is low. I'd like to stay with the company. Would one of their other preferred or common stock issues be better for me? May I switch without paying brokerage commissions?

A. There is an Atlantic Richfield preferred which pays $3.75 in dividends and as of the day your letter arrived sold at 47 1/2. That works out to a healthy yield of 7.89 per cent. There are some Atlantic Richfield bond issues outstanding which yield around 8 1/2 per cent or better.

The common pays $2.50 and sells around 81 1/2 — a yield of only 3.06 per cent. The $2.80 convertible preferred, on that day, sold at 55 1/2, yielding 5.04 per cent and the $3 convertible preferred you own sold at 139, yielding only 2.15 per cent.

All this is very confusing unless you center your attention on that very important word: "convertible." If ever there was a key word in a corporation's stock listing, this is it.

When you say you'd "like to stay with the company" because of its potential you should realize that in order to share in such potential you must be a holder of common shares or preferreds, convertible into common.

Owners of straight (non-convertible) preferreds and bonds do not share in a company's improvement — other than, of course, enjoying the comfort of increased earnings to cover their fixed dividend and interest requirements. The ownership of a company is primarily reflected in the common shares which rise (or fall) in price as dividends and earnings rise (or fall).

To be specific: the Atlantic Richfield investors who stand to benefit most if the North Slope development lives up to expectations will be the holders of common shares and of preferreds convertible into common. The bond and straight preferred holders cannot expect increased interest and dividend payments.

And that is why you find that common shares are yielding only around 3 per cent and the two convertible preferreds only roughly 2 to 5 per cent as against much higher yields from the straight preferreds and bonds.

Why do the $2.80 dividend convertible preferreds yield around 5 per cent and the $3 convertible preferreds less than half that much? Because the latter issue is convertible into three shares of common and the $2.80 issue into only 0.8 shares of common. As the old Grape Nuts ad used to put it, "There's a reason." You can't have both high yield and "great expectations" in the same security.

Finally — you may exchange convertible preferreds for common without paying a commission. But anyone who wants to switch common into preferreds must pay commissions.

MONEY TALKS
Q. Believe it or not in our home your column is read right after the sports pages...

A. Not so hard to believe. Whenever I look at the sports pages these days I find at least as many dollar signs as I find on the financial pages.

MYSTIFYING FORMULA
Q. Over the last 15 years I have invested in six different mutual funds. My ultimate objective is to own one each of a top-rated, balanced growth and high yield fund.

A. I am a bit mystified by your formula because I don't understand why you are seeking income from a money management fund at the same time that you are putting money into an all-out growth fund.

However, having no data on your age, resources, earnings and responsibilities, I have no basis for discussion. It would seem to me that if you have money to invest, you are still in the nest-egg building stage; therefore, you should be aiming primarily at growth of capital. Shulsky welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Uncle Sam and MONY have a great idea for people with no pension plan

Recently enacted U.S. Government legislation has made possible generous tax benefits for people with no pension plan. Under the Pension Reform Act, you can contribute annually up to 15% of your earnings—not to exceed $1500—to a pension plan. You can deduct the entire amount from your taxable income for the year and pay no current income taxes on it whatsoever. In fact, you pay no taxes on it until retirement when, most likely, you will be earning less and in a far lower tax bracket. What's more, the money contributed draws interest and increases rapidly in your retirement fund. And you pay no taxes on the interest, either, until retirement.

Enzymes Might Curb Oil Spills

NEW YORK (AP) — Ocean oil spills, a major environmental hazard of increased offshore drilling in the U.S., may soon be controlled and broken down by a special enzyme solution.

Scientists report that enzymes, natural substances themselves, have the ability to break oil down into harmless compounds, thus reducing the threat of oil spills polluting beaches and harming aquatic life.

And you'll start getting that extra cash in a few days. For the IRS must prepare new temporary withholding tables, effective for wages paid after Apr.

FBI Says Extortion Cases Rising

DETROIT — Neil J. Welch, special agent in charge, FBI Detroit office, said today the number of extortion cases investigated by the FBI in recent months has been noticeably increasing.

Welch specifically referred to investigations under the Federal Extortionate Credit Transaction statute. He said this law makes it a federal crime to use extortionate means to collect any debt, regardless of its nature.

Welch explained that extortionate means refers to the use of threats or of physical violence in order to force repayment. He noted that the origin of the debt is immaterial and that financial obligations ranging from legitimate bills to illegal gambling debts were covered by the statute.

Apparently many people are unaware that this type of activity comes within the investigative jurisdiction of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and is a violation of Federal law.

Welch said in recent months arrests have been made under this statute of collection agents, loan sharks operating within industrial plants and organized crime loan shark enforcers.

In explaining the increase in complaints brought to the FBI in this area, Welch speculated that one primary reason for this increase may be found in the current economic conditions. People needing money and unable to obtain it through any other means may turn to a loan shark. Also people who have previously borrowed money from a loan shark and are now unemployed may find themselves unable to make the high interest payments often associated with these loans.

Additionally, loan sharks themselves may be pushing harder for repayment. Welch pointed out that a high interest rate, while often part of a typical loan sharking complaint received by the FBI, is not one of the elements required for prosecution under the Federal Extortionate Credit Transaction law. The collection of any debt using extortionate means, with or without interest, is a violation.

Greeks Looking To France

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A highly successful shopping trip to Paris by Premier Constantine Karamanlis has heightened the expectation that France will replace the waning American influence in Greece.

The premier, who spent 7 1/2 years in self-imposed exile in Paris, returned from the French capital on Sunday with pledges of $800 million in loans and new French weapons for the Greek armed forces.

Reports from Paris said the French government "agreed to almost everything" Karamanlis requested. The Greek press said the premier's mission was "more successful than his wild dreams."

The reports from Paris said the French agreed to speed up the arms deliveries in view of continuing Greek-Turkish tensions. The arms will be financed by low-interest, long-term loans. French banks pledged $500 million for Greece's five-year agricultural development plan, and another $300 million in loans from European banks.

agrees with French government support.

LEGAL NOTICE

The City of Coloma will hold a public hearing May 26, 1975 at 8:30 p.m. on the following proposed Ordinance.
INDUSTRIAL WASTE ORDINANCE

ORDINANCE
AN ORDINANCE PLACING RESTRICTIONS ON THE QUALITY OF EFFLUENT AND CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL WASTES WHICH ARE DISCHARGED TO THE CITY OF COLOMA SEWER SYSTEM, PROVIDING CHARGES FOR RECEIVING AND TREATING CERTAIN WASTES, AND PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES AND REMEDIES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THIS ORDINANCE.

ARTICLE I
Sec. 101: "City" where used in this ordinance shall mean the City of Coloma.

Sec. 102: "Joint Board" where used in this ordinance shall be understood to mean the Joint Board of the Paw Paw Lake Sewage Disposal Plant as defined in the Joint Sewage Disposal Contract between the Cities of Coloma and Watervliet and the Townships of Coloma and Watervliet and dated January 8, 1971.

Sec. 103: "Joint Plant" shall mean the Paw Paw Lake Sewage Disposal Plant.

Sec. 104: "Person" shall mean any individual, firm, company, association, society, corporation or group.

Sec. 105: "Sewer" shall mean any pipe, tile, tube, or conduit for carrying sewage.

Sec. 106: "Sanitary Sewer" shall mean a sewer which carries sewage and to which storm, surface and ground waters are not intentionally admitted.

Sec. 107: "Combination Sewer" or "Combined Sewer" shall mean a sewer receiving both surface run off and sewage.

Sec. 108: "Storm Drain" shall mean a sewer which carries storm and surface waters and drainage, but which excludes sewage and polluted industrial wastes.

Sec. 109: "Public Sewer" shall mean a sewer in which all owners of abutting property have equal rights, and is controlled by public authority.

Sec. 110: "Building Sewer" shall mean that sewer which received the discharge from soil pipes, waste pipes and other drainage pipes from within a building and the extension thereof to the public sewer.

Sec. 111: "Sewage" shall mean any combination of water carried wastes from residences, business buildings, institutions and industrial establishments together with such ground, surface and storm waters as may be present.

Sec. 112: "Industrial Wastes" shall mean the liquid wastes, solids, or semi-solids from industrial processes as distinct from sanitary sewage.

Sec. 113: "Unpolluted Industrial Process Water" shall mean water used in an industrial process that has not come in contact with any substance used in, or incidental to, an industrial processing operation and to which no chemical or other substance or excessive heat has been added.

Sec. 114: "B. O. D." or "Biochemical Oxygen Demand" shall mean the quantity of oxygen utilized in the biochemical oxidation of organic matter under standard laboratory procedure in five days at twenty degrees centigrade expressed in milligrams per liter.

Sec. 115: "SS" or "Suspended Solids" shall mean solids that either float on the surface of, or are in suspension in water, sewage or other liquids; and which are removable by standard laboratory filtering.

Sec. 116: "P" or "Phosphorous" shall mean the total amount, by weight, of the element phosphorous.

Sec. 117: "pH" shall mean the logarithm of the reciprocal of the weight of the hydrogen ions in grams per liter of solution.

Sec. 118: "mg/l" shall mean milligrams per liter.

Sec. 119: "Properly Shredded Garbage" shall mean the wastes from the cooking, preparation and dispensing of food that has been cut or shredded to such a degree that all particles will be carried freely under flow conditions normally prevailing in public sewers, with no particle greater than 1/2" in any dimension.

Sec. 120: "Pretreatment" shall mean any arrangement of devices of structure used to treat, alter or otherwise change the physical and/or chemical characteristics of a waste prior to discharging the same into a public sewage collection system.

Sec. 121: "Incompatible Waste" shall mean any waste containing substances which are not amenable to treatment in the normal treatment process provided for at the Plant.

Sec. 122: "NPDES Permit" shall mean the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System Permit issued to the Joint Plant by the State of Michigan Water Resources Commission.

Sec. 123: "Slug or Batch Discharge" shall mean any discharge of waters or waste in which the concentration of any substance exceeds three times the allowable limits as defined for said substance in this ordinance during any discharge period of 15 minutes or longer.

Sec. 124: "Shall" is mandatory. "May" is permissive.

Sec. 125: "Sewer System" shall mean the sewer collection system for the City of Coloma.

USE OF PUBLIC SEWERS

Sec. 201: Storm water, surface water, ground water, roof runoff subsurface drainage, cooling water or unpolluted industrial process waters shall not be discharged to a sewer designed to carry sanitary wastes.

Sec. 202: Except as hereinafter provided, no person shall discharge or cause to be discharged any of the following described waters or wastes into any public sewer.

(a) Any liquid or vapor having a temperature higher than 150°F.

(b) Any water or waste which may contain more than 75 mg/l of fat, oil or grease.

(c) Any gasoline, benzene, naphtha, fuel oil, or other flammable or explosive liquid, solid or gas.

(d) Any grease, oil or other substance that will become solid or viscous at temperatures between 32°F or 150°F.

(e) Any solid or viscous substance capable of causing obstruction to the flow in sewers or other interference with proper operation of sewage works.

(f) Any garbage that has not been properly shredded.

(g) Any waters or wastes having a pH lower than 6.5 or higher than 9.5 or having any other corrosive property capable of causing damage or hazards to structures, equipment, or personnel of sewage works.

provide, at his expense, such pretreatment as may be necessary to reduce the B.O.D. to 250 mg/l and the Suspended Solids to 275 mg/l and the Phosphorous content to 10 mg/l, and reduce the concentration of toxic or incompatible substance to within the limits as established in Article II, Sections 202 and 203.

Sec. 205: All persons who have pretreatment facility and all industries, as defined in the NPDES Permit and who discharge into a public sewer tributary to the Joint Plant shall be required to submit regular reports to the Joint Board relative to the volume and chemical and physical characteristics of the waste discharged. Each industry, subject to the pretreatment standards or other applicable requirements promulgated pursuant to Section 307 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-500), shall submit to the Joint Board semi-annual reports regarding specific action taken to achieve full compliance with the requirements of Section 307 of the Act. The Joint Board will file these reports with the Michigan Water Resources Commission until full compliance is achieved. These reports shall contain only that information necessary for the Joint Board to meet the reporting requirements of their NPDES Permit, and to insure the protection of the Joint Plant and its treatment processes. The type of equipment, methods and frequency used for metering, sampling and analysis shall be subject to the approval of the City of Coloma and Joint Board. Where pretreatment facilities are provided for any water or wastes, they shall be maintained in satisfactory and effective operation by said person at his expense. All monitoring and analytical instrumentation and related equipment shall be periodically calibrated and maintained at intervals to insure accuracy of measurements.

Sec. 206: Any persons discharging wastes or wastes meeting the limitations of Article II, Sections 202 and 203, and exceeding only the limitations of Article II, Section 204 regarding B.O.D., Suspended Solids and P, then the City of Coloma may at their discretion, allow the wastes to be discharged into a public sewer tributary to the Joint Plant and charge said person for treatment according to the following formula:

Total Charges = (M1) V + (M2) BOD + (M3) SS + (M4) P + Meter Charge

Where:
M1, M2, M3, and M4 — Multiplying Constants.
V — Volume of waste in million gallons.
BOD — 5 day BOD in 1000 pounds.
SS — Suspended Solids in 100 pounds.
P — Total phosphorous in 100 pounds.

Meter Charge — As provided for in rate ordinance as adopted by the City of Coloma.

The Multiplying Constants (M1, M2, M3, and M4) shall be calculated annually after the end of the fiscal year used by the City of Coloma, which is April 1 to March 31, by means of a formula approved, and filed at the City Hall, commencing with the fiscal year 1975-1976. Billings will be rendered on a quarterly basis. The volume will be actual. Loadings of BOD, SS and P will be actual as calculated from the analysis taken during the preceding month.

Said persons shall be required to submit regular reports to the City of Coloma relative to the discharge of their wastes. The reports shall contain such information as strength of BOD, SS, P, pH, volume discharged and other data that might be readily available from his operational procedures. This data may be used for the basis of billing under the above formula; however, the City of Coloma, at their discretion, may conduct analysis of representative samples taken by the City of Coloma as means of verifying the results as submitted, and the City of Coloma may use their own results of analysis for billing purposes. The type of equipment, methods and frequency used for metering, sampling and analysis shall be subject to approval of the City of Coloma.

Sec. 207: When required by the Joint Board, any person who discharges any waste that has been subject to pretreatment or is of the quality as described in Article II, Section 206, shall install a suitable control manhole in the building sewer to facilitate observation, sampling and the measurement of waste. Such manholes, when required, shall be accessible and safely located, and shall be constructed in accordance with plans approved by the Joint Board. The manhole shall be installed and maintained by said person at his expense.

Sec. 208: All measurements, tests and analysis of the characteristics of waters and wastes shall be made in accordance with the methods described in the current edition of one of the following texts:

(a) "Standard Methods for the Examination of Water and Wastewater" as published by the American Public Health Association.

(b) "A.S.T.M. Standards, Part 23, Water Atmosphere Analysis" as published by the American Society for Testing and Materials.

(c) "Methods for Analysis of Water and Wastes" as published by the Environmental Protection Agency, Water Quality Office.

Such tests as are herein specified shall be determined upon representative samples taken at the control manhole provided for in Section 207. In the event that no special manhole has been required, the control manhole shall be considered to be the nearest downstream manhole in the public sewer.

Sec. 209: Any operator of a septic tank waste hauling firm that desires to deposit domestic septic tank wastes at the Joint Plant shall first obtain all applicable State and local licenses and permits governing this service. The dumping of domestic septic tank wastes at the Joint Plant shall be done in strict accordance with the rules and regulations established by the Joint Board and on file at the Joint Plant. Only that waste resulting from domestic and/or sanitary facilities will be permitted to be disposed of at the Joint Plant. The dumping of any water or wastes originating from an industrial or commercial process or the sludge, precipitate or condensed substances resulting from any person's water, waste or air pollutants as defined in this ordinance is prohibited. The rate of charges for depositing domestic septic tank waste at the Joint Plant will be based on the cost of treating said waste. The rates are on file at the Joint Plant. Billing will be based on the number of loads received and the capacity of the tank truck.

Sec. 210: No statement contained in this article shall be construed as preventing any special agreement or arrangement between the City of Coloma and any person whereby a waste of unusual strength or character may be accepted by the City of Coloma for treatment.

ARTICLE III

POWER AND AUTHORITY OF INSPECTORS

Sec. 301: The City of Coloma or Joint Board or other duly authorized representative of the Joint Board shall be permitted to enter upon all properties for the purpose of inspection, observation, measurement, sampling and testing, in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance at any time during reasonable or usual business hours.

ARTICLE IV

PERMITS

Sec. 401: All non-domestic users of the sewer system shall be required to apply to the clerk of the City of Coloma for a sewer use permit. The application shall contain a request for service and include the following:

(a) Nature of business or enterprise.

(b) Source and volume of water used in processing, cooling and waste transportation.

(c) Volumes in gallons of water to be discharged to sanitary sewers.

(d) All substances of a chemical, biological, or radioactive nature, other than those found in the source water supply, which are now or will be found in all wastewater discharges.

(e) Plan maps of buildings, waste treatment works, process flow patterns, outfall lines, and in-plant drainage lines. (If applicable)

(f) Samples, tests and reports from appropriate County and/or State Agencies on specified waste characteristics. (If applicable)

(g) Waste treatment facilities, process facilities, waste streams or other facilities generating wastes or possessing potential waste problems under designated control and supervision of persons who have been approved by appropriate State Agencies. (If applicable)

(h) A report on all raw materials entering the process or support systems, including analyses and assays provided by suppliers of raw materials. (If applicable)

(i) Records and reports on final disposal of specific liquids, solids, sludges, oils, radioactive materials, solvents or other hazardous wastes. (If applicable)

Sec. 402: The City of Coloma Clerk, after receiving the application, may request additional information, tests or samples. The City of Coloma Clerk may then issue a permit which shall contain the following information:

(a) State location of discharge points into sanitary sewers.

(b) Designation of maximum allowable volumes of wastewater to be discharged at discharge points.

(c) Designation of any discharge restrictions.

Legal Notice

At the regular meeting of the Coloma City Commission held on April 14, 1975 the following amendments to City Ordinances were adopted:

Amendment No. 1 to Ordinance No. 26

The City of Coloma pursuant to Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1972, State of Michigan, as amended, hereby adopts the Michigan Plumbing Code, and as it may be amended from time to time, as the Plumbing Code for said City.

The City Plumbing Inspector shall administer and enforce the provisions of said Code.

This amendment shall become effective twenty days from passage by the City Commission.

Amendment No. 1 to Ordinance No. 46

Section 1. This ordinance shall be enforced by the Berrien County Dog Warden or by a city dog warden appointed by the mayor. If a city dog warden is designated the fee shall be set by the City Commission.

This amendment shall become effective twenty days from passage by the City Commission.

(d) Designation of types and sizes of containment facilities to control process spills to the designated sewers.

(e) Provision for sampling and analysis of waste discharge to designated sewers.

(f) Provisions for filing reports on waste analysis with the City of Coloma.

(g) Provisions for notifying the City of Coloma of any changes in processes and/or wastes or proposed additional waste, or connections to the designated or other sewers.

(h) Establishing limits on specific waste constituents in mg/l and in pounds per day. Limits can include, but are not limited to BOD, COD, temperature, pH, suspended solids, suspended volatile solids, soluble metal wastes, toxins, pesticides, herbicides, solvents, detergents, and other wastes capable of creating hazards to humans, animal, or aquatic life or which might create any hazards to sewers, sewage treatment facilities or the receiving waters.

(i) Establishment of any fees deemed necessary to defray cost of sampling and/or analysis by the City of Coloma or Joint Board.

(j) The City of Coloma reserves the right, at any time, to reappraise the requirements of any industry for its use permit.

Sec. 403: Any industry that does not normally discharge to the sanitary sewer, but has the potential to do so from accidental spills or other circumstances, may be requested, by the City of Coloma to file or accomplish any of the above listed items.

ARTICLE V

PENALTIES

Sec. 501: Any person found to be violating any provisions of this ordinance shall be served written notice stating the nature of such violation and providing a reasonable time limit for the satisfactory correction thereof. The offender shall within the period of time stated in such notice, comply with the requirements thereof.

Sec. 502: Any person upon conviction of any violation of this ordinance shall be fined not more than $100.00 and costs, or by imprisonment of not more than 90 days or both. Each day or fraction of a day in which such violation shall continue shall be deemed a separate offense.

Sec. 503: Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be liable, in a civil action, to the Joint Board for any expense, including any fines imposed on the Joint Board by any State or Federal Agency for violation of NPDES Permit limitations, loss or damage occasioned by the Joint Board and/or Joint Plant by reason of such violation.

ARTICLE VI

VALIDITY

Sec. 601: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 602: The invalidity of any section, clause or provision of this ordinance shall not affect the validity of any other part of this ordinance which can be given effect without such invalid part or parts.

Formula for Computing Multiplying Constants
(M1) for Volume — (Project Capital Costs X 52% + Local O&M Costs - City Annual Flow in Million Gallons.
+ (Joint Plant O&M Costs X 28% - Joint Plant Annual Flow in Million Gallons.

(M2) for BOD — (Proj. Capital Costs X 19% + (Joint Plant O&M Costs X 28%) - Joint Plant Annual BOD Loading in 1000 Pounds.

(M3) for SS — (Proj. Capital Costs X 19%) + (Joint Plant O&M Costs X 27%) - Joint Plant Annual SS Loading in 1000 Pounds.

(M4) for P — (Proj. Capital Costs X 19%) + (Joint Plant O&M Costs X 17%) - Joint Plant Annual P Loading in 100 Pounds.

Project Capital Costs — Local City share of capital costs associated with the treatment plant and river interceptor (Berrien County Sewage Disposal System No. 3) budget for the ensuing fiscal year including bond and interest payments due; all adjusted for any excess or deficit from the previous years certified audit.

Local Capital Costs — Total capital costs associated with local collection system, including replacement costs, budget for the ensuing fiscal year including bond and interest payment due; all adjusted for any excess or deficit from the previous fiscal years certified audit.

Local O&M Costs — Collection system operation and maintenance budget for the ensuing year, not including any amounts calculated for depreciation; all adjusted for an excess or deficit from the previous years certified audit.

Percentage Figures — As developed by Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, Inc., Ann Arbor, Michigan. These figures shall be reviewed annually and revised as demanded by changes in treatment processes and/or plant modification.

City Annual Flow — Total waste, in million gallons, discharged by the City of Coloma to the Joint Plant during the past fiscal year reported as the total volume on which charges to the City of Coloma are based.

Joint Plant Annual Flow — Total waste, in million gallons, discharged during the past fiscal year reported as total volume on which charges are based.

BOD — Total weight of Biological Oxygen Demand, in 1000 pounds, received at the Joint Plant during the past fiscal year and as reported to State of Michigan DNR.

SS — Total weight of Suspended Solids; in 1000 pounds, received at the Joint Plant during the past fiscal year and as reported to State of Michigan DNR.

P — Total weight of Phosphorous, in 100 pounds, received at the Joint Plant during the past fiscal year and as reported to State of Michigan DNR.

U.S.A. Indicator

Forgive me if I take this weekend off; right now I'm sick of the world and suspect my readers are too. Instead of worrying about Vietnam or Portugal, I would like to introduce you to a fascinating game which I CALL, "Whose Knife?" My wife and I developed it when we lived in Washington, and all it calls for is a good newspaper and some imagination. The point of the exercise is to read an interpretive news story — or even a straight one — and figure out who is using the press to knife whom.

To forestall an epidemic of paranoia, let me hastily add that every story does not have a dagger hidden in it. (In other words, avoid the Metternich syndrome: when at the Congress of Vienna the Russian ambassador suddenly died, Metternich mused aloud, "Now I wonder why he did that?") Also, it helps to have some knowledge of what beats the various reporters cover. A White House correspondent will usually provide material reflecting the President's views; the Secretary of State (or "sources familiar with" his thoughts) will deal through the journalists assigned to Foggy Bottom. Grand Masters at "Whose Knife?" go even further, noting that columnist X or reporter Y went to law school with the Secretary of Defense's first cousin. . . but this is too esoteric and very discouraging to beginners.

Before taking a case let me provide some background. For some time now there has been a quite ferocious battle raging under the rug in the Oval Office. A number of President Ford's old friends and advisors have been urging him to clip Secretary of State Kissinger's wings. A couple of weeks ago correspondents on the Hill (note the significance of that) said the President was going to take over foreign policy formulation. By deduction, the expert at "Whose Knife?" immediately realizes that the President has been talking privately with his old Congressional buddies. Then there was a conciliatory gesture which was in itself suspect: the President said he wanted Secretary Kissinger to stay on, and Kissinger said he would be pleased to do so. A Grand Master at "Whose Knife?" would read all sorts of background into this seemingly innocent exchange, including a threatened resignation by Kissinger. But let's not pursue that further.

Now let's move to a specific case, a story in last Sunday's Boston Herald Advertiser by its Washington correspondent, John P. Wallach. The headline alone would bring any "Whose Knife?" expert on the dead run: "Ford Diplomatic Snafu Caused Breakdown in Mideast Negotiations." Obviously the weapon used here was bigger than a knife; perhaps a saber. To summarize the story, Wallach reported that just as Kissinger was on the edge of a breakthrough with the Israelis, a letter arrived from President Ford telling Prime Minister Rabin, in effect, to shape up or ship out. Wallach's supply of information was quite remarkable: "Kissinger now is reliably reported never to have seen the contents of the Ford letter . . . and frantically tried to stop its delivery." Later, "Kissinger's plan apparently (was to block the Ford letter because) he reportedly hoped to be able to substitute his own, milder version."

Then comes the lovely disclaimer: "Kissinger has refused to discuss details of the snafu, desiring to limit the friction that surfaced during those tense hours and not further embarrass the White House." (Emphasis added.) This is almost too good to be true, but I picked an easy one for beginning players. Who in the world could have provided information on what Kissinger was thinking and hoping? Answer? Doubtless, it was that "senior official traveling with the Secretary," which is Kissinger's favorite alias. Note also the way the dagger is twisted: wasn't it thoughtful of the Secretary not to further embarrass the White House? Translated this says, Kissinger is too nice a man to rub the President's nose in the dirt, even if the latter merits it.
